DONNA FLORES

Donna you flourish flourish! I really enjoyed your acquaintance in Geometry and part of Spanish.
I think you should become a model. But if you want to go to college and many beyond, so ahead!

Signed, Michael Hoover

Donna, what can I say! Looks like you gonna be my new sis-in-law
I hope so! 6/9/81/ you, Dr. Daryl, Kelli, Mike - 1/83/81! I can't believe we've been friends since 8th grade and were even closer now. I'm so glad. I hope we'll remain friends forever. I'm so glad you finally decided to change. I thought I was gonna be the only friend out and get out of the "Chels" scene! What a trip. I can't believe I was like that once! Now look at us, Kelli. It's so great we can go out and have fun together. I love going out w/ you you never seem to have a bad time or at least you're super enough to say you had a good time
I can't wait until we go to Las Vegas. I hope Doreen can go!
The three of us make a great trio - don't you agree? Well so great! Hah! I have a feeling you + Doreen are gonna be falling in love soon so then I'll be the only one who hasn't fallen in love! I'm not worried about it yet. I have good times anyway! I can't believe we have to go out to the cold cruel world and be adults now! What a total drag. I'm so depressed. I don't want to grow up! I feel like crying. We can never go back and relive all the fun times by Jr + Sr
High School! I guess we can look forward to the future
But since I'm still so unsure what's coming up I feel slightly insecure, like a little girl in a store and can't find mommies! How morbid. I'm so scared of screwing up my life as an adult or becoming fat + an alcoholic I'm so stupid. I hope we get to share more good times together. I'll always cherish the good times we've already shared. I'm happy for you and my brother I hope things work out between you two. I sincerely hope you two get married someday. I would be one of the happiest + proudest dears of my life! What a dream. Donna you are a beautiful human being inside and out (I hope know that) I know you will be a total success as a woman, a doctor, wife, and mother. You're the greatest. Thanks for thinking of me in your senior memories. I will never forget you! Always remember me with a smile on my face, then put a smile on yours
I love you!

Love friendship always from Mike Hill

DONNA, I CAN'T figure out where to start, I guess from the beginning we became friends easily all the memories from Taft & Chelus come to mind - Remember before school walking together meeting at the shopping center, Linda's house council hall!

11th grade was the best part of our friendship especially this yr. because of the time we got to share out of school. Through all your troubles I feel privileged to go through them with you you've got more guts to keep going than I think all the people I know have, including me. You and Linda are the only ones I feel a sisterly closeness too. I know, we all know, that's because of how far we've come together. That's the most important part of our friendship. I don't know with all you've been through how you maintained a person with such an open mind listen and always thinking good side of every subject happy for you & I know senior yr. will never be forgotten because of the many changes you made in your life 10th grade blast but we were just fooling ourselves 11th grade we were all separate but good things, all ways happy and fun will happen if they were meant to be and us 3 were meant to be best friends I love ya Donna & I'm as proud of you as anyone could be I'm dedicated enough to work on remaining friends forever & if you don't think it's possible I'll prove it to you! That would be a lot more memories & good times sounds like fun huh?

Donna,

Well can you actually believe it I'm finally signing your annual! Just think we've finally done it, YEA! Congratulations Graduate! Ya know we've made it through 12 hard yrs. of struggling, and now we have many, many years left. Truthfully, our life is just now beginning! Anyways, I really don't know what to say, getting to be really good friends with you has been "totally killer!" It's kinda weird though, Remember when I was going to fight Cindy, and you were on her side? To tell you the truth, I thought you were kinda' stuck up and conceeded yourself, but as the days grew, I guess I was completely wrong, Sorry! I guess first impressions are really hard to, base your friendship on, oh well, for the best, we ended up friends! And I'm really glad too, cuz' now I have a friend, I know I can talk to, and trust forever, whenever I'm feeling in the dumps! (And I hope you feel the same way, cuz' I'm always willing to listen o.k!) oh well, this year has been completely a blast. Remember when we had P.E. together, Badminton! That class speeded' by so quickly! And Biology, that was pretty fun. But most of all, I think working on the "Galaxy" will be the class I cherish the most, cuz' that's when we had plenty of time to spend together, and to get as close as we darn class! Just think, no more deadlines, exacto knives, wax machines gotta' out of that school, we're going to get payment deadlines, and HEADACHES! Yuck! Ya know I really wish we were going to the same school next year, it would be lots of fun! But who knows maybe after you finish Mesa you'll go over to UESD., at least you had better. Just think, we would have loads of things to do, meet new people, etc... And best of all, study together! oh well, enough of school for now, this is Summer. Gee, I'm going to miss you when you go to Guam. You had better write to me, o.k? Well, anyways, lets think of other mem-ories, such as Rookin' out at Journey, going to the movies, the sky Show, me out (Gee, Donna, thanks alot for helping that night!), and best of all, LUNCH! yea, Killer times! Just think, though, the best is still yet to come, now that we're older, and not little kiddies any more. (At times, that who knows is.) oh ya, and don't forget, someday, when, but we'll have to get an apartment together, that'll be fun! Dam, can you believe I'm writing so small, I'm starting to get these kinky writers cramps, Arthritis at an early age, oh no, Mr. Bill! Bill oh no Billy, gosh, I'm starting to miss him so much, who knows, just think someday if we get back together, that would be kinda neat! oh ya, and this coming winter, we have to go skiing, it's 'so much fun, you'd love every minute of it. Maybe we could all go, (Berta, Doreen, Linda, you and I.) That would be fun! Anyways, I gotta' start ending this essay. Meanwhile take care of yourself, stay the sweet girl you've been all year and of course keep up all the good work, and you've got it made. You've got everything going for you, looks, brains and a killer personality. Have fun in Guam, and if you see David, Say Hi for me!

P.S. - Do I get free services when you're a doctor, at least a discount!

Take Care

Love ya,

Robyn Harmon

The theme for the Komet '81, "Putting the Pieces Together," was chosen because of the variety of ways it relates to Kearny. The word "pieces" was used to represent the people, the activities and the memories that fit together like a puzzle in our minds.

1. Unlike the background "hams," Connie Sundstrom and Julie Class seem oblivious to the camera.

2. School was a place for friends like Liz Fulkerson and Daniella Knurbein to socialize.

3. For some people, lunch was made for relaxing on the shaded lawn.

4. The trees on the senior patio gave students like Bruce McDonald a way to get a better view of the numerous lunch activities.

5. Although it was sung at every pep rally and after every football game, many Kearny students didn't know the words to the "Alma Mater" until this poster was taped to the wall of the gym through the daring efforts of Luci Lagrimas and Mrs. Stewart.

6. Another daring student balances on the rail, while waiting in line by the financial office.

A Place For Everyone

Academics, sports, activities and clubs ... they're all an integral part of high school. Academics may be the basic reason we are all in school to begin with, but the others provide a necessary escape from the painful hours of study and homework.

Kearny is made up of people coming from a wide range of backgrounds and interests. Being the most thoroughly integrated school in San Diego presented a few extra problems. For example, because of the split in musical taste, the bands for dances were alternately soul and rock and roll. Major dances were especially unique problems. In past years two different bands were used for Homecoming. However, in order to cut down on the long break while one band moved off and the other moved on, one band was hired that supposedly played both. But, with a few compromises, everyone was offered something, and the problems were overcome.

No matter what a person's interests, there was something to get involved in. Young musicians had a wide variety of vocal and instrumental groups to choose from. The Komet and The Galaxy enabled students to actually produce a product. Athletic students joined both individual and team sports for fun and competition alike. (cont.)

A Time For Everything

(Cont.) Once an active group, the PABAS had an uneventful year. The German Club made its comeback by exploring German culture. Because of the variety of clubs offered to girls, (Dianas, Girls League, Lettergirls) an attempt was made to initiate a Key Club for the males of Kearny. Even if you weren't interested in joining anything there were always many interesting things to watch. During lunch there were competitions between the three grade levels including the lifesaver pass and the tug-a-war. Trike races, obstacle courses, pie-eating contests and mini-concerts were all enjoyed. After school there were musical and dramatic programs, along with favorites like the Dr. Dean Show.

While these separate groups were encouraged, unity was also stressed. The A.S.B. Council made a special effort to bring everyone together. The International Day, where representative food from various cultures were displayed and tasted was especially successful in furthering understanding between ethnic groups.

Not only Kearny, but the world is made up of many interlocking pieces. Despite the fragmented situation the world is in now, there is hope . . . especially when a school as diverse as Kearny can successfully put its pieces together.

1. Although the theme should have been "tomorrow," (because of the game being postponed) the Homecoming theme "yesterday" was carried out well in the A Cappella Choir's colorful float.

2. A study of contrasts is captured on the faces of the audience; a tone of the numerous pep rallies.

3. Changing roles in society are evident at Kearny, as T.J. Johnson gets transformed into a cheerleader by Tandy Dickerson.

4. In addition to increased participation, the various lunchtime activities also attracted a larger audience.

5. A thoroughly integrated school, Kearny saw its share of "low riders" in the multi-populated parking lot.

Student Life ... one of the most varied aspects of the three years a person spends in high school. Basically, "Student Life" is anything and everything a person does when not actually in class. Whether that means working at McDonalds, playing on the football team, dressing up for "Tourists Day", or just partying on the weekends, is up to the individual.

Like most high schools, Kearny had a lot to offer in the way of "extras". Not only did it have countless clubs and teams, but also a wide variety of activities, such as pep rallies, dances, grade competitions, and even a game of Donkey Basketball.

With such a wide variety of things or "pieces" to chose from, "putting the pieces" of student life together, proved to be the most enjoyable part of the year for most.

1. One of the most spirited students on campus, Dennis Borlek displays his Tourist Day attire.

2. "Race for your shoes" was one of the games the cheerleaders had the audience play, during an October pep rally.

3. Trying out for a part in the fall drama production, students nervously read a scene from, "A Streetcar Named Desire."

4. Sponsored by the PTSA, the back-to-school "Snails" dance was one of the most successful dances of the year.

Five Days of Kraze

Why were Kearny students seen riding tricycles between pylons and wearing 50's style clothing? Spirit Week! Every year the week of the Homecoming game is set aside for raising school spirit. Each day of the week there was a lunchtime activity sponsored by a club or organization.

It all started on Monday, October 13th, when the Homecoming Queen, Linda Hill, cut the official ribbon opening Spirit Week. The first lunchtime activity was the Senior Class sponsored obstacle course, in which one boy and one girl had to exchange roles. While the boys struggled into girls clothing, curlers, and lipstick the girls battled with boys clothing and shaving cream. Dennis Borlek and Linda Hill were the overall winners.

The Girls League sponsored Dance Contest was next. Despite the light showers in the middle of their routine, Patrick Jarrett and Kim Johnson managed to dance their way to victory. They received the grand prize of two Commodores Tickets. Both first and second place winners were awarded George Benson albums.

On Wednesday, amidst a crowd of leather jackets and pony tails, A Cappella presented a 50's style rock and roll show which included an outstanding solo by John Steinell and a group called "Double Stuff" sang "Charlie Brown."

1. Though she didn't win, Diana Gonzalez, shaving cream still on her face, makes a gallant effort at guzzling a cup of orange juice during the obstacle course on Monday.

2. In a hurry to continue with the race, Kelly Williss is slowed by this unfamiliar task in the obstacle course.

3. Showing her excitement, Kim Johnson jumps on her partner, Patrick Jarrett, after they were announced the winning couple of the dance contest.

Donna,
How's life? I missed you this year, it seems like last year
I saw you a lot more. I guess it's because I desire you more and more
Good luck! remember I love you,
Raff
Steinell

Thursday was devoted to the Junior Class Tricycle race in front of the school. Many spirited students entered in this fun-for-all event and provided a lot of entertainment for the large crowd that gathered to watch.

To finish off the week the cheerleaders held their annual Homecoming pep rally. Many cheerleaders from years past came to show off what they did, (and in some cases didn't) remember. As always, Spirit Week was a lot of fun and easily accomplished its purpose: To build enthusiasm and raise school spirit for the big event ... Homecoming!

4. During the Homecoming pep rally in the gym, enthusiastic alumni cheerleaders construct a formation much like that of the '80-'81 cheerleaders.

5. Though she previously had trouble staying on her trike, Kim Brown holds on as she and Bob Infantino come down the home stretch in the trike race.

6. A Cappella's John Steinell puts real feeling into singing "Jailhouse Rock" as a lively group of greasers and boppers, dressed for 50's day, look on in delight.

Failure Of Lights . . .

"It ruined a lot of our plans," said Dyana D'Amico, ASB president. "We were all crushed when we heard the news. Some of us were even crying."

For the second consecutive year, the lights at Mesa College Stadium have failed to operate for Kearny's Homecoming game. Unlike last year where half the game was played with the lights on, this year's game wasn't even played as scheduled because the lights simply did not work.

"Last year it was a lot of fun when the lights went out," said senior Lori Appling. "But this year there isn't any humor. The game won't be played at night but on a Saturday on someone else's field."

Despite ruined plans, the alternate Homecoming program turned out well. With the alumni present, an extra enthusiasm filled the air. The game was played under the hot sun with Mira Mesa battling the mighty Komets.

With the theme of "Yesterday," half time festivities began as the floats, created by A Cappella Choir and Senior Class, paraded the field. It was followed by the presentation of the court and their escorts.

Plans of winning the game succeeded as the Komets rallied to a 36-12 triumph over the Marauders. With spirits high on victory, students climaxed their eventful day at the Homecoming Ball. Held at the University Club, students, alumni, and teachers danced to the musical sounds of Avalon.

1. "Hey, you guys!" Disguised as a student, temporary ASB adviser, Joan Stewart, announces the upcoming half time festivities.

2. Shocked as can be, Linda Hill is overwhelmed with excitement as she is crowned the Homecoming Queen of 1980-81.

A Komet Tradition?

3. Rushing for yardage, #20 Paul Day, one of the best running backs in the county, eludes his defender and gets the first down.

4. Although frazzled by the excitement of the game, mascot Michelle Ohlson keeps the crowd alive with her unending Komet spirit.

5. Before an evening of dancing, Marcus Schreiber and Tonilyn Gazzola enjoy a quiet dinner at the classy Tom Ham's Lighthouse.

6. Passing in review, the Senior Class float has the advantage: a truck full of cheerleaders.

1. Anxiously, the Homecoming Court awaits the final decision as ASB President, Dyana D'Amico, introduces last year's queen, Carol Clabby.

2. Dining at the elegant Reuben E. Lee, Joey Castro and Linda Hill take time out for a personal moment of their own.

3. Terry Hicks, ASB Vice President, escorts sophomores Judy Mansfield and Sylvia Perez onto the field where in moments the queen will be announced.

4. Waiting in line to cast her vote in the final election, senior Toby Renteria takes time out for a smile.

5. "Dressed to kill" escort Pat Jarret thinks he's got the best looking attendant, junior Janice Bryant.

6. 1980-81 Homecoming Court: Queen: Linda Hill, Sr. Attendants: Sue Krebs, Toby Renteria, Jr. Attendants: Janice Bryant, Michelle Norwood, Soph. Attendants: Judy Mansfield, Sylvia Perez.

"I never made such a big deal in all my life," said Linda Hill, the Homecoming Queen of 1980-81. "At the coronation game, all I could think about was the crowning. I didn't even pay attention to the game."

Linda had a reason to be excited. It's not everyday that one gets crowned queen of her school. It is an experience she'll remember for the rest of her life.

This year's Homecoming court was comprised of a diversity of personalities, ranging from artist to athlete. Queen Linda Hill was a swimmer and a member of the ASB Council. She was one of Kearny's most active students.

Seniors Toby Renteria and Susan Krebs were well-known for their outstanding talents. Toby was a natural born artist while Sue was one of Kearny's best female swimmers.

Junior attendants Janice Bryant and Michelle Norwood were both members of the Secret Pals Club. Very supportive of our football team, Janice and Michelle were always seen at the games cheering for their favorite guy.

Last but not least, sophomores Judy Mansfield and Sylvia Perez made up the rest of the court. Judy was a member of the yearbook staff and Sylvia was a cross country runner.

Queen Of The Hill

Back To Basics . . .

There was a time midway through July when summer seemed it would last forever. You could stay up all night on a Monday or Tuesday, sleep till noon, and lay out at the beach for the rest of the day. There were no worries of teachers, tests or homework. We were free to do whatever we wanted to do. However, September somehow snuck up on us.

The first sign of school's inevitable return was marked by the registration packets that were received by students in the mail. On days of registration, seniors, juniors as well as a few sophomores were seen roaming about the campus, investigating the newly painted lockers or reminiscing with friends they hadn't seen over the summer.

Because sophomores are automatically registered into the school's enrollment through the use of a computer, the ASB Council acquainted them with the school by inviting them to an orientation, introducing to them the various activities as well as their individual counselors.

Yes, the inevitable day has arrived . . . the first day of school. Hundreds of students flooded the once unoccupied campus with conversation. People, while standing in line for their program, talked about teachers, classes and old times.

Back To School

1. With looks of intense concentration, sophomores listen to the important information that is being directed to them by the ASB President.

2. With students anxious to get to school, traffic along Mesa College Drive was heavier than usual.

3. Standing patiently in line, Norinne Cronkite awaits the chance to schedule her classes for the new year.

4. Trying to fulfill the likes and needs of each student, counselors Mr. Blair, Mr. Seal and Mrs. Kruger work intensely with their students.

5. Because of the wide range of classes to choose from, Mark Malpass has a difficult time of putting together his class schedule.

Spirits High on Halloween

When Count Dracula or Prince Charming comes in to teach a class, or when, while eating lunch, you observe the Cookie Monster or a banana walk by, you know something's up. So, unless you're hallucinating, it's probably Halloween.

As usual, Halloween was a day filled with all kinds of fun. In the morning, the Secret Pals delivered the pre-ordered lollipops. Then, at lunch, the annual costume judging was held. Terry Hicks and Bob Infantino shared first place, together portraying ladies of the evening. Second place went to Mr. Janc and the secretaries as Prince Charming, Snow White and the 7 dwarfs. Shari Selinger received third place for her portrayal of a puppet.

1. Prince Charming, Snow White and the seven dwarfs (all faculty members) show their high spirit, as they win second place at the costume judging.

2. Half of the first place team, Terry Hicks, flirtily shows what he's got, following the judging.

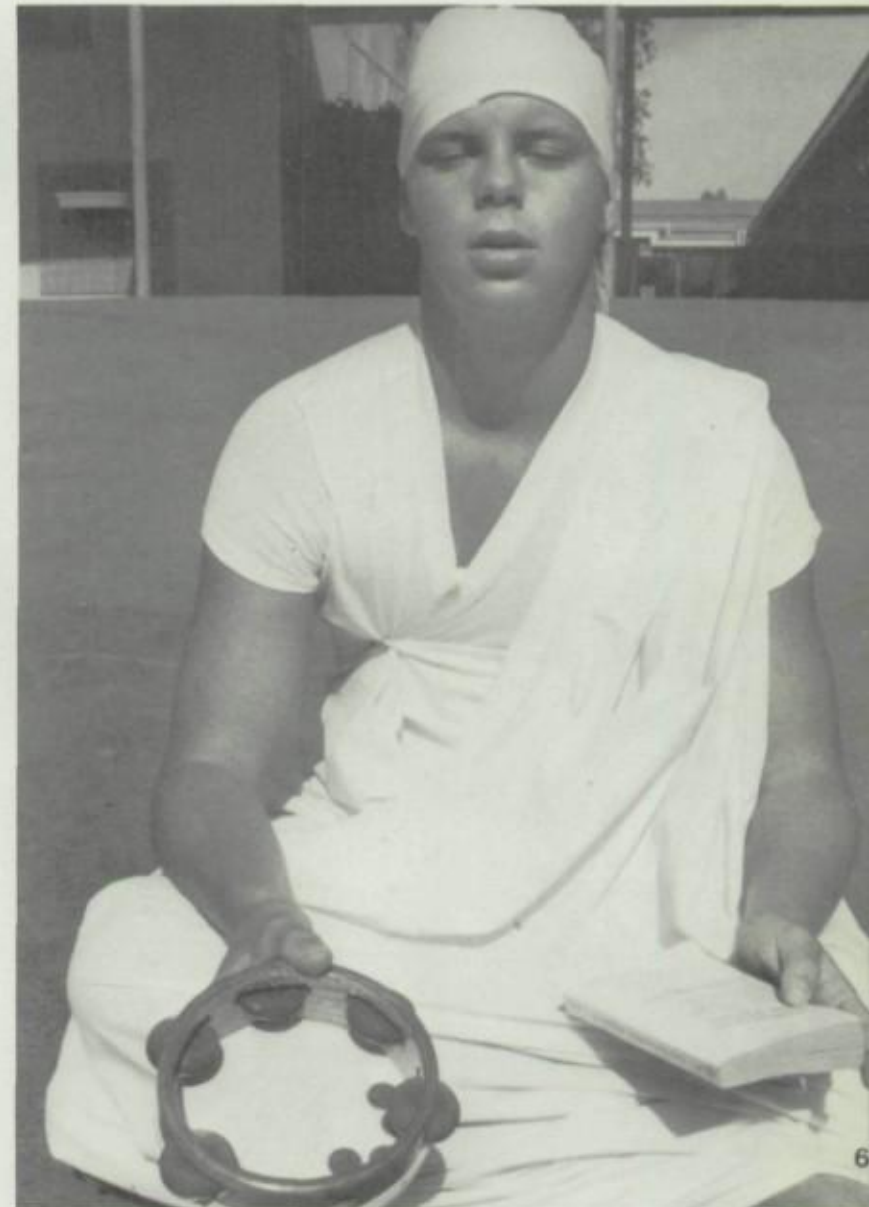

3. A disgusted Gene Simmons (Sean Eammons) shows his feelings for the Blues Brothers (Jerry Kimbrough and Tim Schade) on the Senior Patio at lunchtime.

4. Dressed as the Cookie Monster and looking pretty hungry, Brenda Villandre captures the crowd's attention during the costume judging.

Donna, it's been nice knowing you although I don't know you all that good. I hope in the future we can become closer. So now you're out of school we'll be careful in that "crazy" world out there! Hope to see you this summer at parties or something. Love & Friends
Quoby S.

Halloween is always one of the most well-responded-to "special days" of the year. A multitude of students and faculty were seen in masquerades varying from a sailor to a bag of trash. Why is Halloween so well responded to? It must be that everyone is filled with spirit!

5. Even without words, the message of high spirits that mime, Dale Matsudas smile conveys is clear.

6. Deep in meditation, Karl Becker is having some bad luck trying to get donations during lunch.

Lunchtime Sees Change

"Hmm... What looks good? Maybe an order of fries, a hamburger and a Coke." More and more students went off campus for their lunch. But, there were still those who either brought their lunch from home, or bought lunch on campus.

For those who went off campus, things had changed. Where there was a Carl's Jr., John's Hamburgers took over. The Azteca Taco Shop became the Hong Kong Express, and the vacant lot across the street finally emerged as the "coming soon" Square Pan Pizza.

For those students who ate on campus, there were also slight changes. The Kampus Kounter was closed because the selling of candy was forbidden under the new state law. New vending machines arrived which sold chips, cookies, and other types of snacks.

Eating on campus provided a few advantages over eating elsewhere. It generally cost less, and students could read or do other homework while they ate. Some students brought their lunches out on the lawn and enjoyed the company of friends under a tree, while others ate lunch in the lunch arbor or senior patio, and still others chose to violate regulations and ate their lunches in the parking lot.

Although there were a lot of changes for lunchtime, it still proved to be the most popular part of the day.

1. A group of friends sit and talk on the lawn in front of school while finishing off their lunches.

2. "John's Hamburgers" provides a wanted break from the regulations of school.

3. While pausing from lunch for a moment, Carlos Bautista glances, with a perplexed look on his face, toward a fellow student.

4. Hamburger in pocket and malt in hand, Micah Allnutt is momentarily interrupted with a bit of scenery.

5. Leisurely, Scott Toliver and Karen Altman enjoy their lunch, illegally, in the parking lot.

Donna,

I was sure glad I got to meet you. I wish you would have been in one of my classes. But at least we saw each other in the hallways going to class. I know good things will come your way. Take Care, Best Wishes.

Love, doi

Munchtime Madness

When the 11:55 bell rang, students fled from their classrooms and headed for the lunch areas. Not only spending their lunch hour eating, students were involved in other things. Pep rallies, contests and live bands were among these noontime attractions.

Pep rallies were enjoyable for everyone, with their crazy contests and games. Both students and teachers alike were randomly chosen from the audience to participate in the activities. Most of all, athletes for whom the rallies were targeted, were enthused and inspired.

Amateur bands had the opportunity to practice by playing the popular tunes of the day, while the students reveled in the live music experience.

Contests were sponsored through various organizations. They gave students a chance to participate, while others enjoyed the entertainment.

When the 12:55 bell rang, students pushed forward to their next class, the memory of an enjoyable hour past easing the pain of the long one ahead.

Donna,

It's been great working with you in the feature Department of the Galaxy this year. You are a great person and very pretty as well. Take care of yourself and have a wonderful summer! You've earned it! Love,
Dyana D'Amico

1. Lincoln Jazz Band displays its musical talents while entertaining an excited crowd.

2. During an A.S.B. open forum, Dyana D'Amico explains the council's duties and responsibilities.

3. Students line up to sample the scrumptious food available at the International Food Fair table.

4. After eating a quick dessert, these participants enjoy a messy pie fight.

5. Many students were entertained by the delightful voice of Ralph Tristan, during an A Cappella performance.

6. Half football player and half cheerleader—what an unusual way to entertain a crowd!

7. Basketball players vs. the Field Hockey Team in a game of broom hockey? That's lunchtime entertainment.

The Competition Goes On

Throughout Kearny's history there has always been a certain amount of animosity and competitiveness between the various grade levels. New ways to channel these energies were constantly sought.

A.S.B. director of activities, Cheryl Buchanan, came up with a few off-the-wall competitions, which pitted the three grade levels against each other. Such things as the Tug-o-War, the Life Saver Pass, the Banana Split Eating Contest and the Pyramid Building Contest gave students a chance to exhibit hidden talents of strength, dexterity and appetite, while working for his/her grade level's glory.

Though they were officially titled "grade competitions," the competitiveness usually subsided into good-natured fun among newly acquainted friends.

3. The Varsity Cheerleaders take it to the top as they win first place for the seniors in the Pyramid Building contest.

4. With an abundance of strength, the Water Polo team pulls for a victory against the Football team.

5. Stick to stick, juniors, Kelly Willis and Dawn Bartlett, keep a steady eye on their lifesaver.

6. Sticking his face into what seems to be a banana split, junior, Donald Barron, takes the plunge.

Student Involvement: A Thing Of The Past?

The original purpose of these two pages was to creatively depict the results of a hoped-to-be successful T-Shirt Contest. However, because only eight students even bothered to participate in the contest, a number that the yearbook staff felt wasn't sufficient to fill three categories, it was decided to change the subject of these two pages to student involvement in school activities.

As the year wore on, student participation in activities gradually decreased to a bare minimum. The exceptions to the rule were Spirit Week, Homecoming, Halloween, the Komet Kruise, the football and basketball games, Dr. Dean and the usually well-attended end-of-the year senior activities.

On the other hand, pep rallies, class competitions, PTSA dances and other lunchtime activities lacked the attendance they should have received. Did the once-alive Komet spirit wither away?

ASB Advisor Sharri Sedlock comment-

T-Shirt Contest

ed, "I don't think the spirit has gone. It's just that interests have changed and the ASB Council has little chance in giving students what they want, such as a dance at Journey."

"Open campus" lunchtime proved to be the number one cause for decreased student involvement in ASB sponsored activities. Because students favored fast food restaurants over cafeteria food, the ASB Council saw many of its would-be participants drive off in cars, only to return at 12:45, for 6th period.

Other underlying causes included: poor publicity, lack of organization, and a student body with demands that were so diverse they were impossible to meet.

1. Despite the low turnout, Yearbook staffer Natalie Riddle waits patiently for the very few students who entered the contest.

2. The few but proud students that attended the Sock Hop sponsored by E.S.A.A. had an enjoyable afternoon amongst friends.

3. A few students, such as Mark Yogerst, took an early interest in the ASB sponsored "Komet Kruise" by buying their bids in advance from the financial office.

4. Activities were planned extensively throughout the year, as shown on the monthly calendar for February.

5. Contestants of the T-Shirt Contest: Hamid Ahmadian, Dallas Harris, Bino Gonzales, Anne Marie Mills, Tom Prevost, David Price, Leslie Salton, Tanya Wagner.

"A Streetcar Named Desire"

After six weeks of building sets, making costumes and rehearsing, the drama department's fall production of "A Streetcar Named Desire" was finally ready for public view. One of Tennessee Williams' masterpieces, the play, directed by Jack Winans, was presented on November 17th, 19th and 20th. With superb acting from stars Tony DiCarlo, Michelle Toscano, Kim Hatch and Mark Ashley, the play earned itself two sellout performances and a fourth place in the High School Theatre Festival, sponsored by the Southern California Educational Theatre Association.

The basic conflict centers around the confrontation of Blanche DuBois and Stanley Kowalski. Blanche, a delicate moth-like creature is a throwback to a different era of the gentle South. She yearns for a knight in shining armor to come and protect her. She meets Stanley, her brother-in-law, and the confrontation leads to the destruction of Blanche's mind and spirit.

The cast was made up of a majority of juniors and sophomores. When asked about the caliber of his cast, Mr. Winans commented, "We have a fine group of quality actors and actresses. With this to our advantage, we should be one of the top contenders in next year's theatre festival."

1. "What did she say?" "Catch what?" Lisa Alexander and Chris Asaro humor themselves with a joke about Stanley.

2. "Where were you? In bed with your—Polack!" Blanche (Michelle Toscano) criticizes her sister, Stella (Kim Hatch).

3. The boys, Ron Mills, Ken Jones, Mark Atkinson, and Tony DiCarlo, meet for a night of beer and poker.

4. Trying out for the starring roles of Blanche and Mitch, Luzy Boyd and Mike Schreiber recite a few lines from the play.

5. "I've been on to you from the start!" Tony DiCarlo gives a fine portrayal of Stanley Kowalski, a prototype of an animalistic male.

6. With a variety of talents to choose from, director Jack Winans closely studies the acting abilities of each prospect.

Rock, Soul, Punk or ?

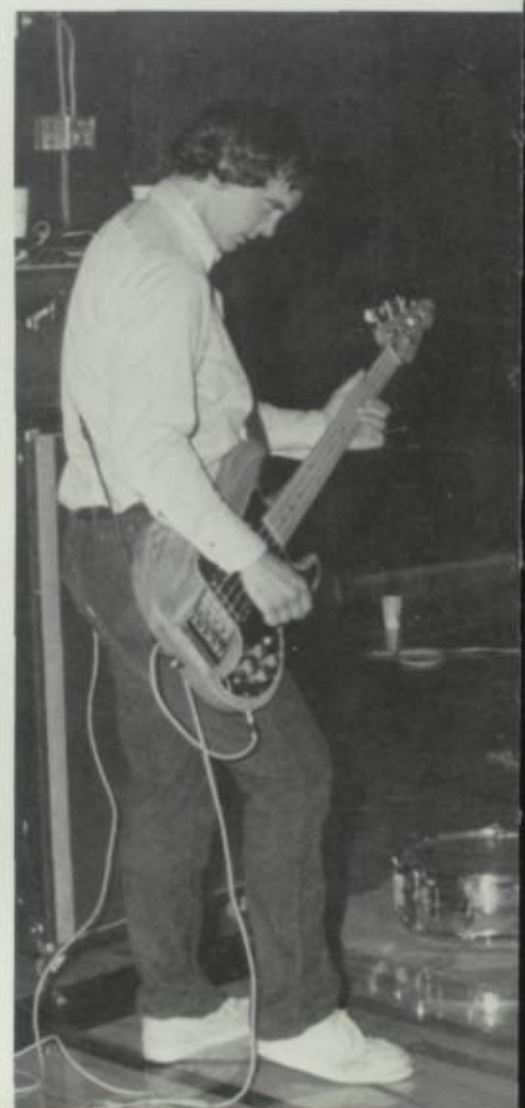

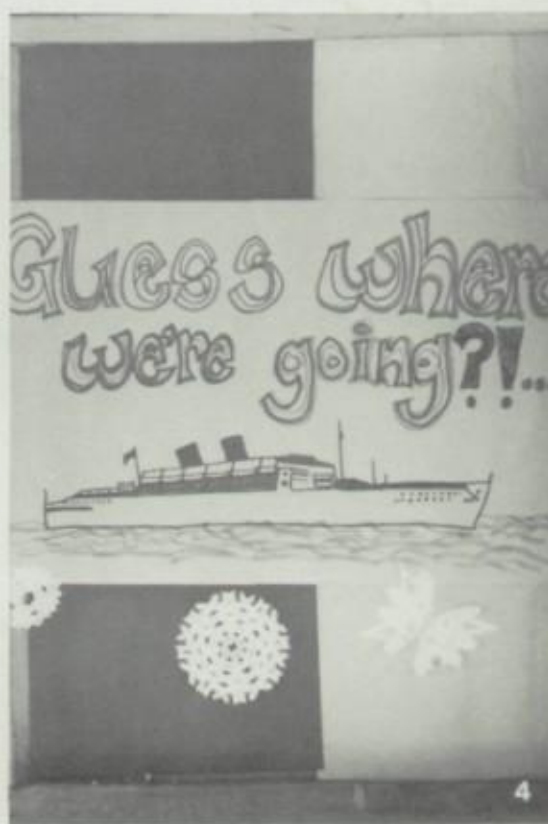

Discotheque and parties were just a couple of the many places students spent their nights dancing. Another place young people could be found dancing was Kearny's own gym.

The Homecoming Dance was the most popular dance open to the entire school population. It gave students a chance to go all out with formal gowns and tuxes, and enjoy the elegant surroundings of the University Club.

The first school dance of the year, featuring "The Snails," was very successful.

Over 150 students came to listen to the rock music. It enabled students to get to know each other on a different basis from school, while dancing to the live beat of punk.

Throughout the entire year, there were successful school dances, ranging from the Komet Cruise to the Prom. Unfortunately, several others were cancelled. One of the biggest problems the ASB and the PTSA had when planning dances was the different musical tastes of Kearny students.

1. Couples snuggle up for a slow dance at Homecoming.

2. While having a good time, students exhibit their dancing skills in the boys' gym.

3. After finishing an exhausting dance, Ron and Susie decide to take a breather.

4. Signs play a big part in advertising the upcoming dances. Found on the senior patio, this one aroused everyone's curiosity.

5. Awaiting the long hours ahead, the band Avalon decides to do a warm-up song.

6. At Kearny's first dance of the year, the Snails display their slightly punk version of rock music.

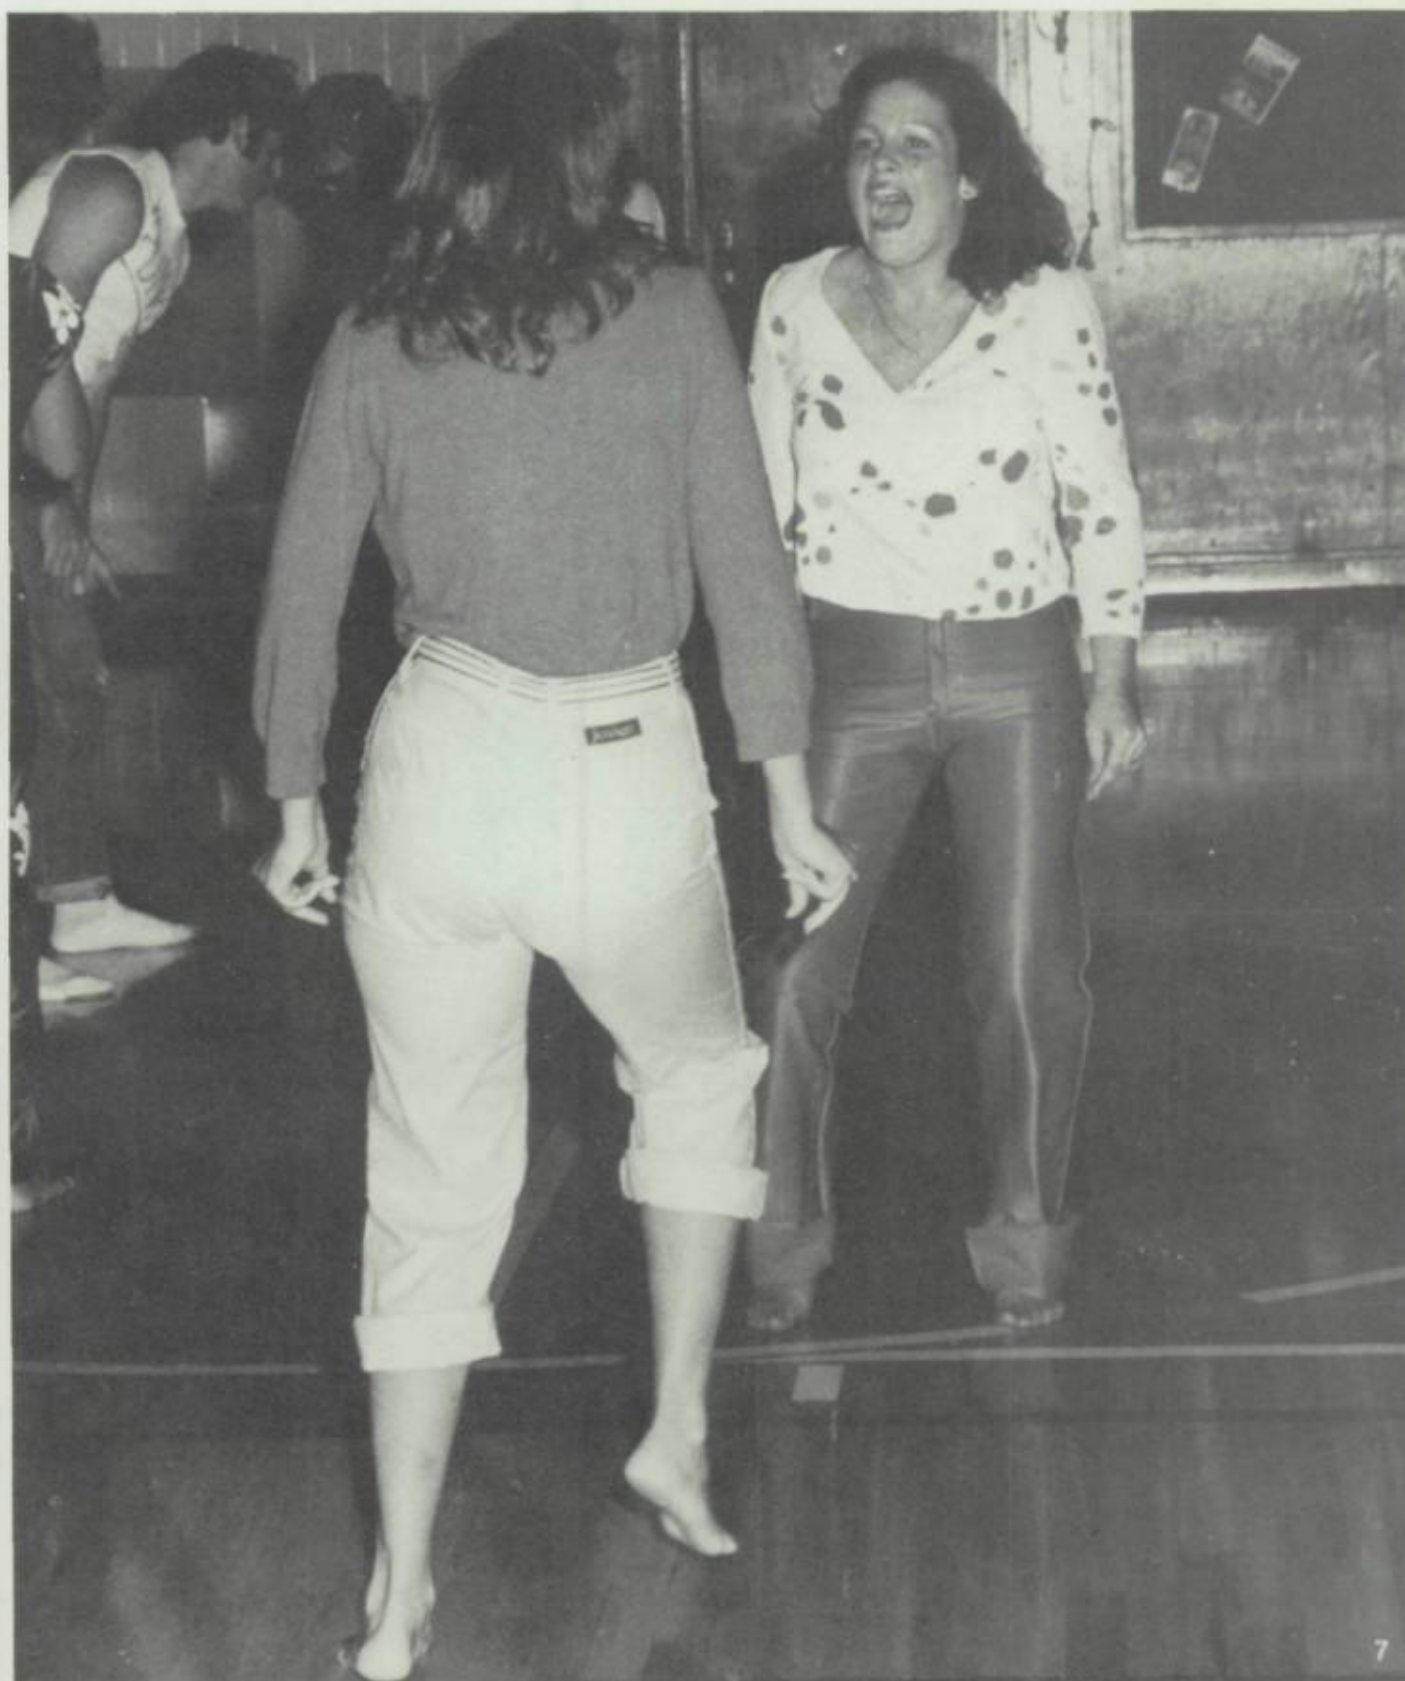

7. Dancing the night away can be tiring, but these energetic girls carry on together.

“I Have To Dress Like A What?!”

“How come there are people walking around in sheets?” “Those aren’t sheets. They’re togas.”

Toga day was only one of the many special days set aside for students to dress up or show their spirit in other ways. There was also Tourist Day, Punk Rock Day, Soul Day, Charger Power Day, Jock Day, and Mickey Mouse Day.

These special days were aimed at raising school spirit and giving the students something fun to do, while attending school and learning at the same time.

Enough special days were set up so that there was one to suit everybody’s tastes. A lot of students participated and made them a great success.

1. A crowd of people dance to the beat on the Senior Patio for Soul Day.

2. While waiting for the music to start, Heini Laminpinen models her punk outfit.

3. Patiently, Kathy Tatum and Janet Lockman wait in a crowded lunchline on Tourist Day.

4. Among the few who participated on Toga Day, Jeanne and Rosanne Perez show their spirit by wearing togas.

5. On Punk Rock Day, a group of punk rockers get into music by Devo, during lunch on the Senior Patio.

6. Three tourists (Joe Olivier, Denise Wilgeroth, and Jenny Alkire) take time out from lunch to look for directions.

Students Come Out At Night

Though Kearny usually closed its doors by sunset, there were several occasions when it opened them for night time activities.

One of the biggest events was the appearance of hypnotist, Dr. Dean. His subjects entertained the audience by singing, dancing, and even stripping! With the help of Dr. Dean, the audience was able to hear such performers as: Mick Jagger, Devo and The B-52's. Others weren't so impressed. "It was like eating three Sinutabs and trying to stay awake, but I wasn't really hypnotized. I did succeed in fooling everyone," said Tom Dreher, an audience volunteer.

Receiving city-wide recognition for its unique structure, Mrs. Stewart's carefully planned Open House proved to be entertaining and informative for all attending. It was held on November 18th.

All the school departments gathered to show parents and visitors what really goes on at Kearny. There was a lot of food from various organizations and entertainment was provided by the A Cappella Choir.

Another activity was the Winter Holiday Concert, held the evening of December 17th. The Gospel Choir, A Cappella Choir and the Vocal Jazz Ensemble performed. Mr. Robert Graeff directed the program, which featured Christmas music.

These "after hours" activities gave students a chance to do something enjoyable on weeknights, and also an opportunity to come to school for something other than classes.

1. The Vocal Jazz Ensemble performs at the Winter Holiday Concert.

2. Dr. Dean goes down the line, hypnotizing students with a handshake.

3. Dr. Dean convinces Bob and Sue Infantino to sing "Whip It," Devo style.

4. Bill Oates and Diane Ehmcke help some visitors at the Annual Staff table.

5. Officers, Judy Mansfield, Angela Dukes, and Carleen Johnson, sell home-baked cookies for the Sophomore Class.

Donna~

It was great havin' you on the GALAXY this year!! I hope everything you do in life turns out peachy keen! Have a great summer and don't forget me! Keep in touch - and stay sweet!

Earning For The Future

Fast food restaurants, the Stadium, department stores and movie theaters ... these places were not only recreational spots where people went on the weekends, but also places in which many Kearny students found employment.

High School students obtain jobs for many reasons, ranging from: saving to buy a car, paying college entrance fees, or just to have the extra money for their many everyday expenses. Jobs gave teenagers a chance to display their independence and gain experience which would help them to pursue a better job in the future.

"The Career Center is a one stop shopping spot for college information, scholarships and job career guidance information; R.O.P. classes and Center for Industry registration," commented career counselor, Mr. Cheever. With its bulletin board on which the many available jobs were posted and its counselors eager to help, the Career Center played an important part in student employment. Students were presented with many job opportunities that would have otherwise gone unknown.

In some cases, students were able to work at several jobs during the year. Having tried so many different jobs at an early age benefited students in the competitive career market.

"Where did you get that skirt?"

"I found it with some of my Mom's high school clothes." As unlikely as that might sound, with 1981 fashions it was not uncommon to find clothing, fads and even music carried over from past generations.

40's style pleated wool skirts and monogrammed sweaters were popular fashions seen around campus, along with the newer trend of "Urban Cowboy" costumes. Jeans also made a comeback with a classy designer look.

Punk rock provided the material for an abundance of fads. Butch-cut short hair became acceptable for boys again. The bright colors of the early 60's exploded in purple, yellow, red and orange outfits.

Music took a more simplistic angle. Punk and new wave brought back early rock and roll and added a mechanical beat. After the tragic death of John Lennon, the country went back to its musical roots in a new surge of Beatlemania.

Though we might like to think our generations' fads were unique and new, for the most part, they were slightly modified fads of the past.

3. Blazers were worn to compliment an assortment of outfits. Theresa Johnson models her stylish tweed, complete with feathers.

4. Printed jumpsuits, like this one worn by Susie Fahey at the Homecoming Dance, proved to be both a popular and versatile type of clothing.

5. Ever since the debut of the movie, "Urban Cowboy," western attire became quite stylish. Marcella Alvarez models her fashionable boots.

1. Filled with newspapers, the Komet Kube is ready to be emptied.

2. Red paint undoubtedly gave the locker halls a different look. Because of it, students found it hard to find their old lockers, which used to have landmarks of graffiti and not so picturesque designs.

3. Wearing their Komet T-shirts, a shy Michelle Segal hides behind her boyfriend, Chris Graham.

4. Money in hand, Tony Gin is forced into a quick decision by the sound of the tardy bell.

Additions Prove Profitable

"What happened to the lockers?" ... "You mean no more cokes?" and "Where do I pick up my t-shirt?" were just a few of the questions brought about by the numerous changes and additions on campus. There were changes that improved the school's physical appearance, changes to help raise money, and changes that gave students and teachers a chance to show their spirit.

When students returned to school in September they were greeted with ... new red lockers. Although the color was not readily accepted by the student body, it gave the lockers a cleaner look, as opposed to last year's graffiti and graphic pictures.

Because of a new law, banning the sale of candy and carbonated drinks during school hours, the ASB Council, in order to make up for lost funds, had snack machines put in various spots on campus. Not only did the machines bring in money for the ASB General Fund, but they were able to satisfy "the munchies" students experienced between classes.

Also adding to the ASB General Fund were the debuts of: the Komet T-shirts, the Komet Kube, and the personal marquee advertising.

The closure of the Kampus Kounter and the opening of "The Student Body Shop" proved to be one of the biggest changes on campus. Under the management of the ASB Council, the "Shop" sold spirit items and provided students with a place to discuss future additions.

5. Personal messages, such as this one created by Duane Merriweather, could be seen every day on the school Marquee Board.

6. With news of all items at ½ price, Angela Warner rushes into the Kampus Kounter to see what she can buy.

“Thank God It’s Friday!”

“5, 4, 3, 2, 1, ... R-r-i-n-g!” The final bell of the day sounds off and a sigh of relief is expressed by both students and teachers alike.

After the last question was asked, the last bit of homework assigned, and the locker halls emptied, students turned their faces toward home and to a part of their lives outside of Kearny. All year long, five days a week, seven hours a day, students were entertained with school activities and classes, while homework was the main attraction at night. However, when Friday nights rolled around, books were left closed until the following Sunday night, and students happily obligated themselves to seek their own entertainment. This was when the unique personality of each student from Kearny emerged.

On this much celebrated night, teenagers could be found doing just about anything. While many chose to splurge their earnings at local movie theatres, fun centers, skating rinks and discotheques, others decided to spend the night “partying.” For those who were limited in terms of financial or transportational means, many students found themselves watching “J.R. get shot” or catching up on some lost sleep. There was even a rarity of students doing their homework to avoid last minute rushes.

Nevertheless, Friday nights will always symbolize the end of a grueling school week and the beginning of a fun-filled weekend.

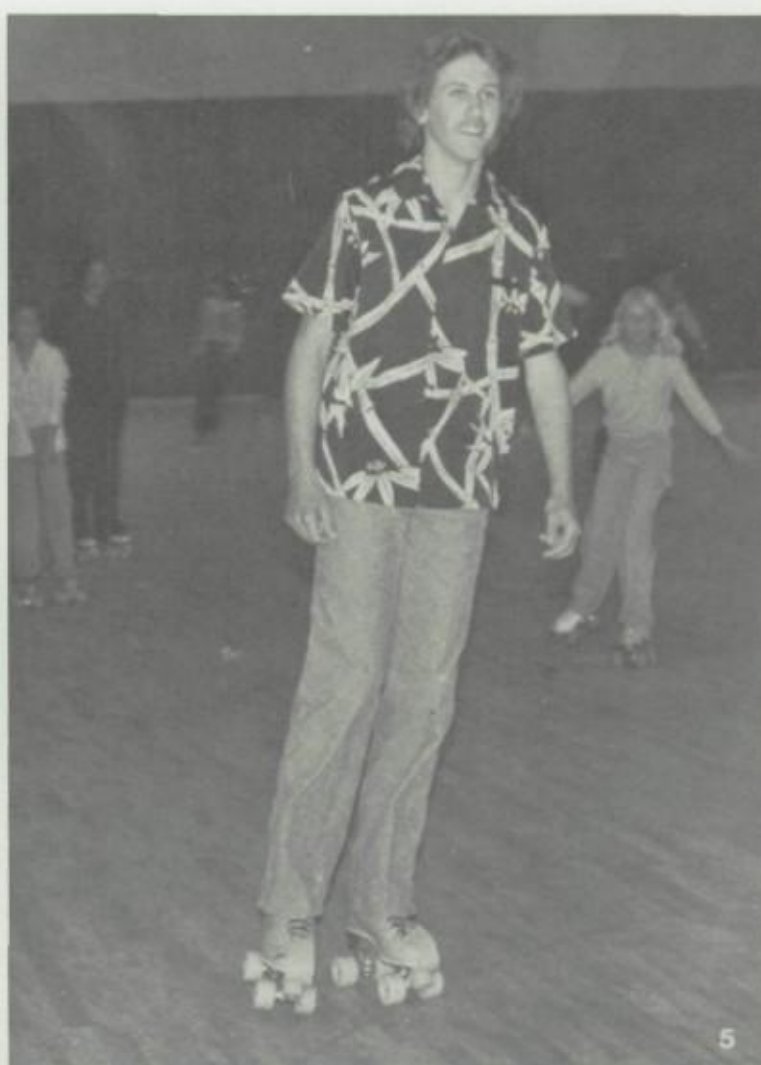

1. Bob Garnier and a friend test their skills on some of the computer space games at the Clairemont Fun Center.

2. Even with the high price of admission, going to view a movie on a Friday night was still a popular thing to do.

3. After watching a basketball game, Mark Menas, and alumni students, Bill Rubidoux and Rich Davidson, spend the rest of their evening playing miniature golf.

4. Discotheques, such as Journey, proved to be popular places for disco goers and punk rockers alike.

5. Looking for "action," Joe Olivier spends his Friday night hanging out at Skate World.

Two Days of "R and R"

Did you ever wake up on Saturday morning thinking that you were late for school, only to realize that it was the weekend? Then, you had the hardest time trying to figure out what you did the night before.

What did people really do on weekends? For the first half of the school year, many football fans spent their Sundays watching the games on T.V. or spending large sums of money to see their favorite team in person. Charger Fever hit an all time high and found thousands of fans flocking to every sold-out game.

San Diego's warm and sunny weather attracted a lot of beach-goers on weekends. Some came to swim or surf, while others came to play frisbee or volleyball. There were always those who came to just lay in the hot sun for a few hours.

One Sunday morning was set aside for Ed Kramer, who was partially paralyzed in an ocean related accident over the summer. Several friends organized a Mobilathon at De Anza Cove. More than sixty people came with sponsor sheets to walk, jog, roller skate or mobilize themselves in any way without a motor to raise money for Ed.

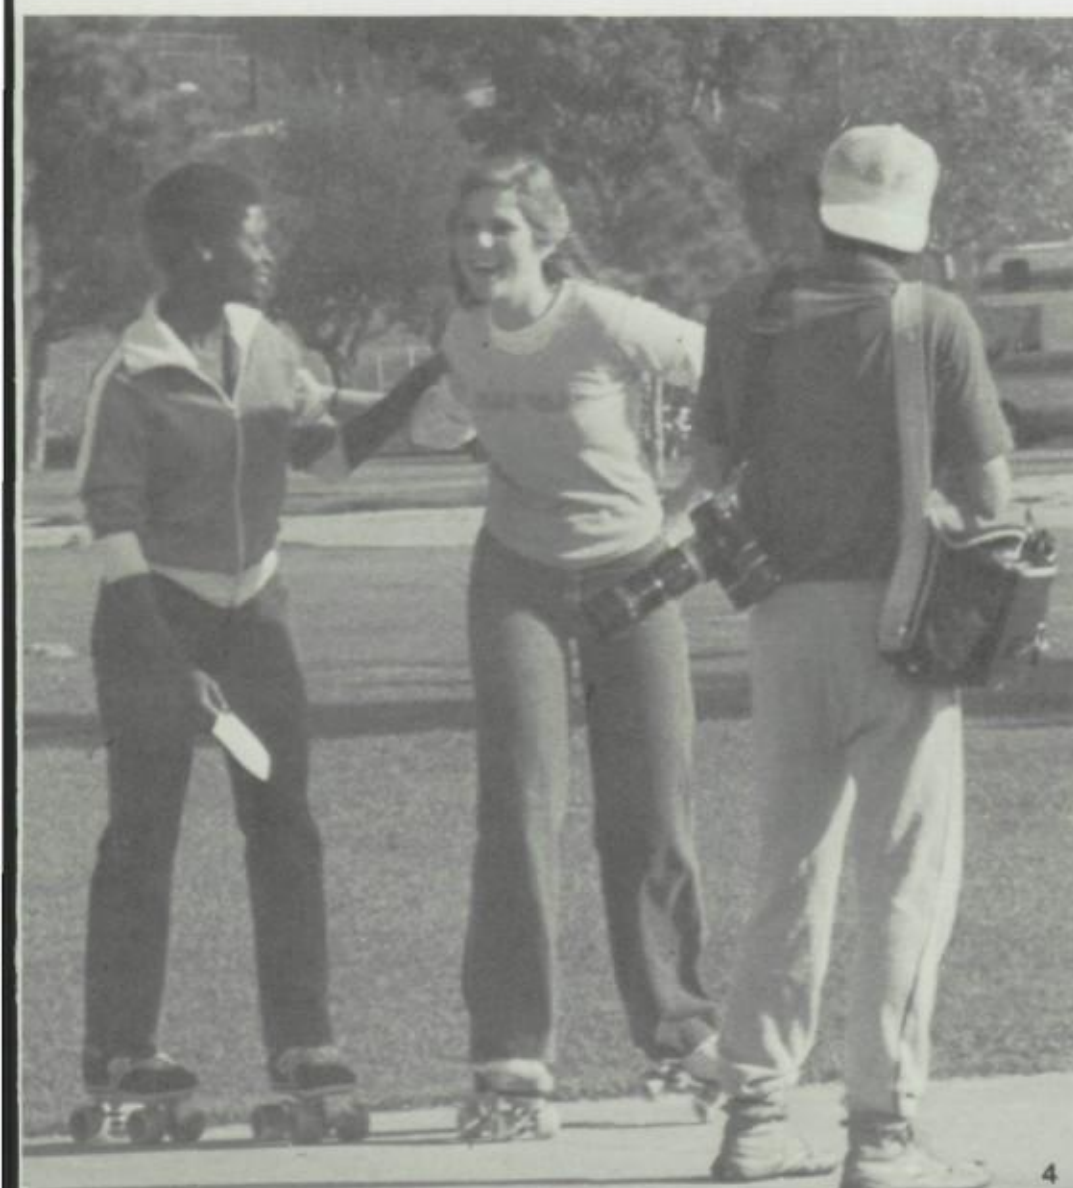

Students also spent weekends enjoying their favorite sports. Some got together with friends to play football or frisbee. Others went trail riding or exercised their skill of skateboarding at one of the local skateboard parks.

As always, some enjoyed the peace and quiet of just kicking back at home over the weekend, or were "stuck at home" with homework for at least part of the weekend. The diversity of activities that went on over the weekends just goes to show that weekends were more than just rest days sandwiched between school.

... Meanwhile ... Back In The Outside World

Listed among the major international events was the release of the 52 American hostages in Iran. Marking the end of his presidential career, Jimmy Carter ended the 444-day ordeal when he negotiated the release of 8 billion dollars in frozen assets to the Iranian government. Just minutes before the papers were signed in Algeria, Ronald Reagan was inaugurated the 40th president of the U.S., promising to launch "an era of national renewal" in his forthcoming term.

Perhaps the most shocking news of the year was the untimely death of former Beatle, John Lennon. Having just released his record, "Double Fantasy," Lennon, survived by wife Yoko Ono and son, Sean, was gunned down outside of his New York apartment. Vigils were held all over the world to commemorate his death.

Other deaths of the year included: actors Steve McQueen and Peter Sellers, Colonel Sanders, Alfred Hitchcock and the deposed Shah of Iran.

1. An outbreak of infectious hepatitis at Gulliver's Restaurant in Mission Valley prompted health officials to urge persons who ate there after July 3rd to see their doctor as a precaution.

2. A fifty-yard touchdown strike from Dan Fouts to Ron Smith, with 2:08 left to play, gave the Chargers a 20-14 victory over the Buffalo Bills, their first playoff victory since 1963.

3. Accepting the cheers of a crowd at Fashion Valley Shopping Center, Ronald Reagan appears on a makeshift stage in the parking lot. The campaign rally closed Reagan's 1980 presidential campaign.

4. Former hostage, Richard Morefield, and his wife Dortha, are greeted by friends and thousands of well-wishers at Lindbergh Field.

In other news—with a blast as powerful as the largest hydrogen bomb ever exploded, Mt. St. Helens blew ash and dust ten miles high, leaving 34 dead. Death also took its toll in the war between Iran and Iraq, the revolution in El Salvador and the riots in South Africa.

“Who shot J.R.?” became quite a puzzle as viewers of the show “Dallas” found that J.R.’s sister-in-law, played by Mary Crosby, was the one who pulled the trigger.

The gambling capitol of the world saw two of its finest hotels go down in ruin as the MGM Grand and the Las Vegas Hilton both experienced disastrous fires.

In sports, athletes from the U.S. and other countries boycotted the Summer

Olympics in Moscow; Swede, Bjorn Borg captured his fifth straight Wimbledon single’s title; the Oakland Raiders became the Super Bowl champions and the Philadelphia Phillies won their first World Series Title. Sugar Ray Leonard and Roberto Duran proved that there could be only one fight of the century per year, while egotist Muhammed Ali made one comeback too many.

The gas crunch became increasingly evident as more compact cars and mopeds took to the road and more and more people made use of public transportation.

Overall, the past year, like any other, had its share of tragedies, deaths, triumphs and firsts.

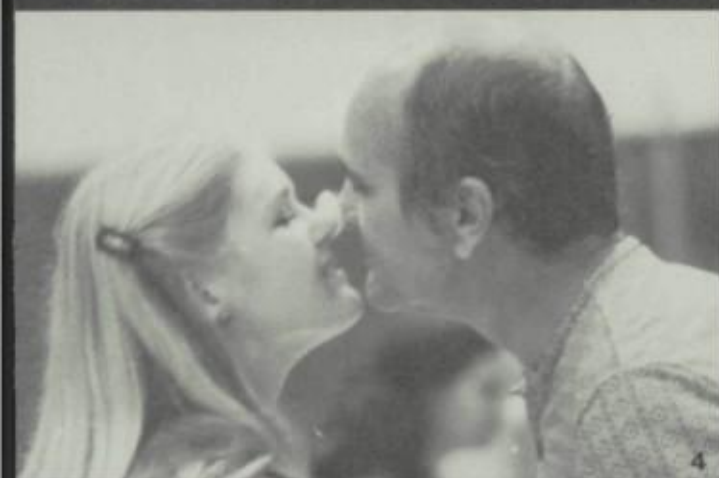

5. Silence, sunshine and a sense of loss are shared by hundreds of John Lennon mourners during the Balboa Park Vigil.

Academics Academics Academics Academics

Academics ... the basic reason we attend school. With the numerous classes offered for both the required subjects and electives, going to school meant something different for almost everyone.

The required subjects for students during their three years at Kearny were 6 semesters of English, 6 semesters of Physical Education, 5 semesters of Social Studies, 3 semesters of Fine Arts and 1 semester of Health and Safety. During one of those years, each student was required to take 2 semesters of Math and 2 semesters of Science. This limited number of required courses left people with enough room in their schedule to choose from the wide range of alternatives. Some of the students chose the easy route, via Office Service, Ceramics and Home Economics, while others struggled through Physics, Calculus and Foreign Languages.

Whichever paths the students chose, the knowledge they gained will be helpful in putting the pieces of college and later life together.

1. Career training is provided in classes like "Electronic Assembly."
2. Teacher Appreciation Week draws smiles from Mr. Bellis and Mr. Perpich.
3. Science classes provide an interesting elective.
4. Pep rally games provide an unique look at teachers.

Tell It The Way It Is

Hola, Guten Tag, Salam, Kon nichiya, and hello. These and many more could be heard through the noisy, crowded halls between classes.

The variety of languages kept the English and Foreign language teachers unusually busy this year. More E.S.L. (English as a second language) classes were taught than ever before. Yet, the alternative language classes, such as Spanish, German, and French, rapidly lost popularity. The head of the English department, Mrs. Stell, commented, "The sports have overcome almost every subject."

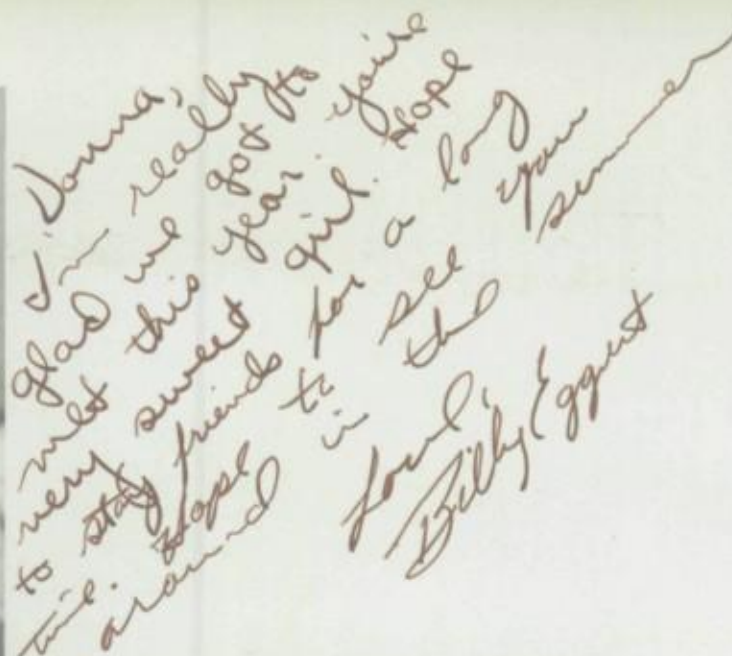

Most colleges require at least two years of foreign language for entrance. Many students found this to be a waste of time ... which accounts for the recent decline in the popularity of the German, French and Spanish classes.

Spanish teacher, Mr. Perpich, felt that learning a second language was "a challenge which at times seemed very complicated." However, the knowledge of a foreign language can be rewarding and useful. This is especially true of Spanish, because of Mexico's proximity to San Diego.

Kearny acquired a substantial number of nationalities. This mixture of ethnic backgrounds enabled students to become aware and tolerant of the vast differences in themselves and others.

1. No, Mr. Winans is not punishing one of his students! He's just instructing Kim Paulus on the theatrical way to deliver a slap.
2. Kim Paulus practices her newly gained skill on her drama teacher, Mr. Winans.
3. Proving baseball is internationally acclaimed, Mr. Perpich engages his students in an altered form of the game. (Spanish-English flashcards)
4. During an Honors English discussion, Anita Moss, Lori Appling and Jim Lee glance down at their notes.

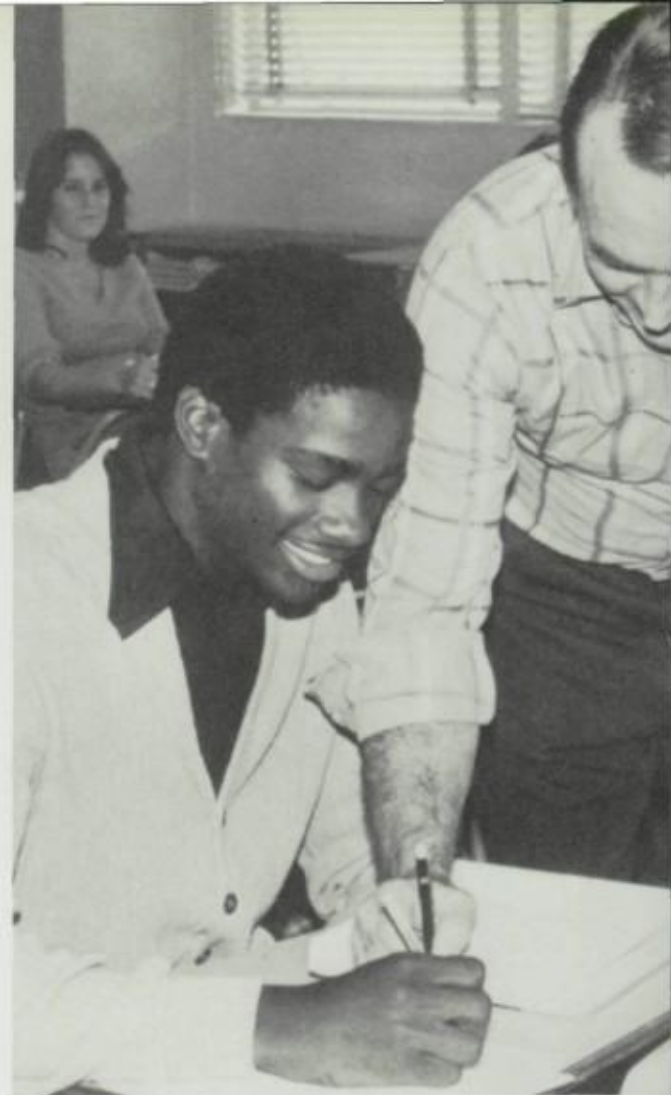

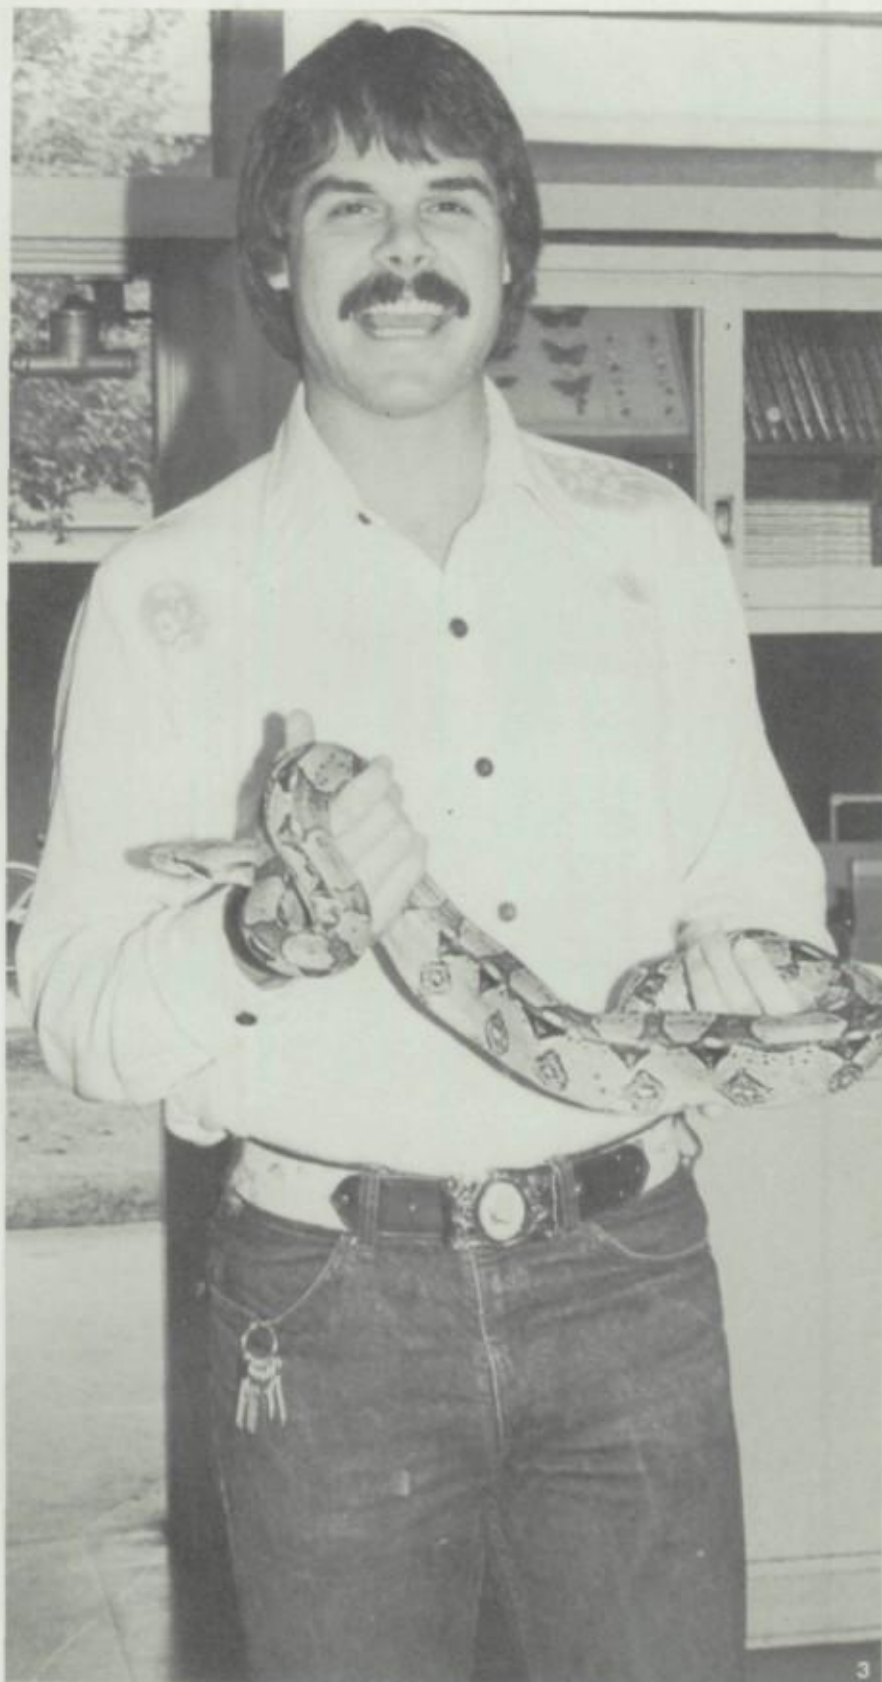

Figures To Remember

$F=ma$, $y=mx+b$, the definition of a limit, rational numbers, gravity, the periodical table of elements, etc. The list is longer than anyone could imagine. Each of these formulas, definitions, or words, which is a small fraction of a large whole, are taught in classes that are math or science oriented.

Required courses for college entrance, math and science serve as a basis for functioning in the real world. One must know how to add, subtract, or multiply before one can balance a checkbook. The class of '81 will be the first to have gone through the competency tests of math and English that are now mandatory for high school graduation.

Teachers such as Mr. Bergstrom, Mr. Baer, Mr. Owen, and Mr. Reed have helped students understand these important concepts and have inspired many students to pursue a math or science career.

1. Duane Henson realizes that math is not always so easy as he receives help from his concerned teacher, Mr. Carter.

2. Physics teacher, Mr. Owen, peeks at the roll of the dice as he hides it from the other "dungeons and dragons" players in his room during lunch.

3. Mr. Howard's best friend, Virgil, shows his affection for his master.

4. Hopefully, everything is understood as science teacher, Mr. Reed, explains to his students the functions of a microscope.

Equal Rights For Advanced Students

For the first time in two years, an Advanced U.S. History class was added to the Social Studies program. For those who were willing to put forth the extra effort, the Advanced U.S. History class was worth the time.

Although the class had an "advanced" title, it was open to anyone who was interested in history. The main difference between the regular and advanced class was more discussion on ideas rather than facts. In addition to this, each student was required to do either an individual or group project each semester.

Both students and teacher, Mrs. Guentner, felt the class went well. With the positive comments that were given to the program, the class is sure to be around for many years.

1. With a bewildered look, Mike Billberg questions Mrs. Guentner's statement.

2. Trying to defend his opinion, Ernest Winer confuses Ms. Aboud.

3. With great concentration, the Advanced U.S. History students take a final exam.

Learning: A Universal Process

Not all students are born with the mentality of a genius or a walking encyclopedia. However, they are born with the capability to learn and expand their horizons. Whether it be a reading handicap or a language barrier, students who are disadvantaged in some way have the potential to curb their disability and take advantage of an education.

Since our school had an increasing number of Southeast Asian students, (approximately one-third of the school's population), most of whom spoke little or no

English, the E.S.L. department expanded to meet their needs. They taught the basics of the English language and some of the American ways of life.

The learning assistance program helped those students who had special handicaps such as reading and writing disabilities.

With the help of these two programs, disadvantaged students were able to function better within the high school stream of life.

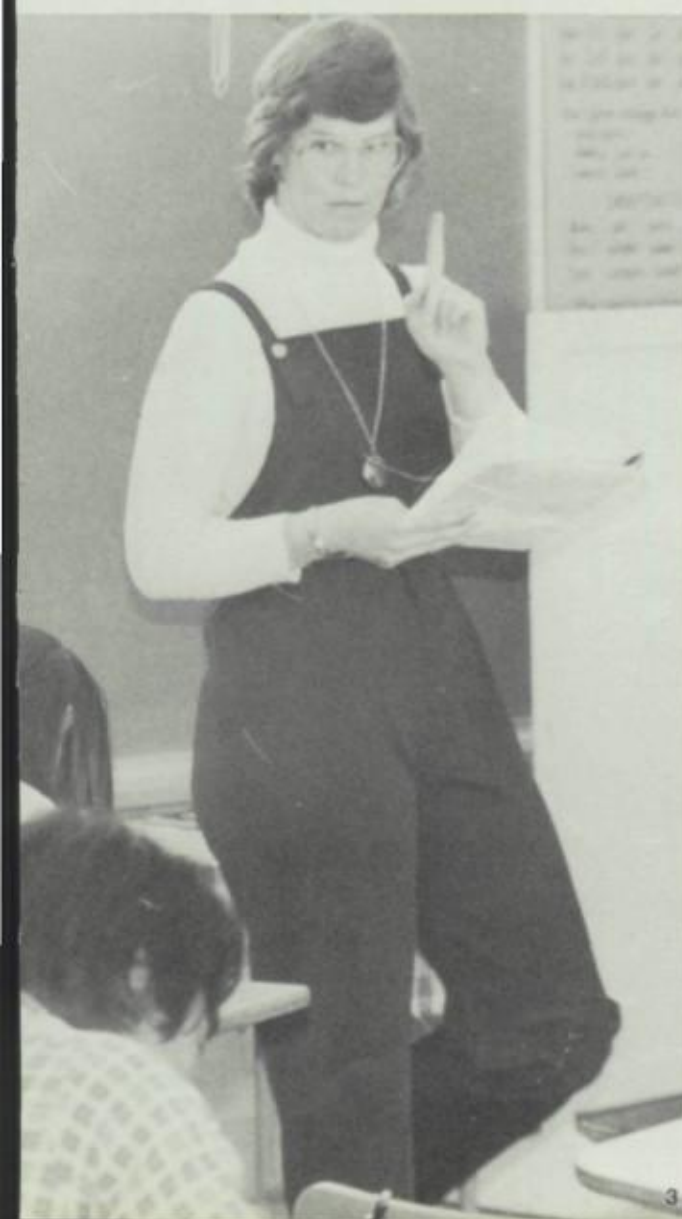

1. In Mrs. Delaney's E.S.L. class, Noot Sengsone, Keopath Phimmason and Manisone Vongphakdy, work diligently out of their English books.

2. Learning to work independently, students in Mr. Johnson's special handicapped class check each other's homework.

3. "Now listen carefully!" Dorcas Alexander reminds her students to pay attention to the phonics of each word before writing them down.

4. Student aid Mary Pat Gleason quizzes some Indo-Chinese students on the fundamentals of sentence tense.

Donna,
I'm glad we got to know each other in Biology. It was a fun year, and I'm glad we got to know each other. You were a great friend and we had some good talks. I hope you ~~like~~ like treats you better now, and I hope he doesn't read that. I can't believe we're already going to graduate into the big adult world. It gets kind of scary when you think about it. I hope we see each other later on in life. If we don't, have a good life and good luck in whatever you choose to pursue in life. God bless you always.

Helping Hands For The Future

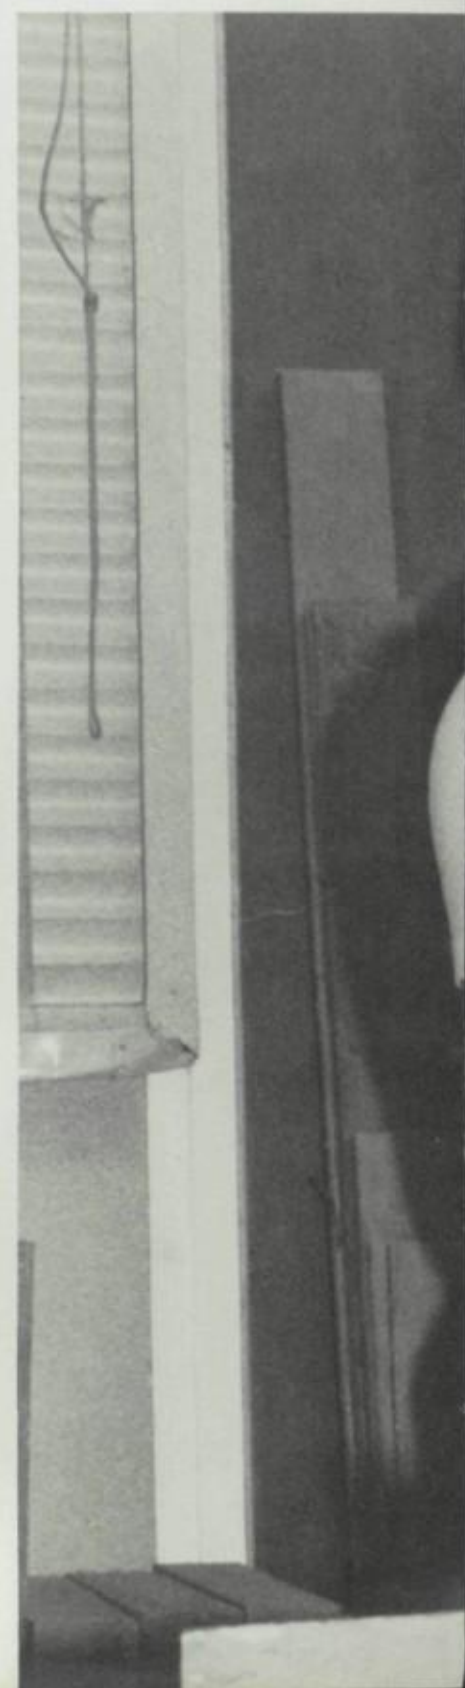

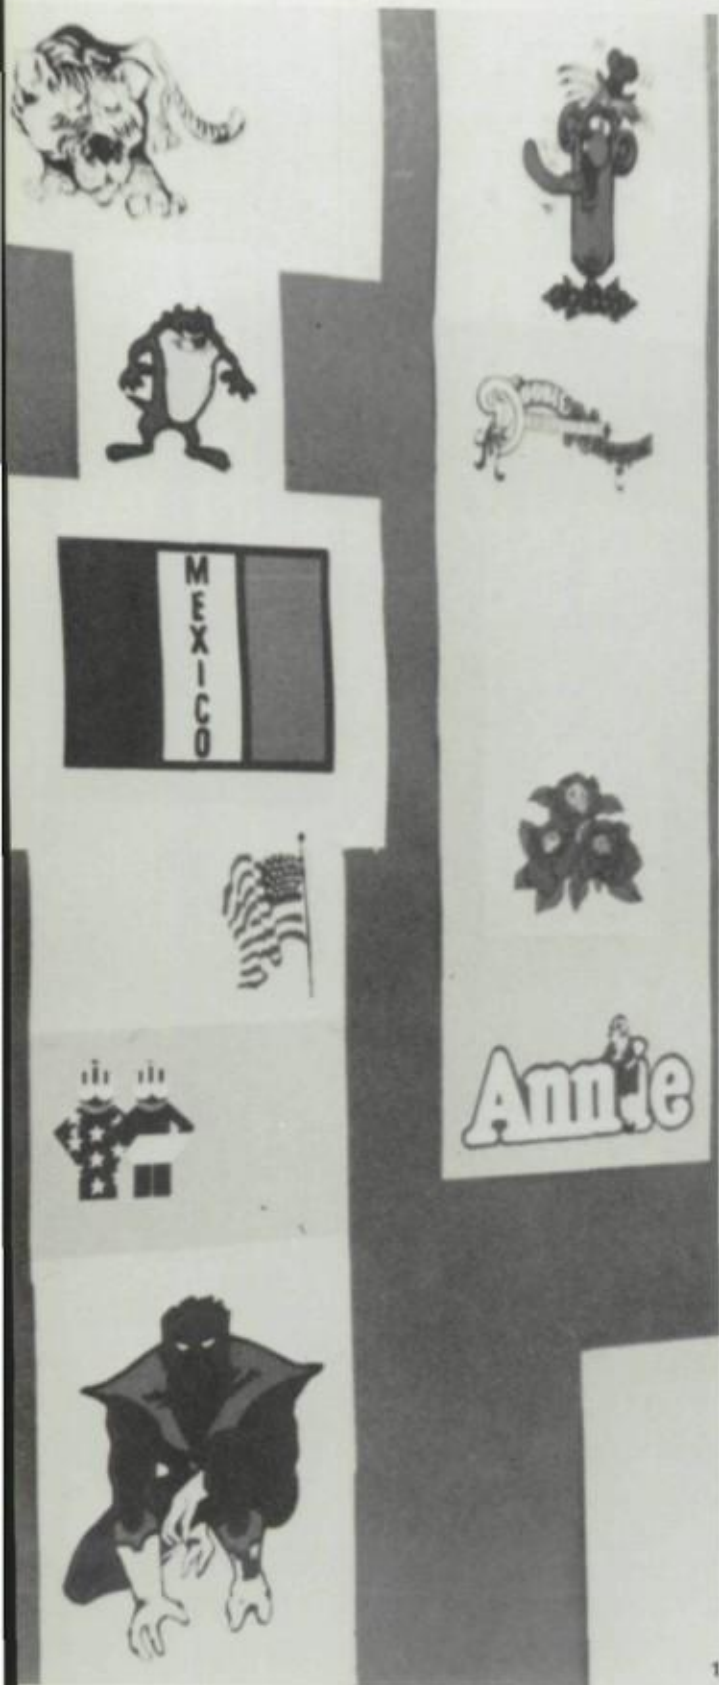

"Why should I bother with classes that won't affect me in the future?" This was a common question students were plagued with. However, there were several courses such as: Home Economics, Military Training and Typing classes which provided business training needed to obtain jobs ranging from a receptionist to a short order cook.

Since man cannot live on T.V. dinners alone, it was especially helpful learning to cook. Home Economics provided culinary tutoring along with teaching sewing techniques.

Health and Safety and Driver's Education produced many good teenaged drivers. With 'in class' memorization of all the rules of the road, behind the wheel training was made simple.

With these helpful courses offered, students no longer had to worry about wasting their time in irrelevant classes, and were able to learn skills valuable in every day life.

Making It In Class

A lot of students took art and industrial arts classes so they could make things at school that they wouldn't otherwise have been able to make. In the graphic arts department, silkscreening was one of the most popular classes among students. They could make nearly any design that they wanted to, and silkscreen it onto t-shirts, bumper stickers, decals, and almost anything else imaginable.

In the way of art, many students enjoyed ceramics classes in which they started with very basic projects. Later, they learned to throw, and be as creative as they liked.

Music was another popular department. Some students took band or choir just to fill their schedule, but others took these classes because of their genuine interest in music.

Altogether, the art and music departments offered many classes to choose from, and they all seem to have been very popular. Besides fulfilling the three required fine arts credits, these classes provided an escape from the usual homework-filled schedule.

1. Students in silkscreening classes come up with a wide variety of pictures and designs to print. These finished projects can be seen on the wall in Mr. Ernst's room.

2. An interested Billy Phillips observes as Bruce Whedon fixes a silkscreen in one of Mr. Ernst's classes.

3. In her fourth period woodworking class, Carol Dillman measures and marks a block of wood which will be made into a puzzle.

4. Led by Mr. Graeff, A Cappella Choir practices in class for their upcoming lunchtime mini-concert.

5. Intent on making it his best yet, Scott Herron creates a pot during a workshop held in Mr. Moon's class.

Getting Greasy for a Grade

Dirty hands and oil beneath fingernails wasn't all the Magnet Center for Industry offered. Students from High Schools all around San Diego learned body work, painting, refinishing, engine work, soldering and general electronics.

Many students who took the course planned on a career in the auto industry. Although only 4 semesters were required to ensure a good job, many students took 6 or more semesters because they liked the classes so much.

Not only did the students enjoy the program, but so did many parents. Instructor Joe Fernandez jokingly commented, "The parents are glad the kids are working."

1. In preparation for a new paint job, the old coat is sanded off.

2. Some girls choose to take a practical course in auto mechanics over the traditional Home Economics courses.

3. Two future mechanics confer over what should be done to the Volkswagon.

4. Soldering and sanding were two of the various activities students got to practice in this auto body class.

Students Cannot Live

Warm Southern California air blowing across your face, the unique smell of a freshly cut lawn, the sound of teachers shouting out names for roll call. Alone, each of these could mean anything. But, together, they unmistakably make up the surroundings of P.E.

It wasn't warm and sunny here all the time, but it rained so seldom that students could almost always count on playing outside. Maybe this is why P.E. was such a popular class. Or, maybe it was so popular because of the wide range of sports offered, such as weight-lifting, frisbee, swimming, aerobic dance, archery, and many others. (Or maybe because it was required!)

Whatever the reason for its popularity, P.E. provided a break from the confinement of classrooms and an outlet to the open space and fresh air. Also, most students liked the fact that they didn't have homework in at least one of their classes.

1. Sacrificing his body, Tony Qualin makes a last minute effort to get the ball downfield by heading it.

2. The first place team in the period 6 tournament, Armice Coleman and Bill Dower both go for the ball as David Barney awaits the return.

3. Concentrating intently, Cindy Castillo returns the serve for a point, only to lose the game on the next point.

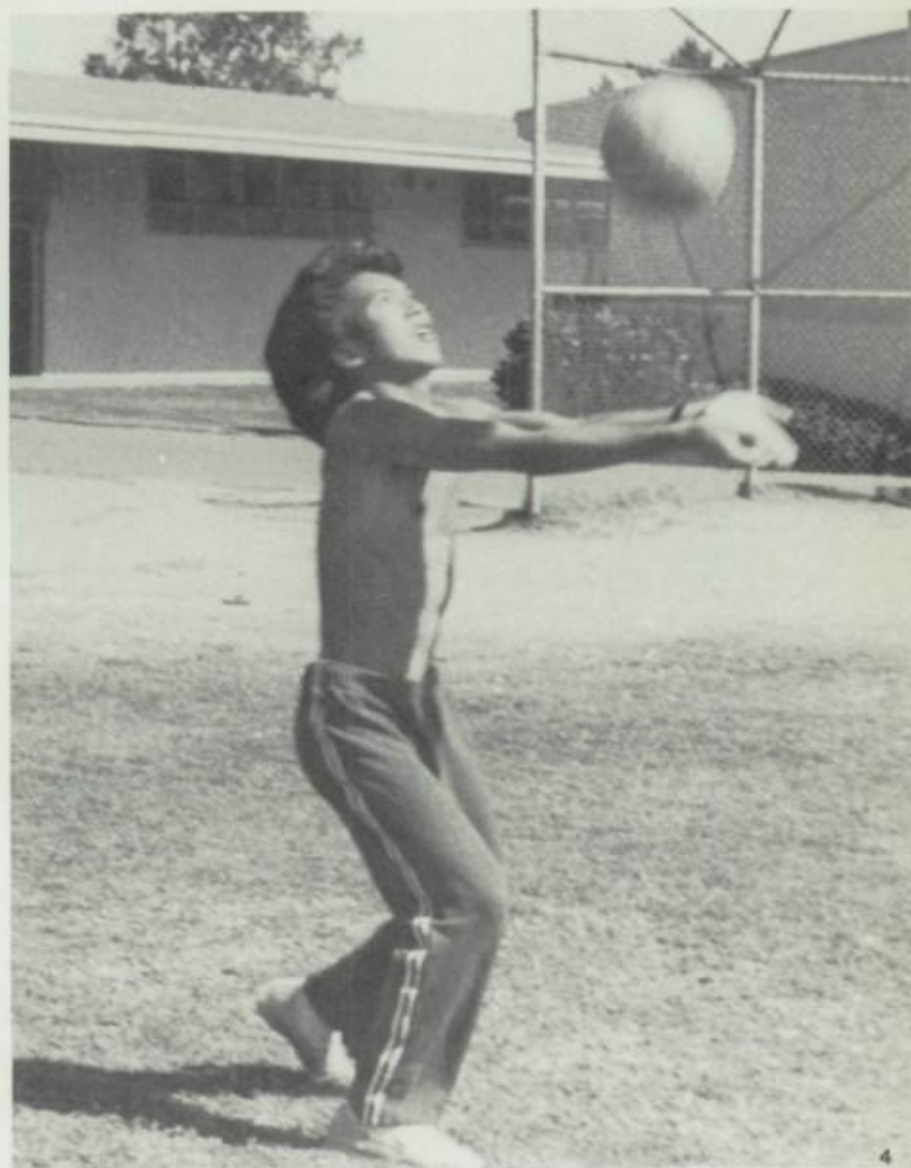

4. Battling the sun, Minh Ta does a beautiful job of bump passing the volleyball to the net.

Adler Seeks Higher Position

Joan Adler, former counselor for the gifted and Southeast Asian students, has stepped up on the ladder of success. She is now working in the personnel department of the Educational Service Center. More prestigious and higher paying, Ms. Adler interviews teachers for positions in the San Diego City schools. Because of this job opportunity, Ms. Adler left Kearny early in the year, leaving her position as counselor vacant. Fortunately, Jean Stewart, a counselor from Clairemont, came to the rescue, and filled the empty position. Mrs. Stewart not only fulfilled the needs of Ms. Adler's former job, but she served as Kearny's scholarship counselor.

Also new on the counseling staff are Carrie Palmer and Theresa Kruger. Previously a junior high counselor, this is Ms. Palmer's first year working with high school students. Mrs. Kruger, on the other hand, has been teaching math at Kearny for nine years.

1. "Administrators are people too!" Goofing around in their spare time, Mr. Naibert, the struggler, gets revenge on Mr. Gilbert, the strugglee, as Mrs. Leslie laughs on the side.

2. Counselor Carrie Palmer helps Somsack Thonggrivong rearrange his schedule so that his graduation requirements are fulfilled.

3. Administrator Charles Wilson explains the pros and cons of cutting class to students loitering on the front lawn.

4. Relaxing from the hustle and bustle of rearranging class schedules, counselor Mrs. Kruger takes time out for a smile.

5. Mr. Blair and Mr. Leeds exchange their thoughts on foreign language matters.

2. A potpourri of expressions is illustrated by workers in the attendance office.

3. Library Clerk, Donna Tennesen, updates the inventory card file.

People Helping People

Secretaries, special aides, instructional aides, librarians, etc. The list goes on. These special people work for others. They are "people helping people" to help themselves.

Secretaries are considered to be the backbone of our school's structure. They can be seen typing the daily bulletin, arranging the absence list or just taking notes for one of the administrators.

The special and instructional aides were created primarily for students or teachers who needed extra help with a class or a learning disability.

Always there when needed, the librarians have helped students and teachers find random information in books or magazines that was necessary for possible term papers or for teacher preparations for class.

These special people have become invaluable to our school's progress. Without them, Kearny staff and students would be lost in their quest for knowledge.

Cleaning Up The Act

Everyday service essentials were often overlooked by the students and administration. Without the helpfulness of the cafeteria and custodian workers and their daily duties, Kearny would not be able to function as well as it always has.

The custodians kept the school pleasant in many ways. Besides cleaning the rooms and keeping the grounds nicely trimmed, they were always available for an unexpected emergency, ranging from spilled milk to last minute assembly preparations.

The cafeteria workers played an important part in our well being. They turned eggs, milk, cheese and other basics into an appetizing meal. Not only were the meals tasty, they were also nutritious. Along with the good food, they gave their smiles generously and effortlessly.

These two groups of unique people gave the school and students a pleasant feeling while providing necessary services.

 A Great Summer & Smile

Seniors ... those students whose time has come. Time to be at the top, time to start making some important decisions and time to have as much fun as they can cram into their last year at Kearny.

As the saying goes, "privileges come with age," and for High School students "the age" is being in 12th grade. Being a Senior means the long journey through High School is almost over, but the end of the journey is the best part of the trip. With activities like Senior Ditch Day, Grad Night and the Prom to enjoy, almost all students found their Senior year the most enjoyable time of their life so far.

When it's all over, most Seniors look back with a twinge of sadness, plus a sense of accomplishment, when they realize their High School puzzle is completed.

1. Although most Seniors left school during lunch, those who stayed enjoyed the numerous activities and attractions.

2. Seniors Janet Lockman and Pam Motl find "John's" a nice place to escape to for lunch.

3. Punk rock hit Kearny early in the year with the "Snails" performing at the PTSA's first dance.

4. Taking a much needed break from studying, a group of senior guys relax.

Senior Class Council Makes Final Year Fly

What do the Prom, Grad Night, and Senior Week have in common? They're all activities that the Senior Class Council made possible.

Made up of concerned and spirited students who wanted to make their last year at Kearny their best, the Senior Class Council sponsored numerous events for both fun and profit. To raise money for the various activities, the Council had a raffle during the summer, carnation sales at Christmas, and a show featuring hypnotist, Dr. Dean. To help raise the spirit on campus, the Council sponsored a Toga Day, and an Obstacle Race.

There was a lot of hard work involved, but thanks to the Senior Class Council, the graduation class of 1981 had an enjoyable year.

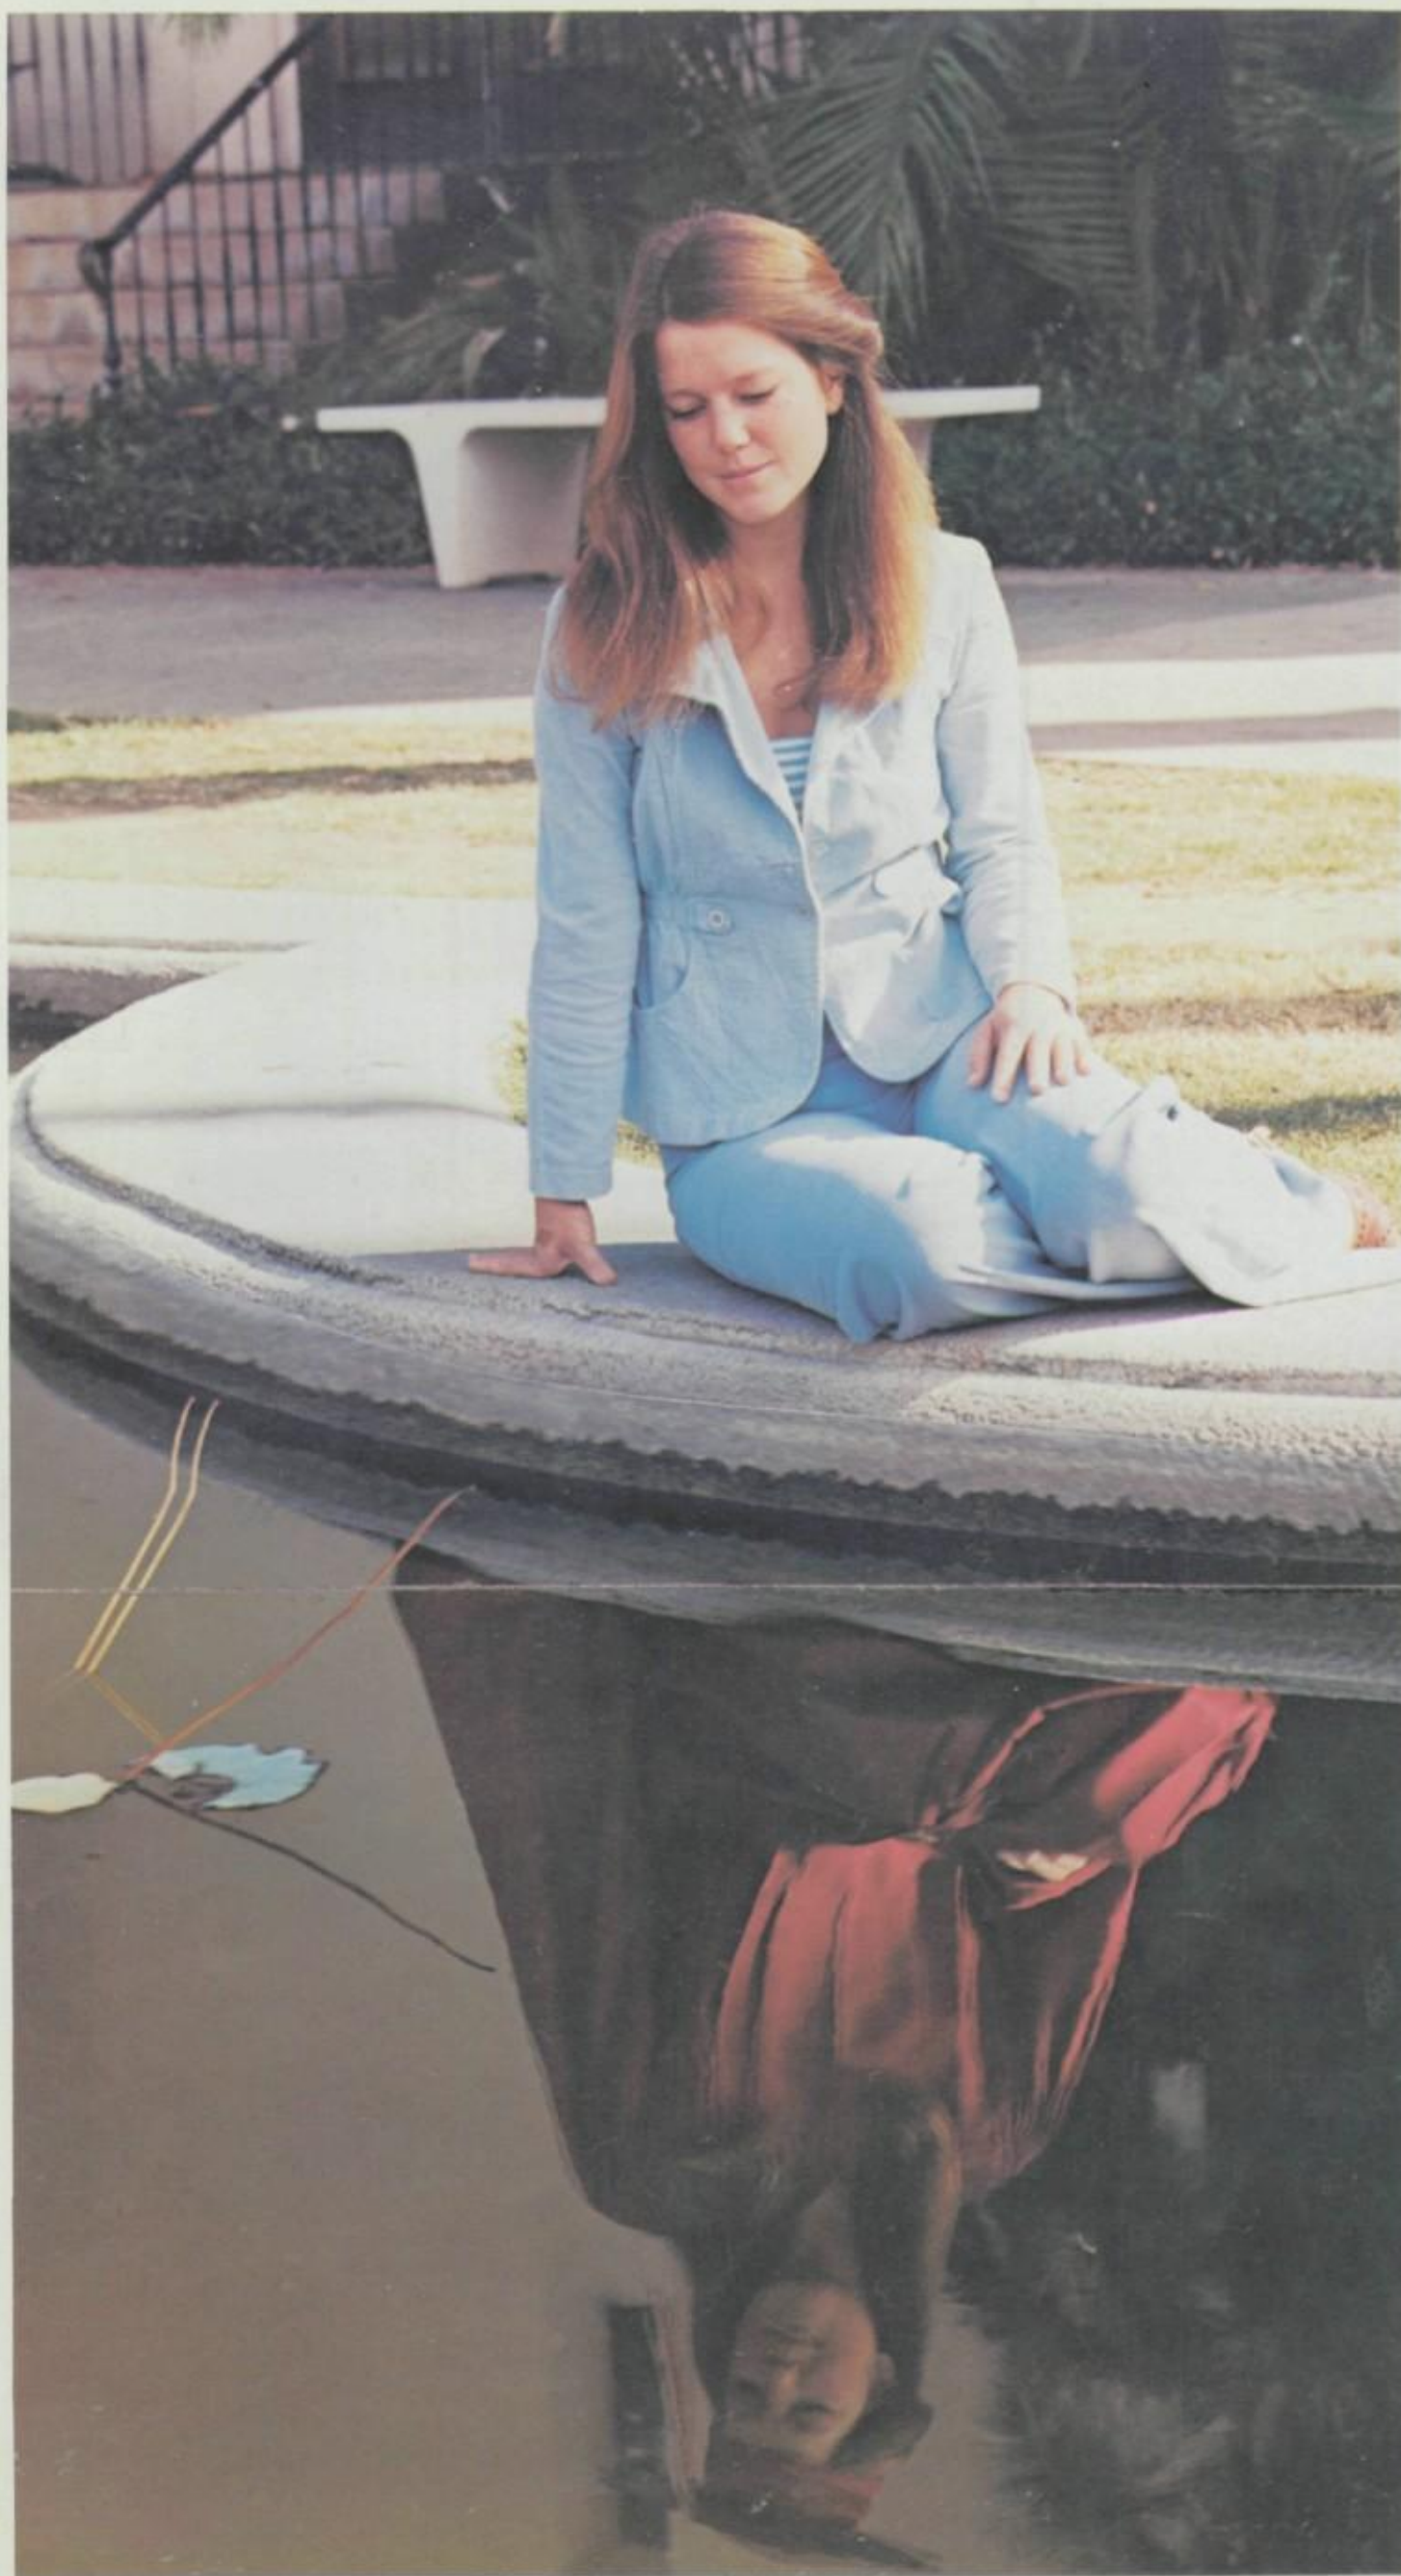

1. Standing: M. Rydelski, T. Wagner, D. Harris, L. Lagrimas, L. Thoma, D. Hardin, M. Collins, J. Park. Kneeling: D. Matsuda (President), M.J. Gonzales (V. President), C. Shands (Sec.), S. Milow (Treas.), B. Munig, C. Conrique.

2. Taking a break from the "chariot races," Jackie Marovac lounges in her favorite toga.

3. Awaiting the rush of people, Dallas Harris makes preparations for the carnation sale.

4. Deep in a hypnotic stage, Sally Swanson shows her talent as a go-go dancer.

Free To Face The Life

That's Ahead Of Me

Donna

Aloha!

Hope you had fun in your senior ^{year} but I thought it was alright. I'm still thinking about if I'm going to forgive for the stunt you pulled off on me. Donna if you don't know how special you are to me you probably never will. Good luck in all the things you do and be around if you can to spend some time together.

Love You Always,

Nolan

I'm sailing away
Set an open course
For the virgin sea
'Cause I've got to be free
Free to face the life
That's ahead of me

On board I'm the captain
So climb aboard
We'll search for tomorrow
On every shore and I'll try Oh Lord, I'll try to carry on

I look to the sea
Reflections in the waves
Spark my memory
Some happy, some sad
I think of childhood friends
And the dreams we had
We lived happily forever
So the story goes
But somehow we missed out
On the pot of gold
But we'll try best as we can
To carry on

A gathering of angels
Appeared above my head
They sang to me
This song of hope
And this is what they said

They said come sail away
Come sail away
Come sail away with me lads
Come sail away
Come sail away
Come sail away with me

Do You Remember ...

Do you remember the Prom, football games and being fitted for caps and gowns? These, and many more were the events that helped make our Senior year the best year we've had at Kearny.

Looking towards college, and future goals were the biggest decisions that we made. All of the years we spent in high school affected us and helped us decide which of life's diverse paths we would follow.

Sports . . . a unique combination of grueling practices, exciting competitions and a sense of belonging, come with participating in athletics.

For most, going out for one of Kearny's numerous teams included finding a way to be involved, having fun, getting in shape, and having a chance to compete against other schools.

The variety of teams to choose from provided something for everyone, with several sports offered for both boys and girls during each of the 3 seasons.

Although some of the sports required a great deal of skill, knowledge and endurance, most students found that the way to gain these things was to go for it and practice!

An important piece of the High School puzzle, athletics provided a great deal of enjoyment for many Kearny students.

Gridders Return to Form in First Half

Despite the return of only 2 lettermen at skilled positions, the football program at K.H.S. returned to its usual form in league play in the first half of the 1980 season.

During the first 2 weeks of play, however, the gridmen lost both their non-league games to two top-rated teams, Lincoln, 14-12, and Vista, 26-0. Offensive line Coach Chris Miller attributes these losses to the inexperience of most of the players on the Varsity level. "We were a lot younger than I thought," Coach Miller said of this year's squad: "If we had played Lincoln the 3rd or 4th week of the season, we would've beaten them soundly."

As for the game against Vista, in which the team had 8 turnovers and lost quarterback Tracy Stant, Miller was quoted as dubbing it a disaster. He was quick to note, though, that many players "came of age" during this skirmish, which over 5,000 fans attended.

The next week, the start of league play is what many consider the turning point of the season for the squad. It was also the beginning of a four game winning streak. With only one week of practice, Nate Marks took the controls of the offense against a weak Crawford team, a must win situation, and pulled off a 19-13 win. The following week the Komets destroyed the Pt. Loma Pointers' playoff hopes and netted their second league victory 20 to 14.

Whatever confidence the squad lost in the first two games they surely gained back in week 5 as they crushed Mira Mesa 36-12. "They weren't as strong as we thought," Coach Miller commented. "It was a fun game to be part of."

1. William Southern dives over the goal line on a wedge play.

2. Tom Dreher, Ricky Chambers and Nation Bass bring down a Colt back in a 19-13 win over Crawford.

3. Paul Day turns on the juice to beat a pursuer. Day rushed for 986 yards this season.

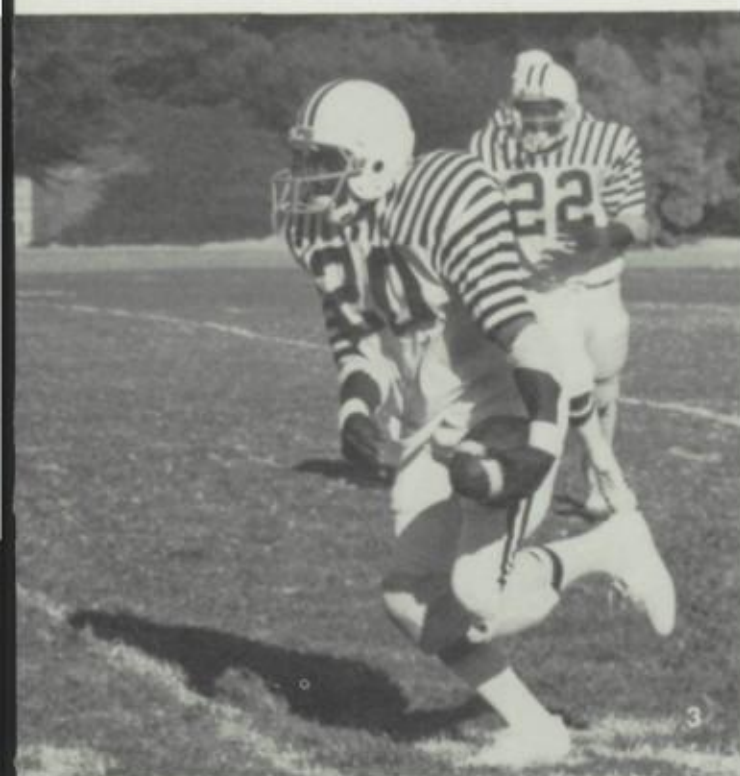

4. T.J. Johnson raises the ball victoriously after receiving a touchdown pass in the end zone.

Komets Unable To Stop Big Play In

In their fourth league game, the squad found itself pitted against a Morse team that was rated in the top 10 early in the season. Despite this, the team crushed Morse 22-12 in a game K.H.S. controlled all the way. "It was our best defensive game," Mike Prosser, defensive coordinator, said, "with the exception of two plays." (Morse scored on both plays.)

On week #7 Kearny traveled to Patrick Henry as the only undefeated team in Eastern League play. The Komet team definitely dominated this game. Not only did the offense double the Patriot's offensive output but, once again, with the exception of two pass plays on which they scored, the defense played almost flawless football. However, as the Kearny offense was on the verge of scoring from the two yard line with less than two minutes to go, a penalty and a blocked field goal prevented the team from reaching the end zone. The Komets were handed their first league defeat of 1980, 15-13.

The next week held defeat for the team, once again. They were handed a 22-21 loss by Madison, the third ranked team in the county. "The officials took that game.

away from us," quipped Prosser. "We also couldn't stop the big play."

The last week of the season found the Komets in a "do-or-die" situation. The oddity was that the team they were playing faced the same problem. Whichever team won this game was destined to go to the playoffs.

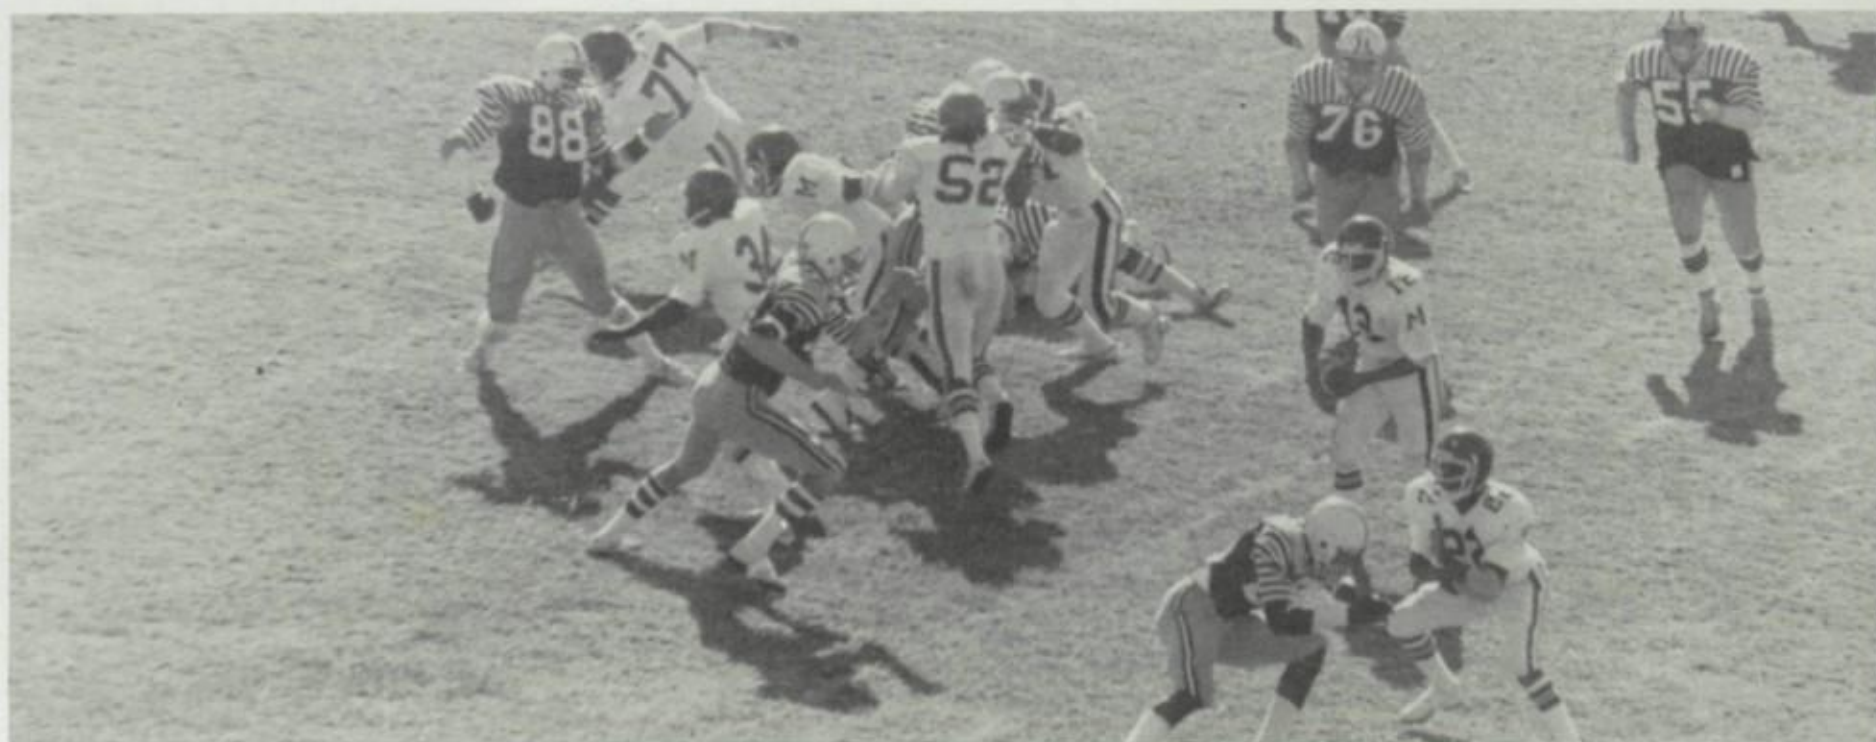

Although the score was misleading, 17-20, the Kearny squad beat Clairemont all over the field. Much to the team's, fans', and faculty's disappointment, some mediocre officiating and a tragic fumble on the six inch line, with less than a minute to go, left Kearny out of post season play.

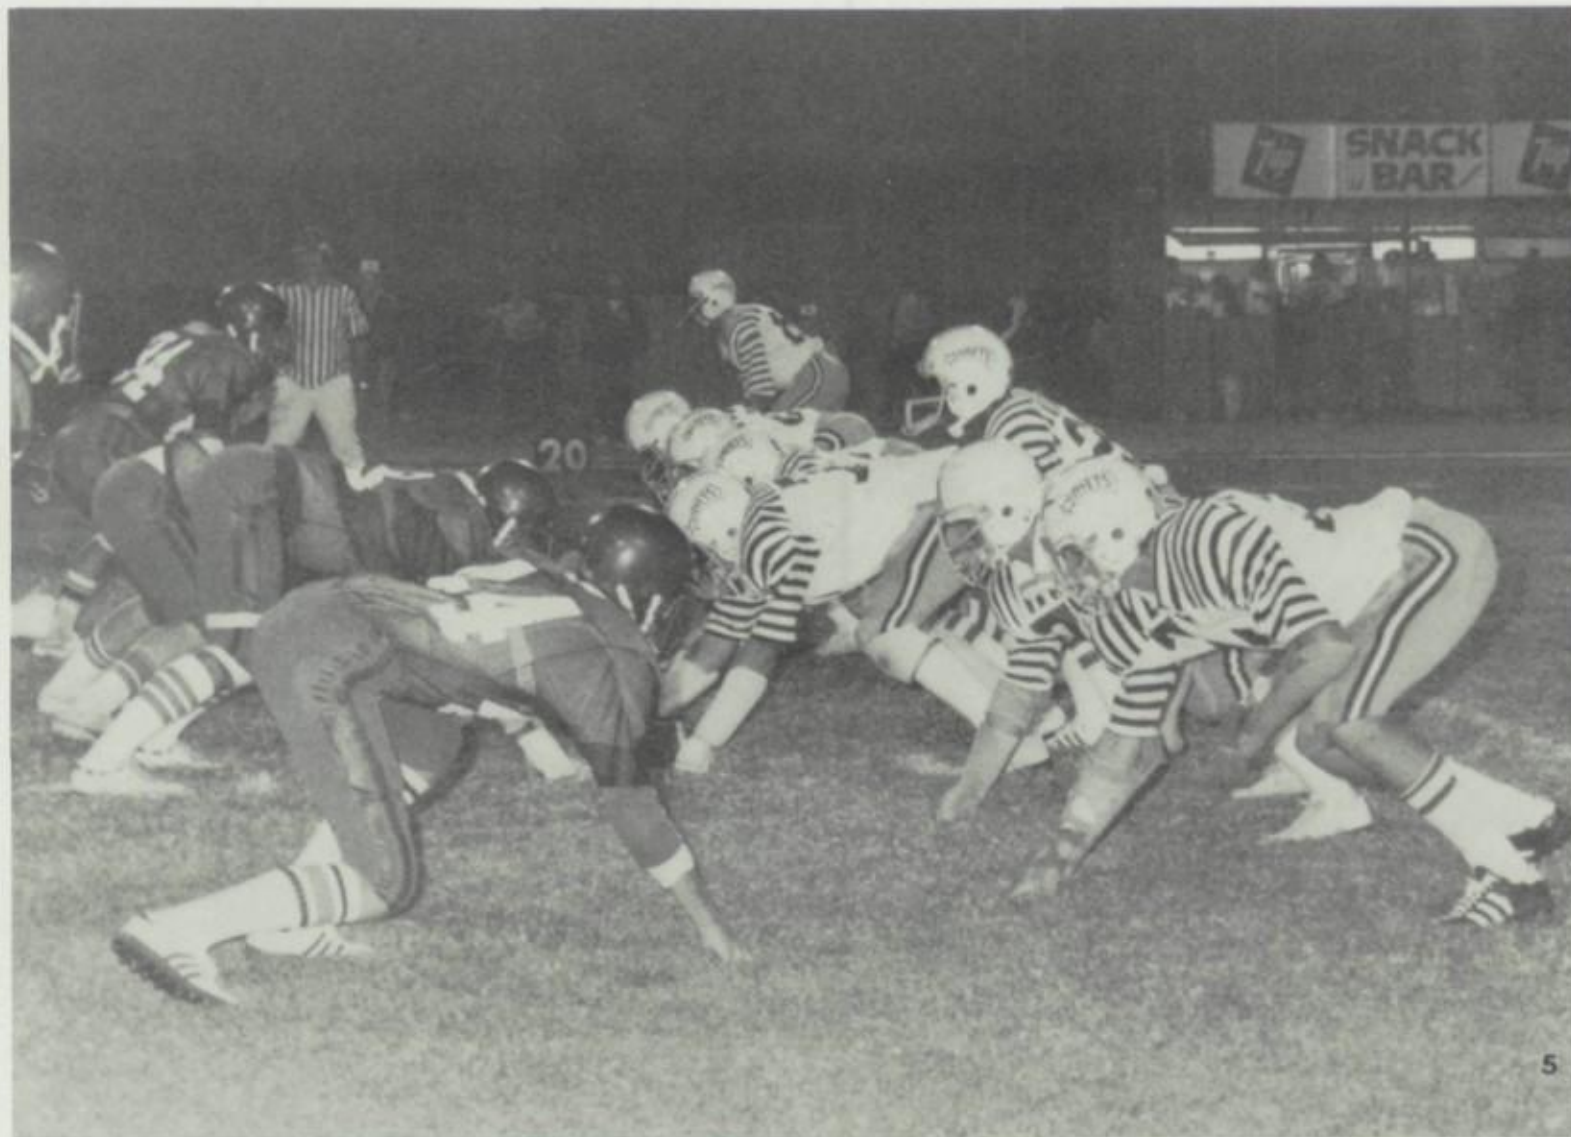

1. After covering Lincoln's #2 receiver, Leland Maddox, Danny Francisco, and Robbie Robinson turn to look for an errant pass.

2. Officials signal a Komet touchdown after a two yard plunge by quarterback Tracy Stant.

3. The Kearny defense successfully shut down the Morse ground game.

5. The offensive line sets as Tracy Stant calls out audibles.

J.V.'ers Find Difficulty

A slow start defensively and a generally weak offense led to the demise of this year's J.V. Football squad. The team, which ended up 2-5-1 on the season, saw the highlight of the year in week 5 when the J.V.'ers beat Madison 12 to 6.

Although they were not successful in league play, J.V. Head Coach Fleming commented that there had been certain individual skill achievements accomplished by some of his J.V. players. He felt the team, which at times showed sparks of greatness, lacked individual confidence. "They didn't know their own potential and didn't play with the intensity needed to win."

Aqua Buddies Score

Who were those crazy guys on the Senior Patio at lunch who attracted all of the attention? It was the water polo team. Comprised of 13 very spirited players, the H₂O polo team was a very close group. Their main problem, as Coach Cohen saw it, was "they had the talent, but just didn't communicate well in the water. They also needed more time."

Their best game was against Madison.

The final score was 19 to 6. By the end of the season, Varsity had won 6 and lost 8. J.V. won 11 and lost 3.

The team's best Varsity players were Bob Infantino, Bill Walsh, Terry Hicks, Jeff Brown, and Captain Tom Prevost. Heading J.V., Jerry Clabby and Jeff Geil will be replacing graduating Seniors along with Jason Greeson, Dennis Borlek, and Karl Becker.

Coach Cohen enjoyed working with the team this year, and said they were a great bunch of guys. His goal for the future is to build up an excellent water polo team. We would also like to develop a better aquatics program. Because of water polo's importance in sports, Cohen feels it should be more publicized. He thinks with a lot more practice, next year they will be more likely to make it to C.I.F.

Girls' Tennis Finishes at .500

The girls' tennis team closed the 1980 season with a record of 7-7, taking 3rd in the Eastern League. The team, which finished better than expected this year, beat Madison and Morse and split 2 matches with Clairemont, Crawford and Mira Mesa.

Although their singles weren't as good as other schools, this year's squad produced two fine singles players, in Cathy Caplener, who headed C.I.F., and Luci Lagrimas.

Their doubles teams, which were considered stronger than their singles, were anchored by Lisa Mationg and Jesse Bulacan. This close-knit group of girls, who only lost two home matches all season, will lose only three seniors next year.

1. Joyce Alberto watches the ball fly over the net, to her Crawford opponent.

2. Top singles player, Cathy Caplener, demonstrates her powerful 2 hand backswing.

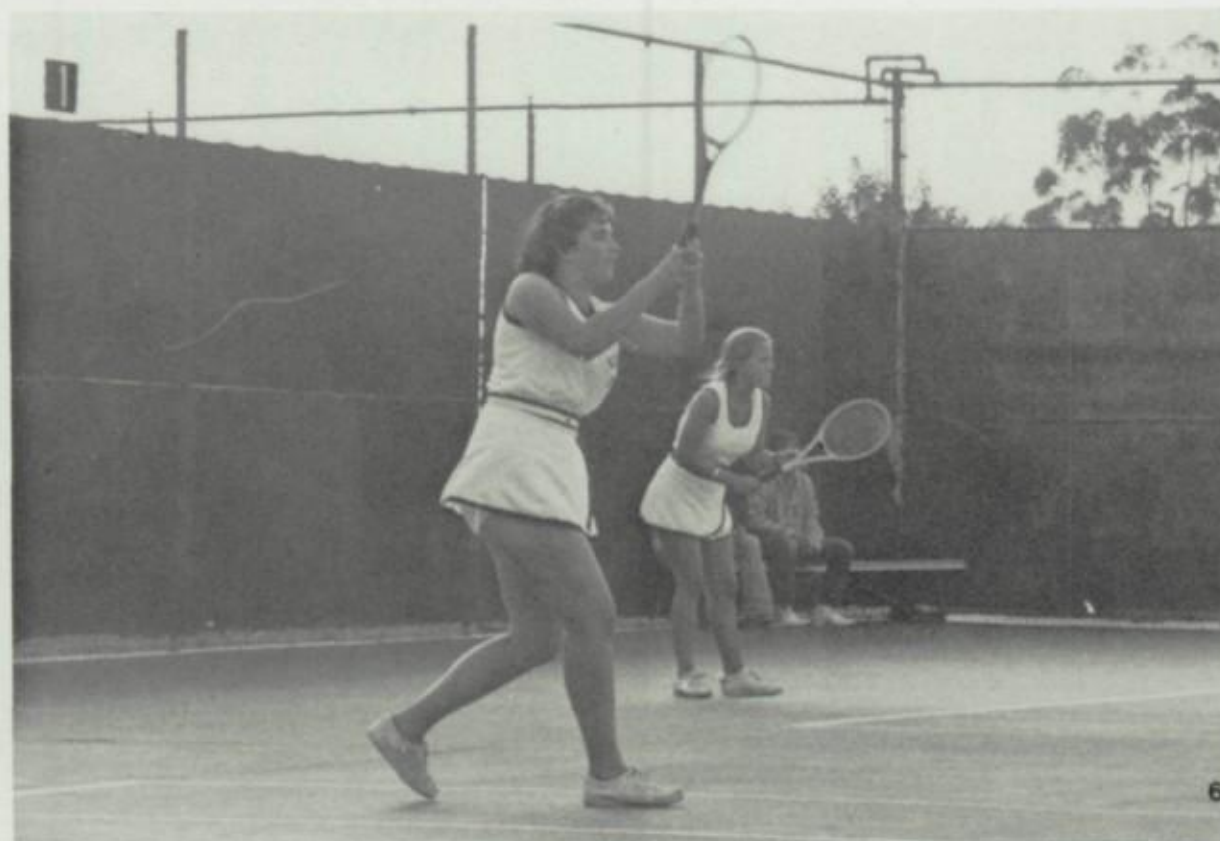

3. Luci Lagrimas slices the ball to take the lead in her deciding set.

Miles To Go Before We Rest Our Feet

Painful miles of practice and grueling workouts built up the endurance of the cross country team. The team, which consisted of 13 Sophomores, 3 Juniors and only 4 Seniors, did an amazing job considering its size and lack of experience. Said first year Coach Griswold when asked about the success of his team: "I don't care whether they win or lose, but rather if they improve their times, grow stronger and meet their own personal goals."

With such a young team, the chances are great for a successful record next year.

1. Rick Boyle leads a Henry runner as Dallas Harris hurries to catch up.

2. Rodney Cavens cuts up a canyon trail.

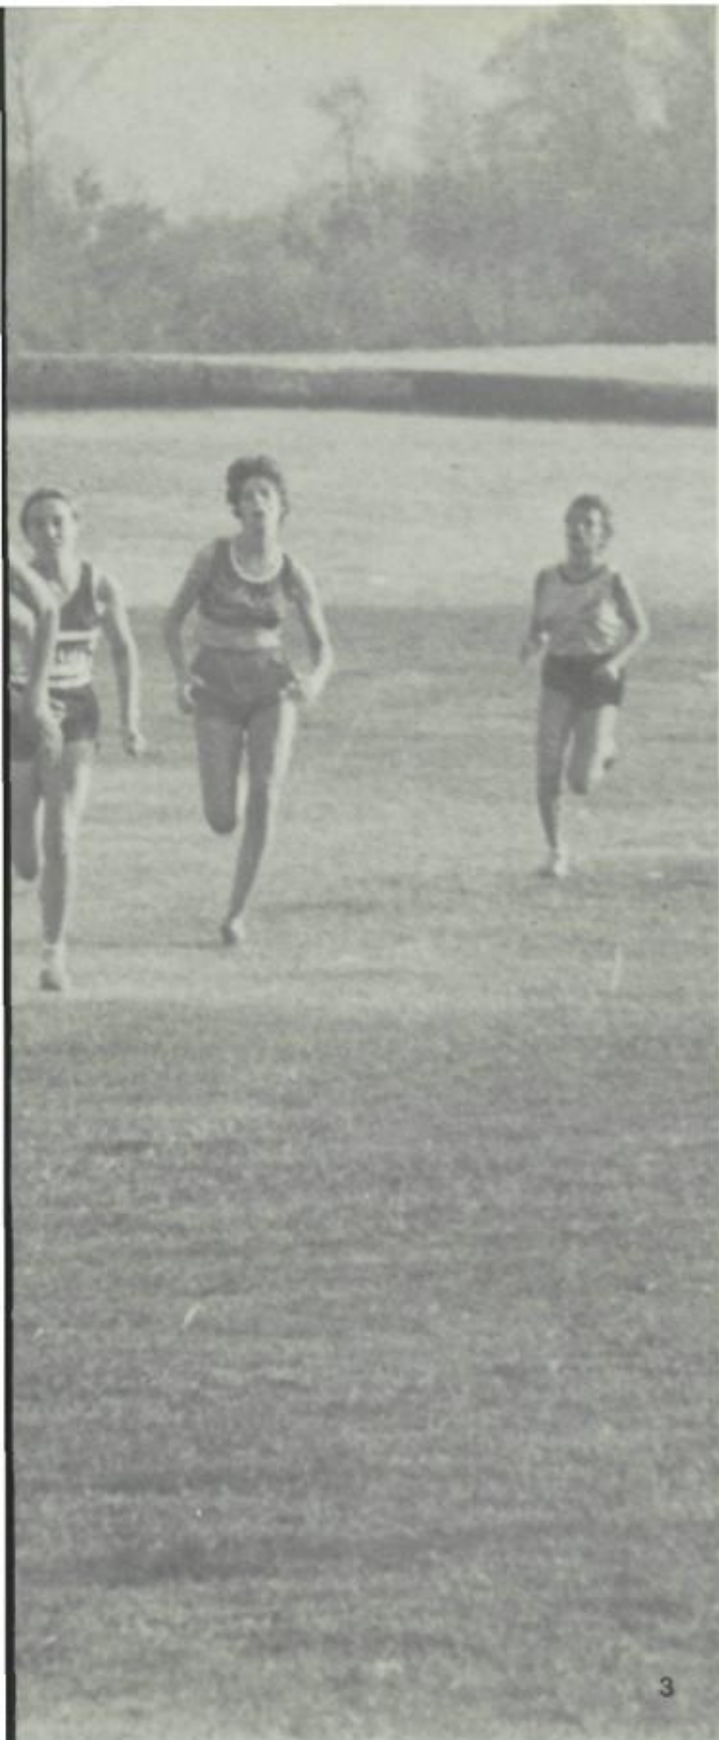

3. Colleen Healy leads 2 Patriot runners and a teammate in the girls race.

Swimmers Stroke It Better

On your mark, get set, go! And off they went to the best season record Kearny swimming has ever seen. Led by the Varsity team captains Sue Krebs and Amy Lillard, the devoted team was in the water from 6:00-7:00 in the morning, and again from 2:00-4:30 in the afternoon.

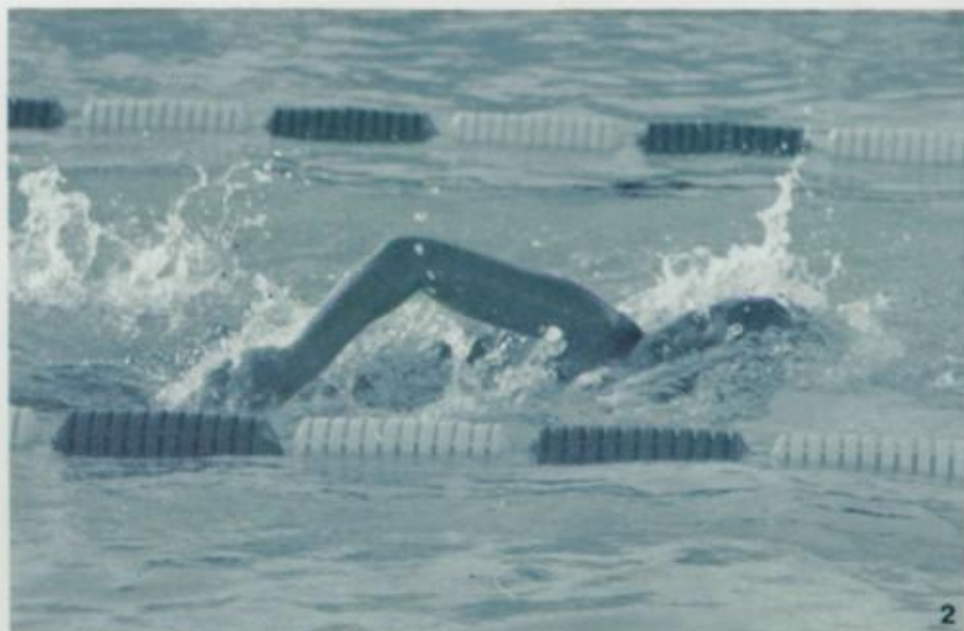

The intense practice paid off, giving the girls an 11-1 record. Their one disappointing meet was against Pt. Loma High, which they lost by only two points. Juniors Mona Anderson and Vanessa Deck and Seniors Amy Lillard and Sue Krebs captured the record for the 200 Medley relay at 2:05.6. Amy retained her 1:08 100 backstroke record. Other Varsity Seniors were Audrey Drown, Barbara Munig, Debbie Sibley and Kristy Lyon.

The team's mottos were: "Think positive," and "You can if you think you can." These, and Coach Kohr's constant pushing, helped the girls overcome the rigorous practices, and the aches and pains that went along with them.

Amy Lillard commented on being a three-year Varsity swimmer: "This year was the best year for Kearny and I enjoyed being the co-captain of such a great group of people. We couldn't have done it without Mrs. Kohr." She also mentioned that the team beat Patrick Henry, a long time rival of Kearny's in many other sports, for the first time in the school's history.

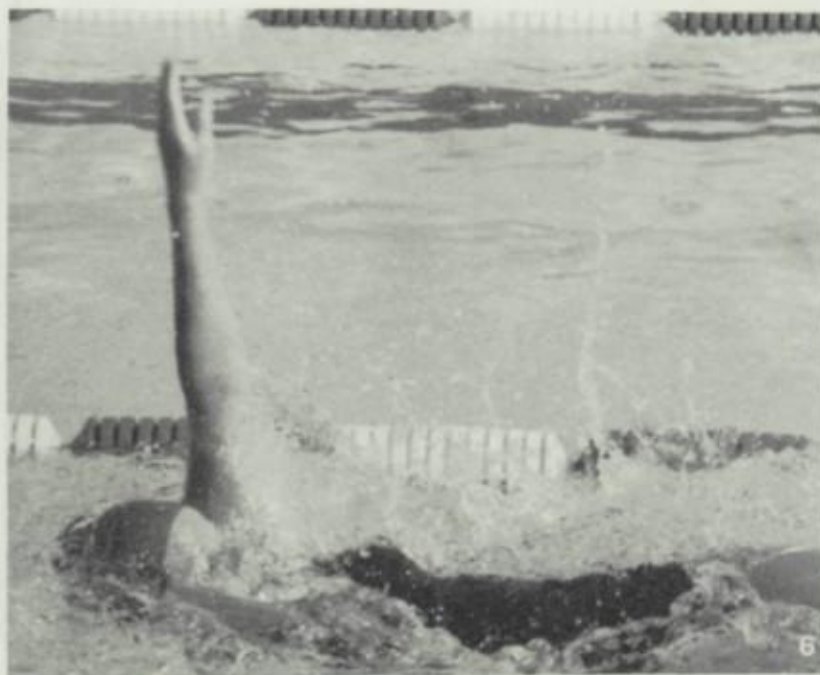

Two individuals went to CIF: Mona Anderson for the 200 IM, and Amy Lillard for the 100 backstroke. Also going to CIF were both the 400 yard and 200 IM relay teams.

Netters Have A Ball

"Mine! Freeball! Short! Dink! Cover!" were among the many yells heard coming from the court as the Girls' Volleyball team positioned themselves during games and practices.

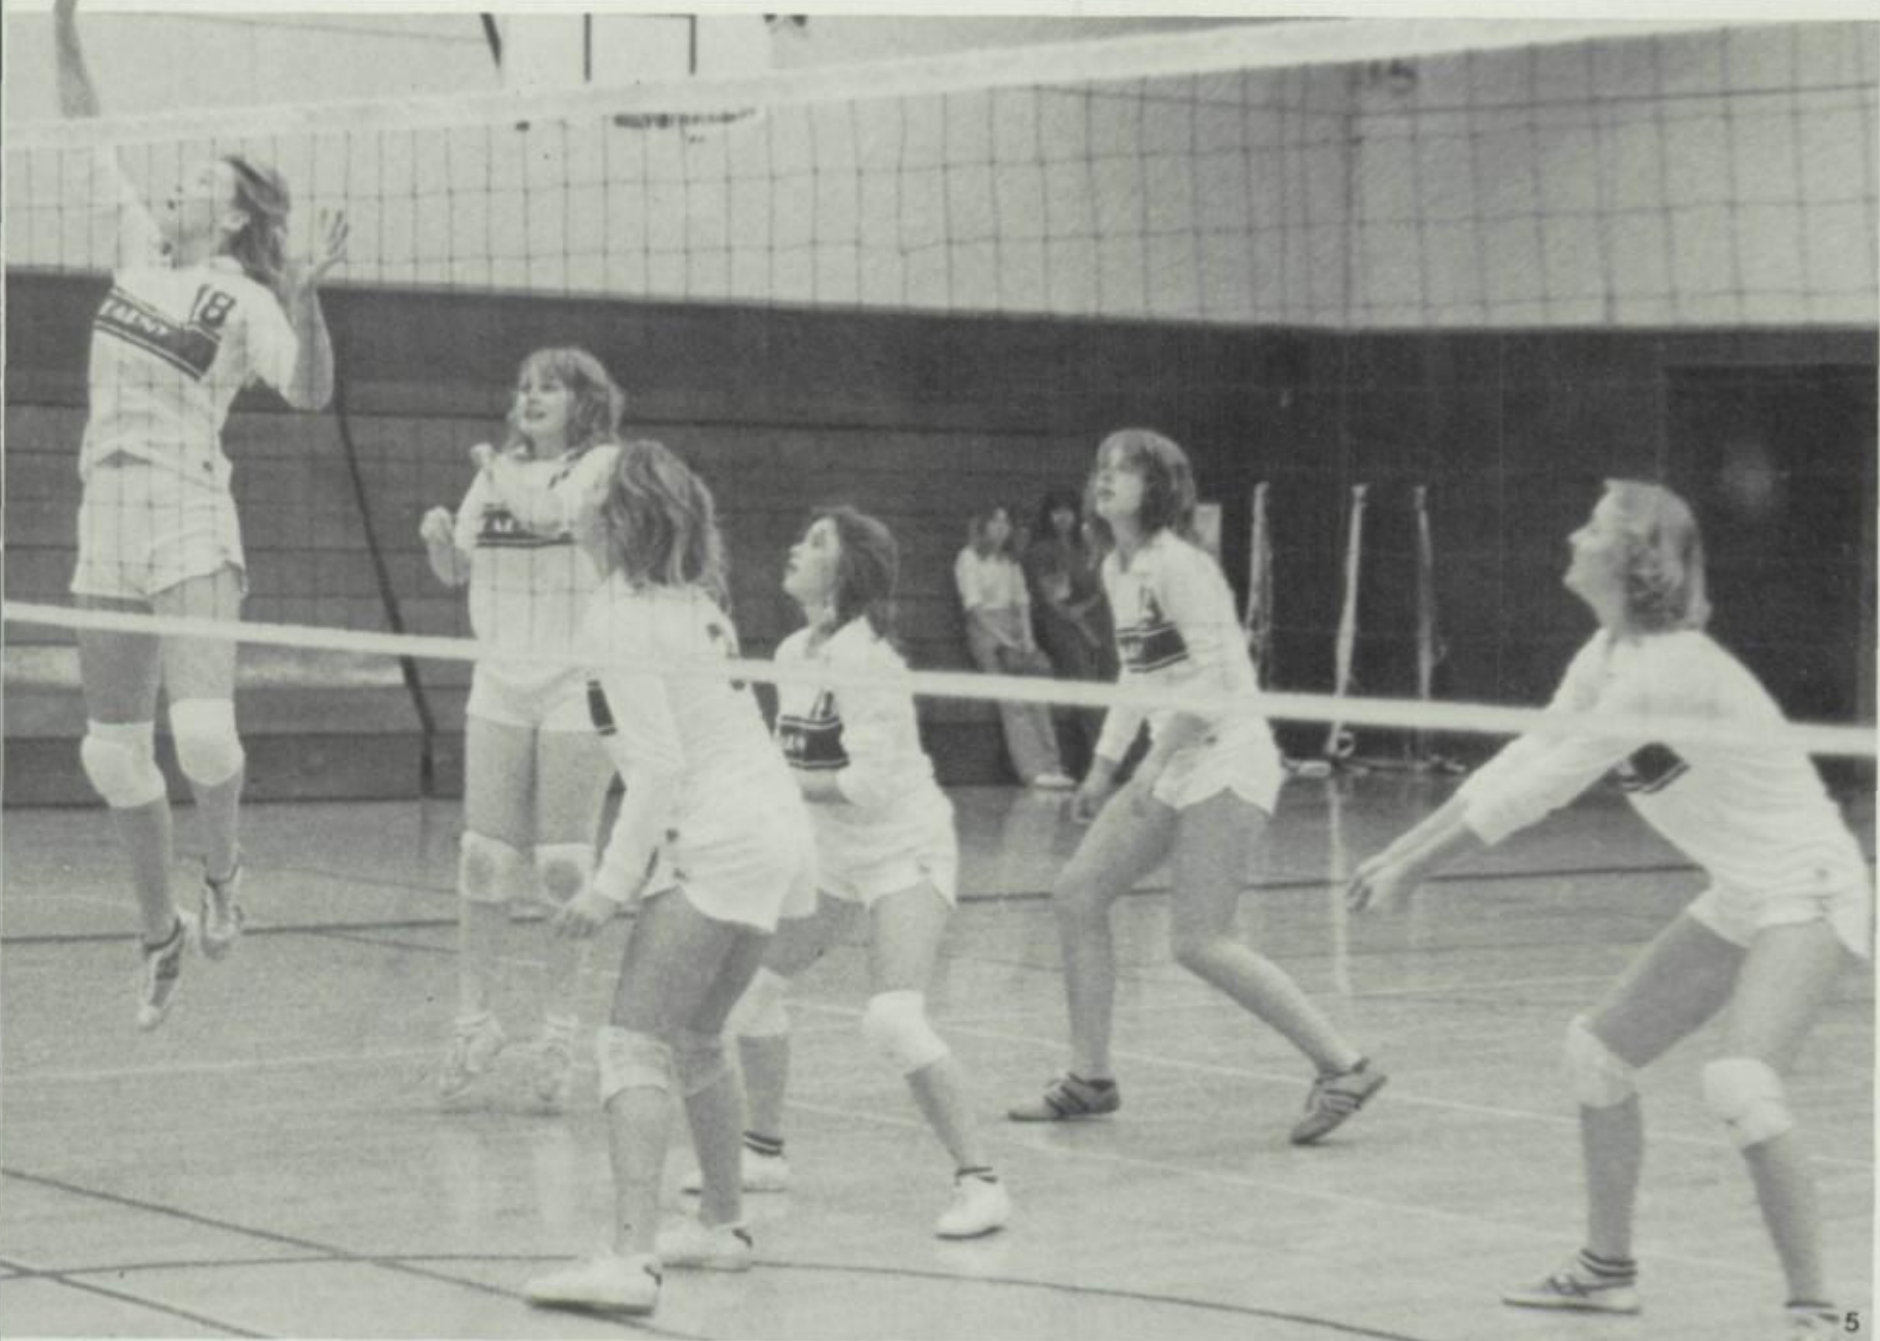

With an overall record of 15-3, the team placed second behind undefeated Mira Mesa. This enabled them to advance into the first round of CIF playoffs, where they fell to a tough Torrey Pines squad, 15-13, 15-4. "They had the potential, but sometimes didn't play up to capacity," stated Coach Dahms.

When asked who she felt was the most valuable player on the team, the coach replied, "Everyone had bad days and everyone had good days. There wasn't a consistent outstanding player." However, one team member's skill was recognized by a great many others. Susie Gardner was picked as one of the eight all-stars out of fifteen schools during a city tournament and she was also chosen as the All-Eastern outstanding player of the year.

As for next year, things are looking good. There will be three returning players, Linda Tatro, Val White, and voted most improved player, Lynn Burmeister. Also two strong players will be coming up from Junior Varsity. Although they didn't match last year's undefeated record, the Junior Varsity won the Eastern League title for the third consecutive year, finishing 13-5.

1. With so many returning players, the team was able to use advanced moves. Julie Porter and Susie Gardner demonstrate a "one."

A Swing And A Miss For Success

The sport of badminton was first played in India, during the late nineteenth century. It later spread to Canada and then to the United States. The game itself is quite stimulating, both mentally and physically. In addition to being a coed sport, badminton also combines the values of individual sport with those of team sport.

Kearny's team, full of inexperienced players, competed in all five divisions of the game: men's singles, women's singles, men's doubles, women's doubles and mixed doubles. Although the team's record wasn't very good, Coach McMillian felt that the team's "effort was strong" and he hopes that the experience his players gained this year will help make next year's team more successful. Outstanding players included Dat Nguyen, Dan To, My Nguyen, and Merina Alesana.

1. Top row: Dat Nguyen, Dan To, Frank Coviello, Brian Wells, Lance Morrow, Eddie Perez, Hien Tran. Middle row: Kirsten Johnson, Kelly Wilson, Leslie Martin, Gene Lagrimas, Merina Alesana, Mary Glutz. Front row: Nhat Nguyen, Farbod Samadian, Huong Luona, My Nguyen, Rod Takeshita.

8. A versatile player, Merina Alesana swats the birdie across the net to her Pt. Loma opponent.

Just For Kicks

Kicking off to an exceptionally improved season, the soccer players combined their talents to reach as many goals as possible.

A probable reason for this improved season was the two and one-half hours a day, five days a week they devoted to perfecting their skills. Motivation was provided by volunteers Jeff Comfort, Bill Bullock, and Trey Conrique and Coaches Fleming and Schwartz.

The most exciting games played by the team included those against Lincoln and Parker. Their 7-1 victory over the latter could be attributed to an overwhelming offense. In the challenge against Lincoln High School, Lincoln captured the lead the first half at 1-0, but Kearny's offense pulled through with a winning score of 2-1.

With last year's disappointing season, this year's success was inevitable.

1. Goalie, Brian Fordyce, blocks a Hilltop scoring attempt.

2. A third year letterman, Stephan Kalber, passes the ball to his eagerly awaiting teammate, Brad Belsheim.

4. While a frustrated Mar Vista defender groans in agony, Dallas Harris takes control of the ball.

5. "En Garde!" Mohamad Ghaffori seems to be exclaiming, as he gets ready to score.

6. The team decides what strategies they will need to win the game against Mar Vista.

Get the Scoop

To be a worthy contender, a Field Hockey team must have strong, goal-oriented forwards, who strive to score, and must be backed by a supportive defense, whose job is to keep the ball out of the goal cage!

There were several varsity standouts. One was Luci Lagrimas, a third year player, who has been selected to all league and all CIF honors in past seasons and has already been voted M.V.P. by her teammates for two years. Other standouts include: Cathy Caplener, a two year player, who exhibited intelligent plays and aggressiveness; Cruzanne Conrique, a third year, left halfback; Jessa Bulacan, a hard working, two year sweep, and Sandy Smith a quick, two year link. Included with the experienced players were those that kept improving and helped the team gain the Eastern League Co-Championship.

7. Playing the very difficult position of left half back, Cruzanne Conrique uses her quickness to move in on the ball.

Wrestlers

Pin One for Miller

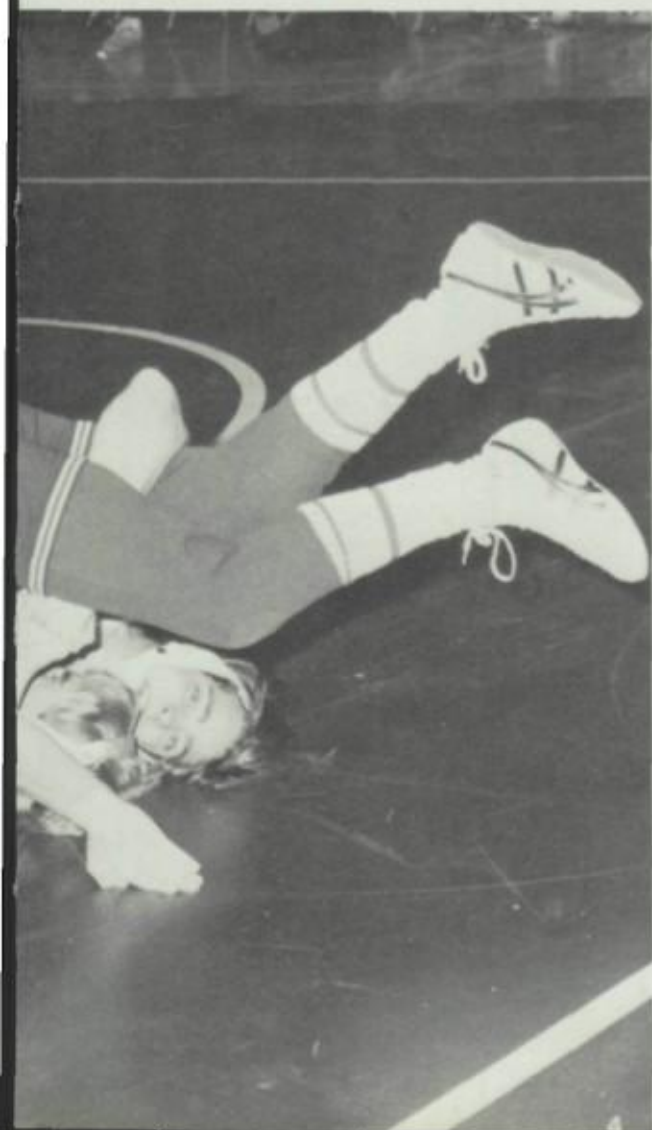

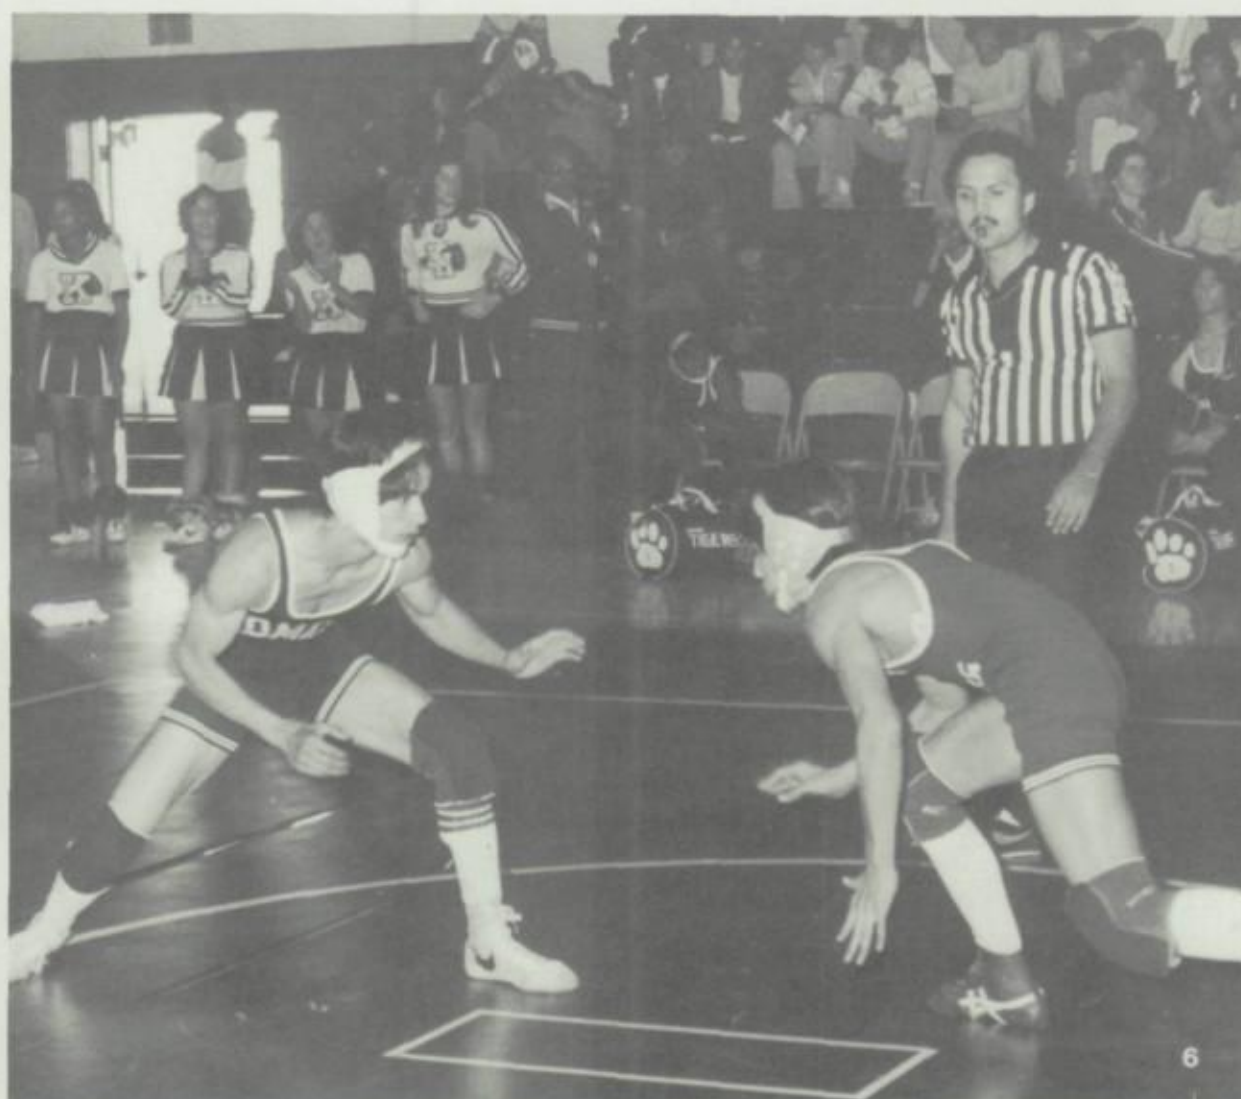

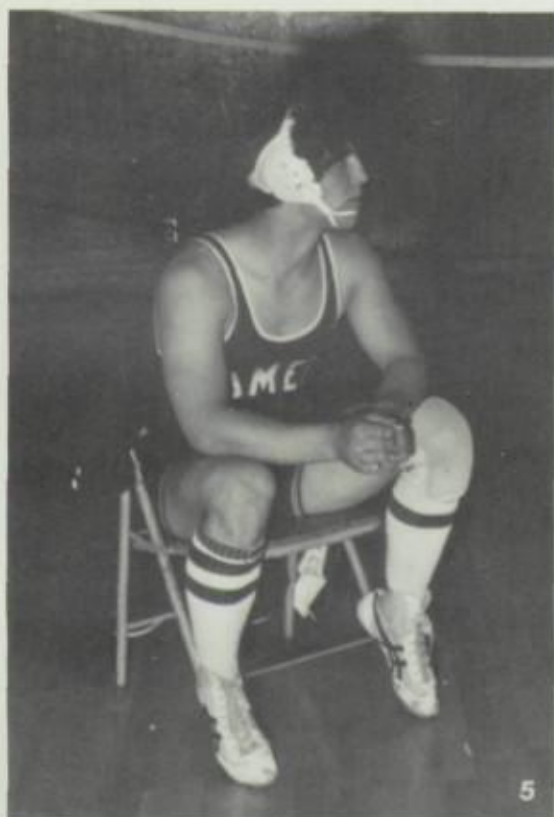

Always striving for a high quality wrestling program, Chris Miller ended his five year stay as KHS wrestling Coach with a stunning success. Kearny matmen tied Morse and Madison for the league Championship.

Assistant wrestling Coach, Mike Prosser, said of the team: "They were together, willing to work hard and had the intensity to make them champions." He also branded Miller a deciding factor in the team's 6-1 season. "He had a great interest in his squad. He would push his wrestlers as far as he knew they could go."

The winning team possessed many standouts. Among them were Ron Stevenson, Ricky Babuta and Dale Warner, all of whom went undefeated during the season.

Usually one of the least publicized sports, Miller's squad inspired renewed interest in wrestling, both from participants and spectators.

1. Wrestling Team: Top row: G. McCall, M. Covax, J. Bashum, J. Story, J. Romero, J. Mascarianna, R. Babuta, J. Melson, A. Gallagher. Second row: B. Baldwin, J. Cahill, M. Snyder, P. Sparks, J. Diamond Girls Shine in '81

"Their attitudes and relationships with each other," Coach Blum quipped when asked what the strong points were of this year's softball team. That, combined with strong fielding and hitting led the team into one of the top spots in the Eastern League. The team, which had higher levels of skill and motivation than last year's, started the season off with a 1-0 loss to Vista, the #1 squad in the county. "We played well against them," Coach Blum commented.

Another game well played by the girls was against Madison, also rated high in the county. Unfortunately, they lost that game, too, on an unearned run, 1-0.

Coach Blum felt that the whole team consisted of standouts. "We have 15 players that stand out for each other," said Blum, who is in her 11th year of coaching softball. "They have the desire to do a lot. They're about the best people around."

1. J.V., Back row: Robin Walker, Lily Quidachay, Carol Banks, Kiki Lane, Sharon Davis, Coach Hulbert. Middle row: Marina Alesana, Net Agulto, Darcy Kirby, Dawn Tipton, Donna Martinez, Melissa Adrid. Front row: Janice Townes, Kay Williams.

7. Tina Connelly lays into a Mira Mesa pitch.

CIF— Just One Step Further

When the game of basketball is talked about at Kearny, the word "win" usually fits right in with the subject. This year was no exception.

There was only one difficulty which seemed to be spotted by the coach, Tim Short: "They're the worst shooting team ever." However, they moved up to second place in the league and possessed a defense which was ranked sixth in San Diego.

Unselfishness, an important quality for a good team, was one point that the players had on their side. There was a definite benefit in their toughest game against Morse, in which Kearny won in the last minute, 61-60.

There were several standouts, beginning with Tom Tatum, followed by Phill Howard, Duane Henson, Bill Eggert, and Lawrence Winters.

"This team was the most enjoyable in three years," stated Coach Short.

1. Towering over a Mt. Carmel opponent, Lawrence Winters takes the ball up to shoot for two. Although it was a tough game, Kearny came out on top.

2. Varsity team: Back row: Coach Short, T. Tatum, D. Henson, B. Williams, T. Jackson, C. Davidson, M. Menas. Front row: Mgr. Z. Zamora, B. Eggert, D. Robinson, L. Winters, J. Moore, T. Garlin, J. Flake, D. Barron, and Mgr. M. Gleason.

3. Pausing for a moment, Phil Howard glances around before proceeding to pass the ball to a teammate, during a crucial game against Morse.

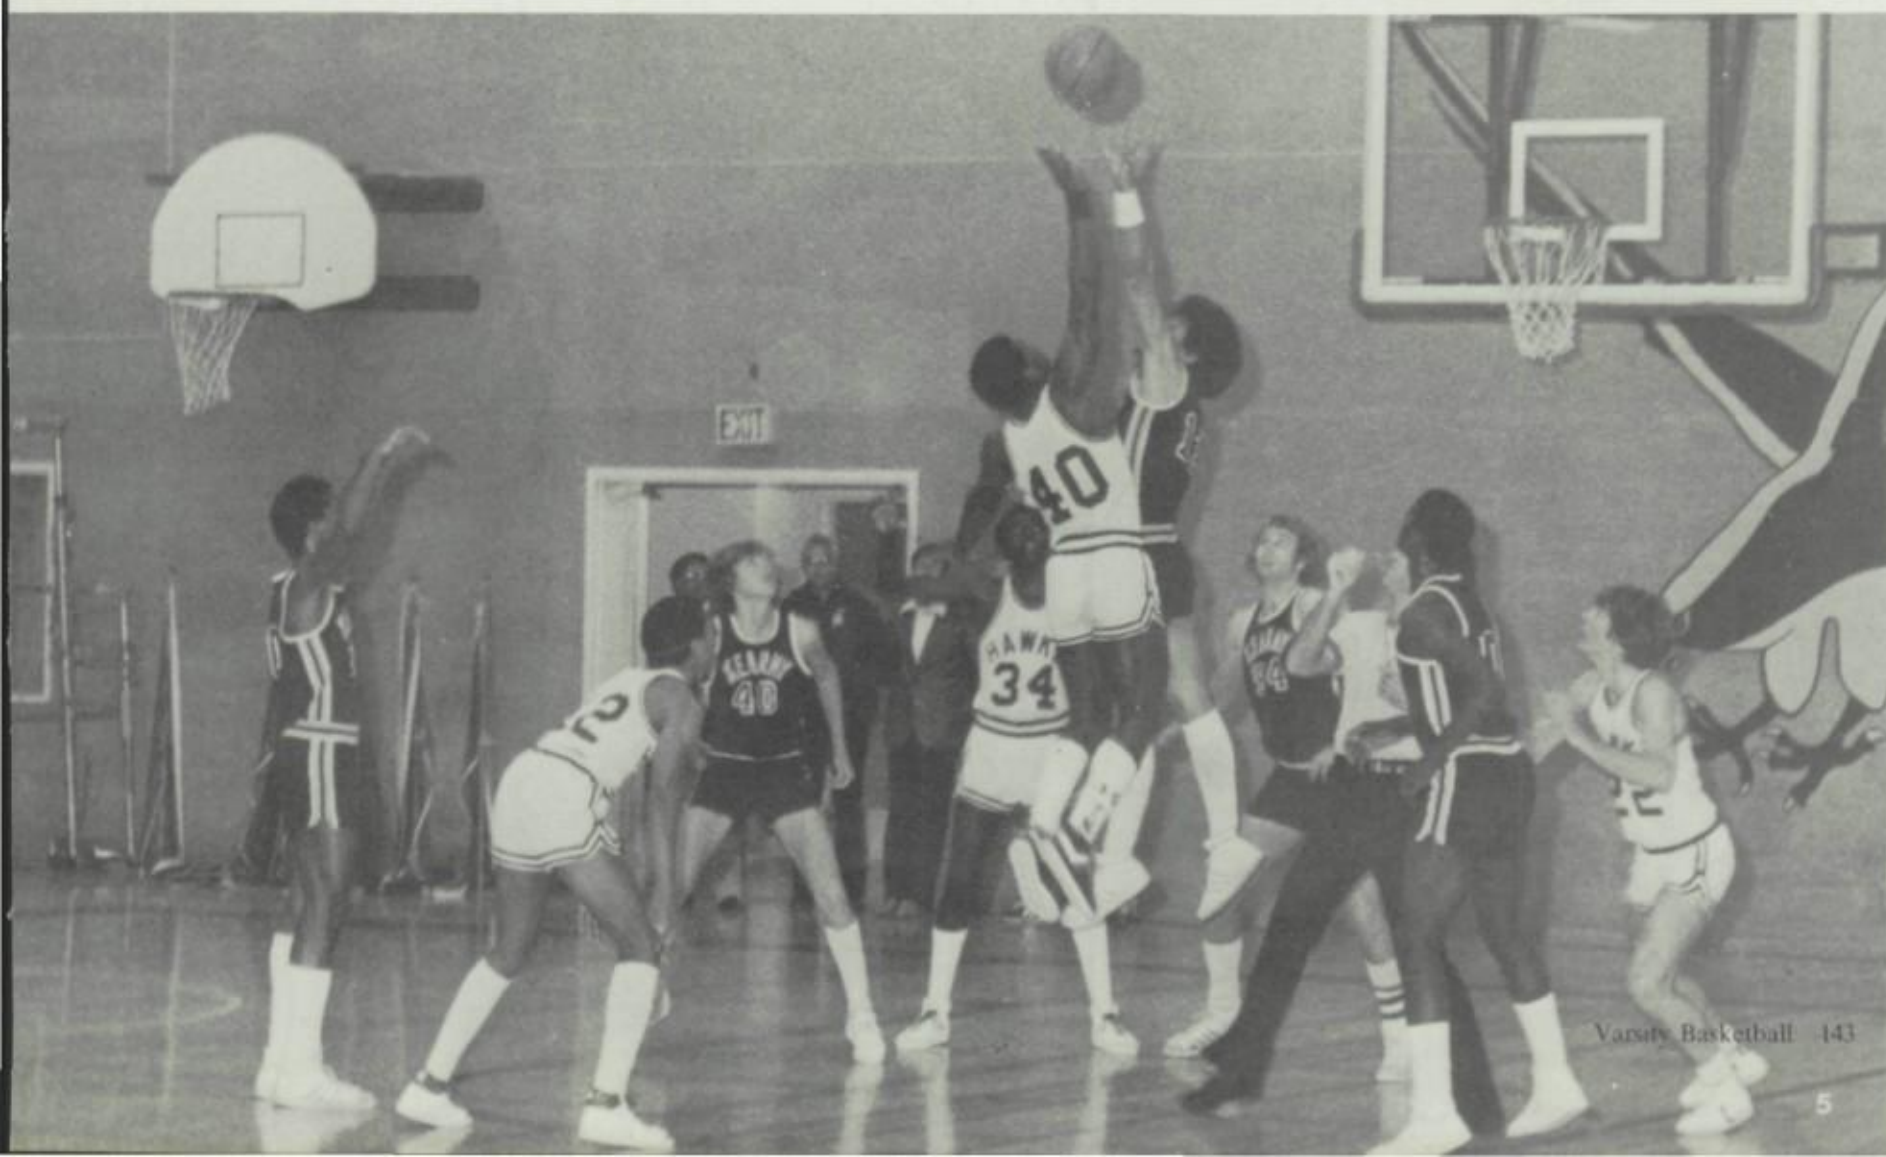

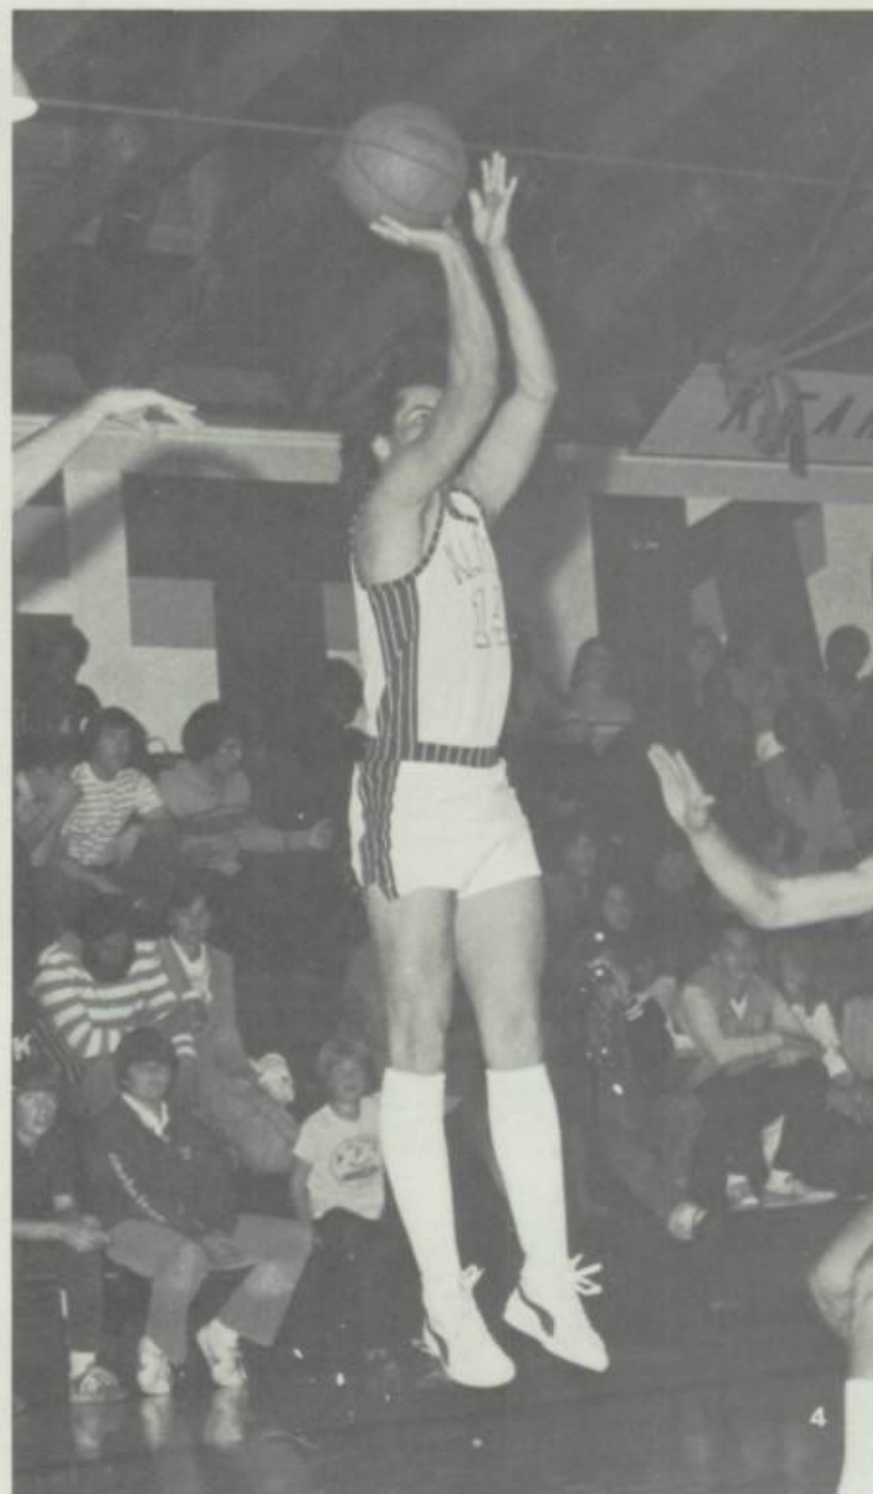

4. With deep concentration, standout Bill Eggert, shoots from the outside in a pre-season game against Mt. Carmel.

5. Jump Ball! Sophomore, Eric Epenesa, springs from the ground with great force in an attempt to reach the ball first and send it to another Komet player.

J.V.ers Gain Experience

Bouncing into the 1981 season, the J.V. Basketball team once again found themselves composed of an abundance of Sophomore athletes. Because they were a young team, most of the players had little or no experience working with each other. In spite of their obstacles, each individual player worked hard to improve his skills, thus contributing to the outlook of the team. Tony Griffen, Eric Epenesa and Pat Jones were just a few of the many players who have shown great improvement and have given Kearny their all out effort in each game.

Coach Cohen commented about the J.V. team: "Their knowledge of the game has helped the team's success a great deal. We should do well this season with toughest competition from Patrick Henry and Morse."

1. In an attempt to bring the ball downcourt, Eric Epenesa gives a perfect pass to Tony Griffen.
2. Yelling for an open teammate, Troy McLaughlin tries to dazzle his opponent.
3. J.V. Top Row: T. Griffen, E. Epenesa, P. Jones, T. McLaughlin, R. Portugal, P. Warren, S. Hicks. Front Row: K. Holt, F. Rogozienski, S. Bejarano, R. Robinson, L. Flake, R. Hutchinson, Coach Cohen.
4. Outstanding sophomore, Eric Epenesa, reaches up for the ball and tips it in for two.
5. With a look of intenseness, Robby Robinson jumps high and prepares to shoot.

Ready . . . Aim . . . Putt!

Who are those students who use clubs and guns for sport? No, not hoodlums—it's the golf and rifle teams.

The golf team, coached by Mr. Perpich, called Torrey Pines Golf Course its home. They were assigned specific days on which they could practice and work with one another to perfect each stroke.

There were several outstanding players. Nancy Harrison, one of the top high school golfers, was very strong, followed by Alfred Zamora, David Munz, and Brian Farrow. "The team is a very good group to work with. They have an excellent attitude towards improvement." Coach Perpich replied when asked how he liked working with the team.

As for the rifle team, this group consisted of three different teams. There was a Varsity, J.V., and a Girls'. In competition they shot for a maximum of 300 points, 200 being considered great. Some of the outstanding shooters included: James Kilen (varsity), Frank Schultz (J.V.), and Lisa Hurst (Girls).

When asked how he liked working with the team, Colonel Hester replied, "It's interesting working with the shooters. Some people try hard and you can see a definite improvement from when they start."

1. Varsity Team: Back row; J. Brown, J. Stanley, J. Smith, D. Hearrington, Front row; J. Kilen, E. Bogner, P. Yang.

2. J.V. Team: Back row; J. Cagel, P. Moore, F. Schultz, Front row; K. Tighe, L. Hurst.

3. Girls Team: K. Tighe, L. Hurst, K. Sewell, D. Fernandez.

4. Carefully placing his club, Steve Gondolfo demonstrates how to set up before taking the actual swing.

5. Dedicated golfer, Nancy Harrison, demonstrates the swing that will hopefully one day help her become a professional.

6. With a look of deep concentration, Jack Stanley poses in the prone position-one of the three basics in shooting competition.

7. Demonstrating the three basic positions: standing, kneeling and prone, Joe Smith, James Kilen, and Jack Stanley eye the small targets on the far wall.

8. Golf team: M. Gonzales, J. Keesemans, S. Gondolfo, B. Sanchez, D. Munz, B. Farrow, G. Sheffler, N. Harrison, Coach Perpich.

Shooting For The Top

Shooting for a great season, the Girls' Basketball team started out with the right attitude.

Led by Carolyn Blum, in her second year at Kearny, Varsity's promising players included Janine Philips, Lori Appling, Siretta Yocum and Zebbie Zamora. J.V.'s promising players were Sherri Brown and Norma Klemaski.

When asked the ingredients for a good team, Coach Blum replied: "A positive attitude, skill and hustle."

With seven returning players on Varsity, Kearny's squad was confident of finishing near the top. Their toughest opponents were Patrick Henry, Madison and Clairemont.

Blum commented: "Next year we should have a good team. We have a lot of talent here at Kearny. This year's team was good, hard working and had good attitudes. I really enjoyed working with them all."

1. One of Varsity's top players, Siretta Yocum, shoots a jump shot, while Poway defenders look on in awe.

2. Getting ready to shoot the ball, Janine Philips steps on the defender's foot to prevent the block.

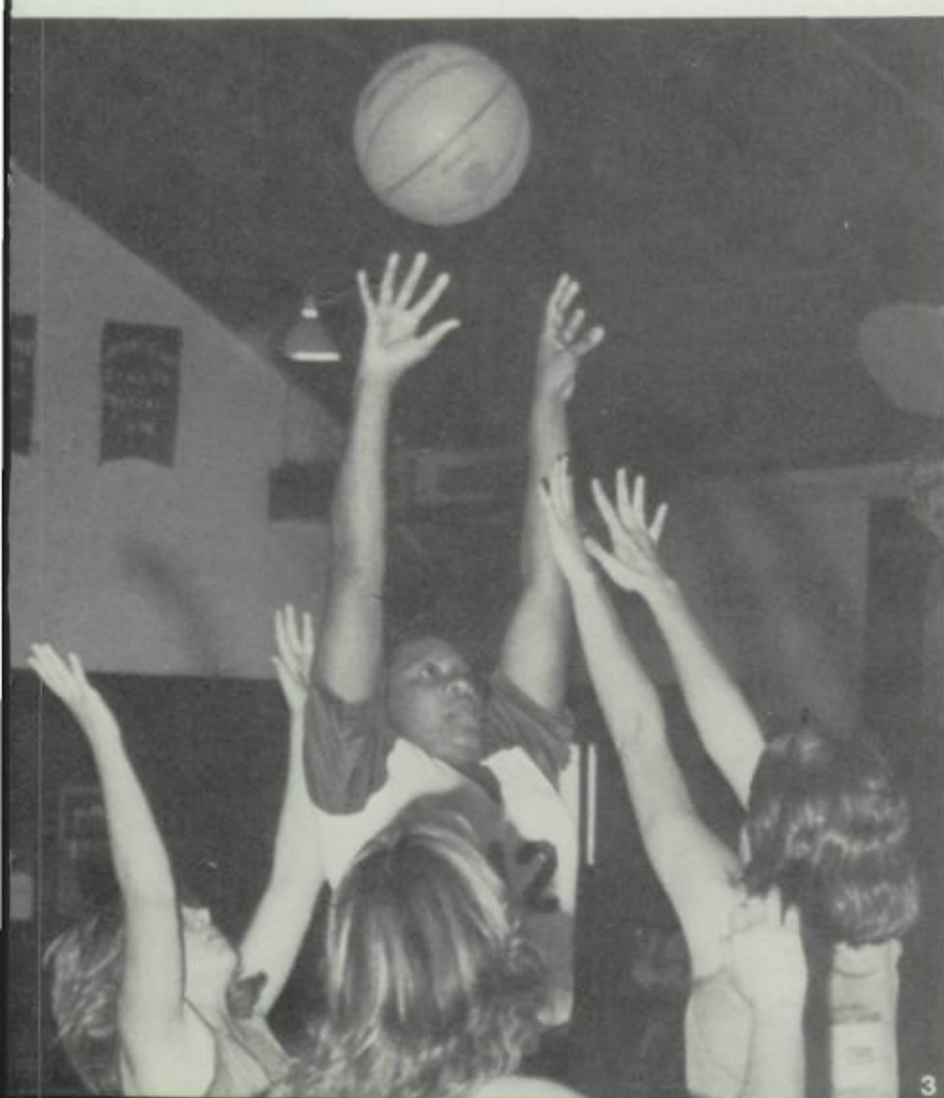

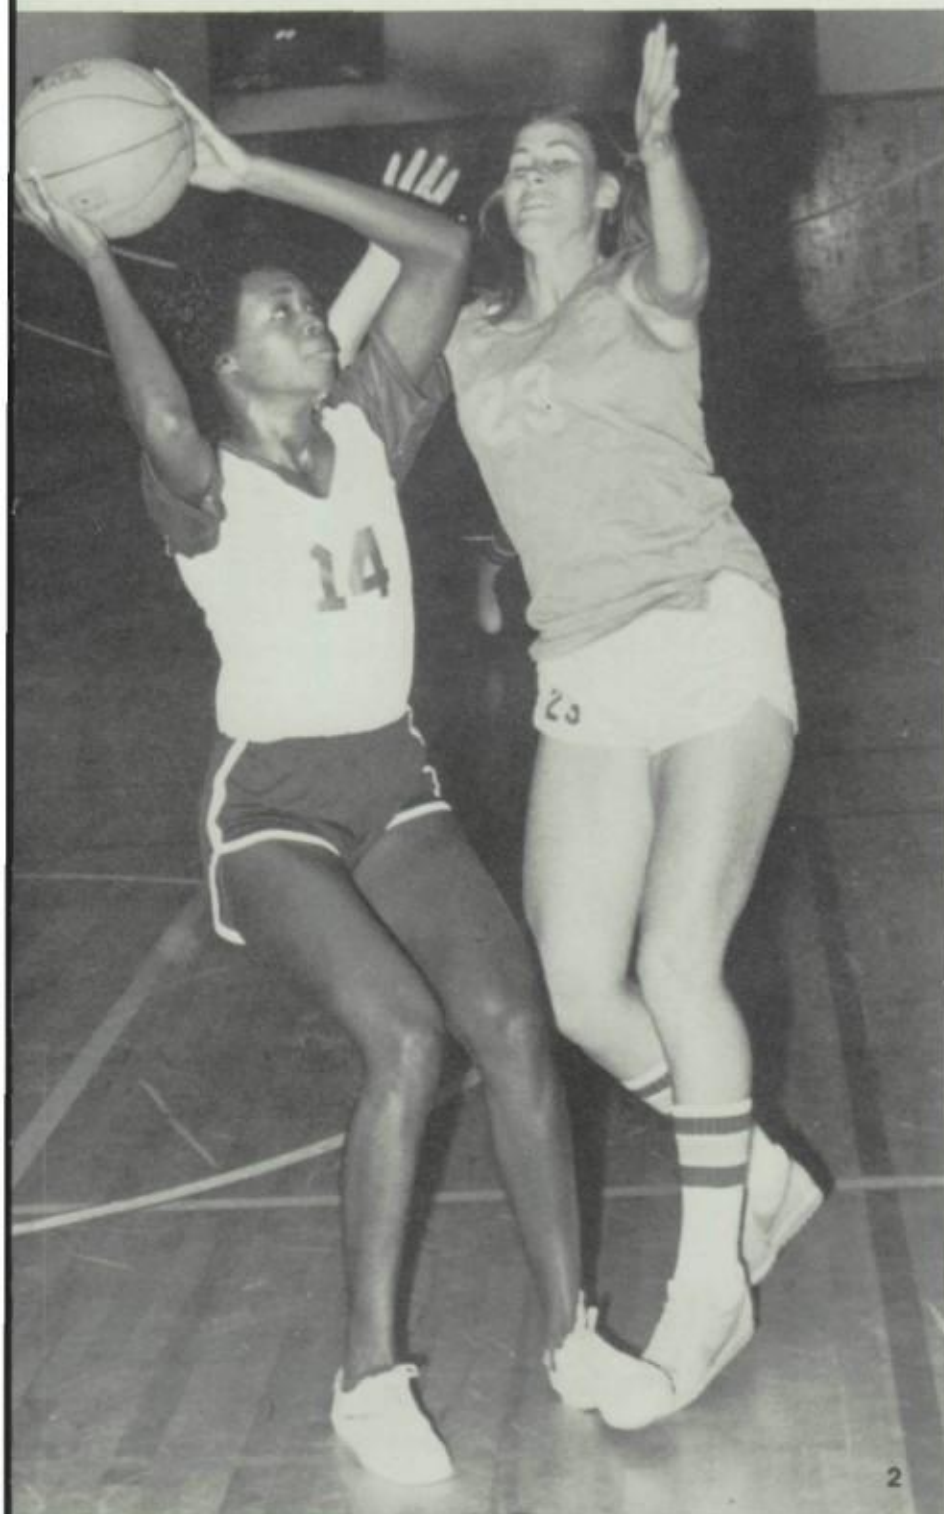

3. Amidst a swarm of opponents, Lori Appling makes a jump shot from the free throw line.

4. Varsity—Front row: L. Quidachay, L. Tatro, K. Brown. Top row: M. Gauvain, Z. Zamora, E. Block, C. Bowman, R. Walker, J. Philips, S. Yocum, P. Hogan, L. Ellis, L. Appling, A. Avery.

5. Looking for an open teammate, Zebbie Zamora dribbles down court.

Swimmers Stroke it to CIF

Bang! The gun sounded and the Men's Swimming team dove in for another outstanding season.

The stokers, led by Coach Kohr, had a very strong squad. Placed at the top of their list was Tom Prevost, a third year man, followed by other seniors: Bob Infantino, Bill Walsh, Tosh Shiotani, Jeff Brown, Mike Mills and Pat Greeson. Along with these were: Karl Becker, an excellent junior swimmer; and Jason Greeson, a promising sophomore.

The team entered two tournaments: Poway Relays and Iron Man Relays. Fighting against several top-notch schools, the Komets placed 3rd at Poway, capturing a Kearny record of 13 medals. Much of the team's success could be attributed to their dedication at both morning and afternoon workouts.

When asked how she liked working with the team, Coach Kohr replied, "I think they're super. It's trying at times, but that's the way kids are." She also said of the team: "They have the ability. Intensity, that's the key."

1. The team's strong link in the butterfly events, Bill "B.J." Walsh, strokes his way toward the city championships.

2. Strong in both distance and sprint freestyle, Bob Infantino splashes toward the finish of the 500-yard freestyle event.

3. Varsity—Front row: M. Green, J. Brown, T. Shiotani, D. Borlek, M. Wright, B. Walsh, Coach Kohr. Top row: Coach Odou, P. Lozano, J. Brown, M. Mills, K. Becker, T. Prevost, B. Infantino, T. Hicks, J. Greeson, P. Greeson.

4. J.V.—Front row: F. DiCarlo, J. Zamora, R. Tristan, S. Dempsey. Top row: S. Infantino, R. Mills, B. McDons, M. Buse, M. Kovacs, A. Lillard, N. Riddle.

5. Three-year Varsity swimmer and C.I.F. qualifier in almost every event, Tom "Animal" Prevost shows off his excellent breast stroke form.

6. Part of the strong core of backstrokers, Jeff Brown stretches towards the wall on the first leg of the Medley Relay.

7. A fine all-around swimmer and excellent back-stroker, Pat Greeson executes his stroke with precision and grace.

8. Former team member Ed Kramer inspires the team with his optimistic outlook and good natured personality.

Just a Dash to the Top

A lot of time and effort went into making the Girls' Track team a contender for city finals. With a strong relay team and experienced members, the squad finished up the season in good form.

Standouts included Cheryl Buchanan, Doria Jones and Theresa Johnson. These girls not only had the talent to make an excellent team, they had the determination and desire as well.

The Jack-in-the-Box Indoor Track Meet, held at the Sports Arena, was the first chance the squad had to show off their competitiveness. Schools throughout the San Diego district came to take part. Kearny ran it out to the end, capturing a third place, which was an excellent way to begin the season.

With all of their ambition, the squad had one of Kearny's most successful seasons.

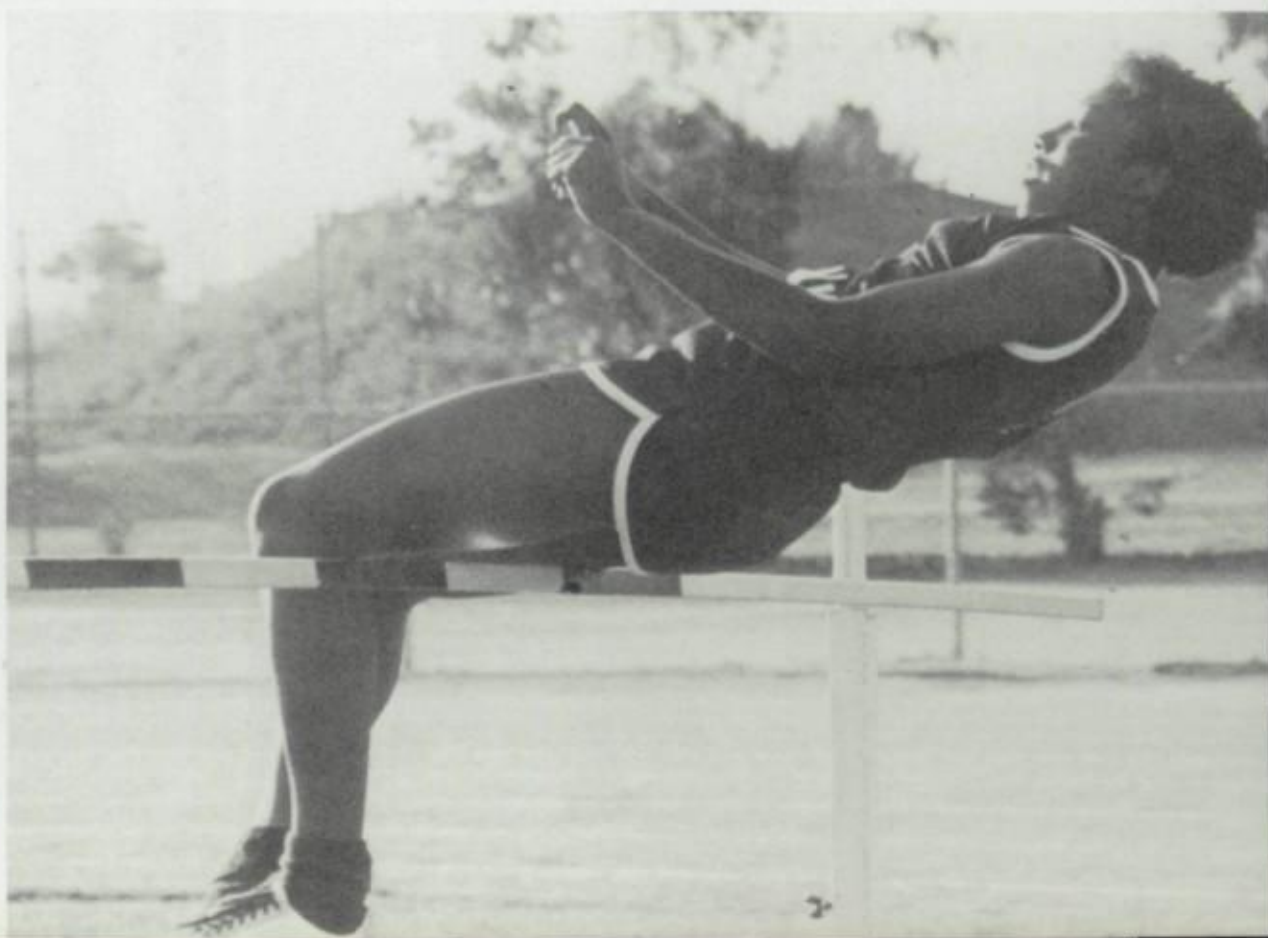

1. A bystander gives a word of encouragement, as Joy Spencer completes the 440.

2. High jumper, Teresa Johnson, springs for a winning jump against El Camino.

3. With a successful baton pass, Cheryl Buchanan and Janice Towns complete the relay race, finishing in 2nd place.

4. Striving for accuracy and precision, the 440 relay team practices passing the baton.

Tracksters Make a Run For CIF

"We're in the toughest league in the county," said Tony Griswold, head coach of the Boys' Track team, "and to win the Eastern League title and qualify for CIF would be a tremendous accomplishment."

Looking into the new season, both Varsity and JV were expected to break a few school records and have winning seasons. Composed of mostly Juniors and Sophomores, both teams excelled in the sprinting events. Juniors Paul Day and Patrick Jarret were the best in the 100 meter and 440 yard dashes, respectively. The relay team was considered one of the best in the county, winning the 640 yd. relay at the annual Jack-in-the-Box Invitational with a time of 1:07.6. Other outstanding tracksters included Randy Montesanto in the distances, Darryl Sanders and Danny Francisco in the jumping events and Reggie Brown in the hurdles.

"This is the largest turnout I've ever had for track," said Coach Griswold. "With 60 guys, we're able to fill every event and get those extra points we need to win our meets."

1. Hoping for his best throw yet, Bob Thiss gets ready to hurl the discus into the air.

2. In an attempt to capture both 1st and 2nd places, Randy Montesanto and Joe Manuel take the lead in the two-mile run.

3. Junior Reggie Brown displays perfect form en-route to a first place in the 330 low hurdles against El Camino.

4. Milers Matt Modlin and Luis Leon make their run for the finish.

Boys' Tennis Goes for a Smash

Intense mental concentration combined with hard hours of practice were the two factors that gave the Boys' Tennis team a decided edge.

The Varsity Squad consisted of veteran players, such as last year's top seeded Jeff Vivian; Seniors Kevin Kobayashi, Dat Nguyen, Clark Wisswell and Ernest Winer.

Experience was not the only asset the team possessed, though. Talented Juniors and Sophomores helped strengthen their offense. In fact, Sophomore Rodney Evans was the number one singles player. Due to a balanced ratio of Seniors to Sophomores, they were able to have depth in their game plan.

Even with all these strong points, their only complaint was the tough league they were in. Point Loma, Crawford and Patrick Henry were the roughest opponents. Despite this drawback, Coach Janc hoped for second place in the Eastern League. However, he was more concerned with keeping the teams' record over .500.

Coach Janc predicted that success would "depend on the strength of the team spirit."

1. Eagerly awaiting instructions from Coach Janc, the Boys' Tennis team listens attentively.

2. "Practice makes perfect" flashes through Dat Nguyen's mind as he hits a solid forehand down the line.

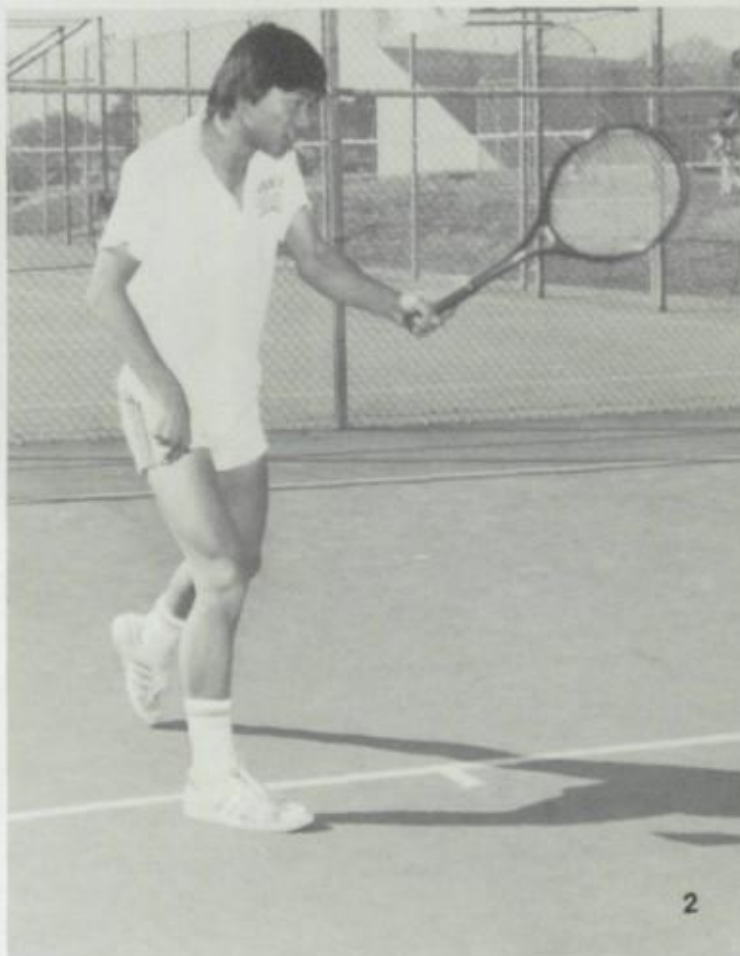

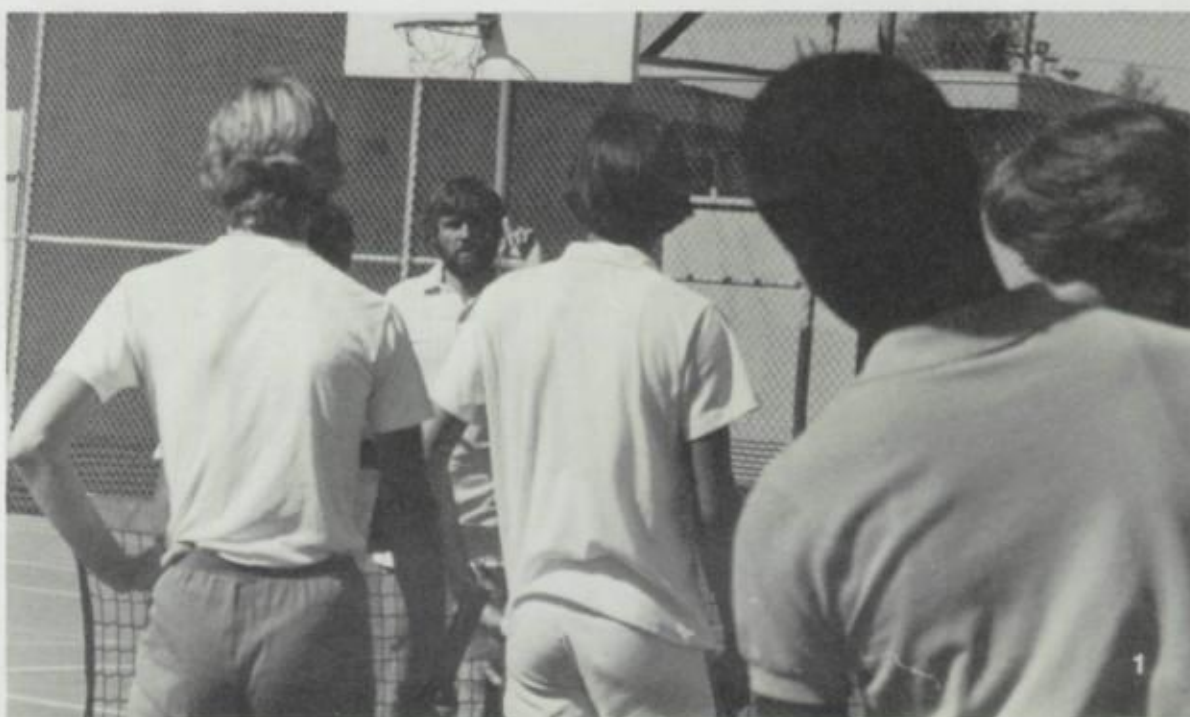

3. Front row: V. Trang, S. Hinnt, D. Nguyen, J. Vivian, K. Willis, J. Lee, R. Evans, C. Acera, F. Mationg, A. Nguyen. Top row: J. Bulacan, S. Bakke, R. Beverly, K. Kobayashi, C. Wisswell, E. Winer, R. Matias, P. Poblete, D. Zuelke, F. DeJesus, Coach Janc.

4. As the ball approaches down the middle, Chris Acera and Romeo Matias jump for the volley.

5. Anticipating a smash by An Nguyen during practice, Clark Wisswell drops back to the baseline while Sam Hunt bravely awaits the hit.

6. Strategy is a key factor in tennis. Jeff Vivian advises Kelly Willis on this point.

7. With concentration and talent, Rodney Evans powers a backhand to his opponent.

A Swing For C.I.F.

Going for the fifth consecutive Eastern League Championship, this year proved to be an exciting and promising one for the Varsity Baseball team.

With top infielders Billy Eggert and Mark Darnell, the team's defense was impressively strong. Other all-around athletes of the team included Bob Lasoya, Cameron Dube and Jeff Wynns. The only real problem the team faced was the lack of seasoning of some of the Varsity players.

The team put in many long, hot hours of practice. Working on running, hitting and catching helped bring the team together. This team spirit carried them through many rough spots and made it easier to endure the disappointments together, although the extra effort paid off for them in the end.

Going into his 25th year as baseball coach at Kearny, Taylor expressed his enjoyment of the game and the many rewards of working with the players. When asked what he thought makes a good team, Taylor replied, "Individuals giving of themselves to make a 'we' team, instead of just an 'I' team."

4. Pitcher Glenn Jones fires a curve which goes for the third strike against Mission Bay.

5. The team rejoices as Bill Eggert comes in after hitting a home run.

6. Anxiously awaiting their turn at bat, players keep an eye on the game.

J.V. Baseball is a Hit

Made up of all sophomores, the Junior Varsity Baseball team began the season with little experience. As Coach McMillan put it, "With J.V., you never know if they'll turn out well, but it's always interesting to find out."

McMillan led the young team through their first unsure season. The determined squad overcame the hurdles of inexperience and learned to work well with each other. Explosive hitting, combined with a strong defense, kept the team on top.

With their strength in all areas and their keen sense of competition, the J.V. Baseball team finished the year with pride.

1. Front row: E. Cahill, A. Chapman, T. Bauer, J. Manuel, R. Takeshita. 2nd row: E. Grabot, T. McLaughlin, R. Portugal, R. Taylor, M. Sibley, D. Newman. Top row: Coach McMillan, B. Wells, C. Corbin, P. Caudillo, J. Eaddy, M. Peterson, E. Epenesa, V. Jenette.

2. The squad rejoices after a 4 to 3 victory over Mission Bay.

3. Catcher Mike Penny stands ready as an opponent slides home safely.

4. Pitcher Ed Grabot winds up for a fast ball.

5. During J.V.'s first practice, Danny Newman exhibits his powerful hitting abilities.

Boys' Volleyball Sets Up For Good Season

As the Boys' Volleyball team entered its fourth year at Kearny, they had the disadvantage of having only three returning players. Even so, Coach Patsy Malta thought they had the ability to do well in their division. She commented, "I like working with these boys. They have a good attitude, they work hard, and they play well together."

Coach Malta is a graduate of Kearny and played varsity volleyball. She is now an official for women's high school volleyball and came here especially to coach the men's team.

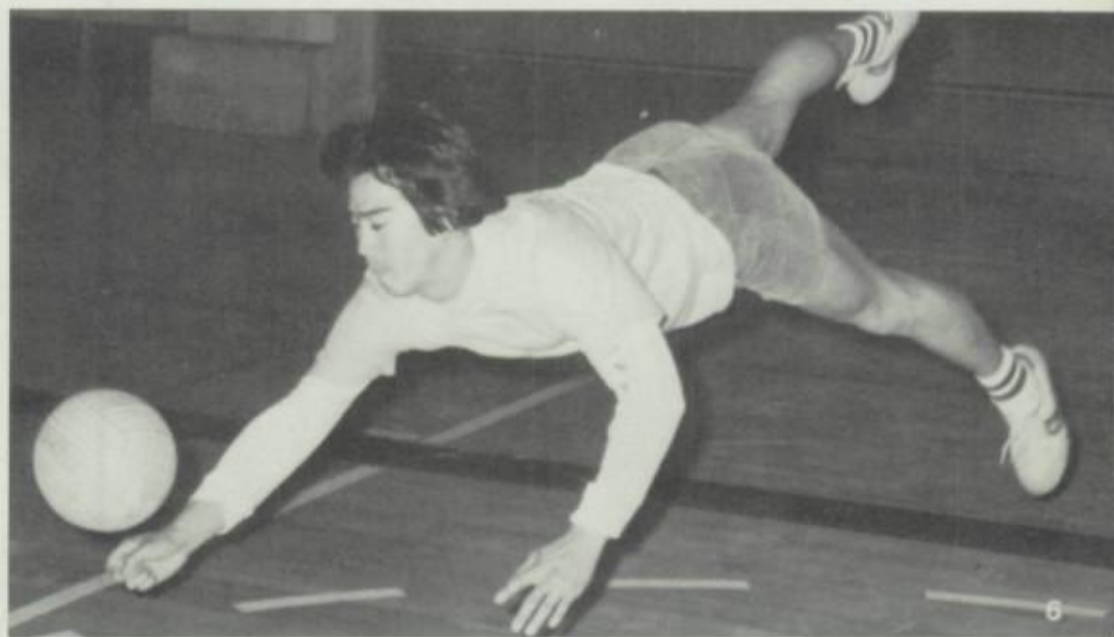

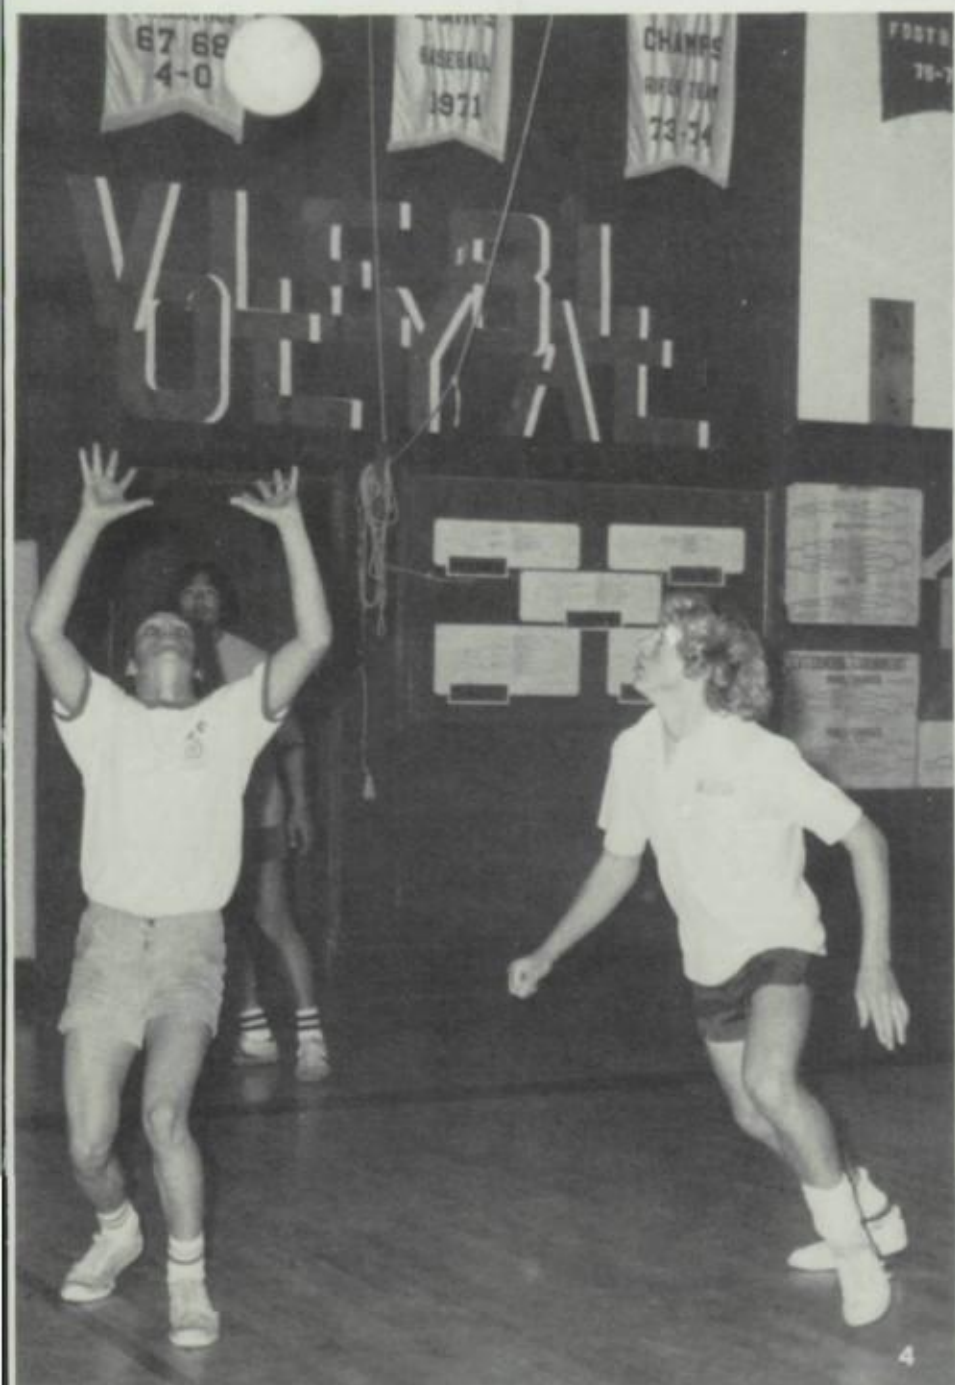

The teams in Kearny's division included Madison, Patrick Henry, Mission Bay, Point Loma, Mira Mesa, and Christian High. "Madison will definitely be our toughest competitor," Coach Malta predicted, "simply because of the large number of returning players on their team."

Since Boys' Volleyball was not funded by C.I.F., they started the season with an exhausting ten-hour volleyball marathon. They obtained as many sponsors as they could, and all the money they earned went toward purchasing uniforms and paying for officials.

1. Front row: Coach Malta, S. O'Leary, S. Stone, B. Goularte, S. Kalber, M. Haniwich. Middle row: S. Lauifi, A. Pena, J. Cahill, J. Leung, M. Morgan, M. Rubidoux. Back row: J. Claypool, M. Tucker, V. Donovan, D. Dean, L. Cullens.

2. During a Tuesday night practice game, Mike Tucker serves an ace.

3. As Coach Malta looks on, Jeff Claypool gets high off the ground to hit a beautiful set.

4. Jeff Leung and Stephan Kalber wait and watch as Bob Goularte sets the ball.

5. Concentrating intently, Stephan Kalber digs a spike and turns it onto a good pass.

6. Starting player, Jeff Leung, exhibits his diving skills while making a save.

Sports of All Sorts

With all of the recognition most Kearny athletes receive, it's hard to believe that some of our finest athletes go unnoticed here at school. The reason for this strange phenomenon is simple. Many students are involved in sports outside of school, and thus receive none of the typical bulletin congratulations, Galaxy mentions or pep rally introductions that are associated with high school athletics.

Instead, they collect trophies, ribbons, awards, titles and in some cases, even money! However, most of them end up spending a great deal of money on lessons and equipment. Still, the benefits heavily outweigh the expenses.

Publicity and a chance to make a career out of their sport are just two of the advantages students are finding through athletics. For those who excel, practice, hard work, and dedication hold the key to the future.

1. Certified brown belt, Kevin Kobayashi, stands in a backstance position. Kevin, a senior, has studied karate for over three years, and has competed in and won many tournaments. He attained a brown belt at the age of thirteen and is looking forward to earning a black belt in the future.

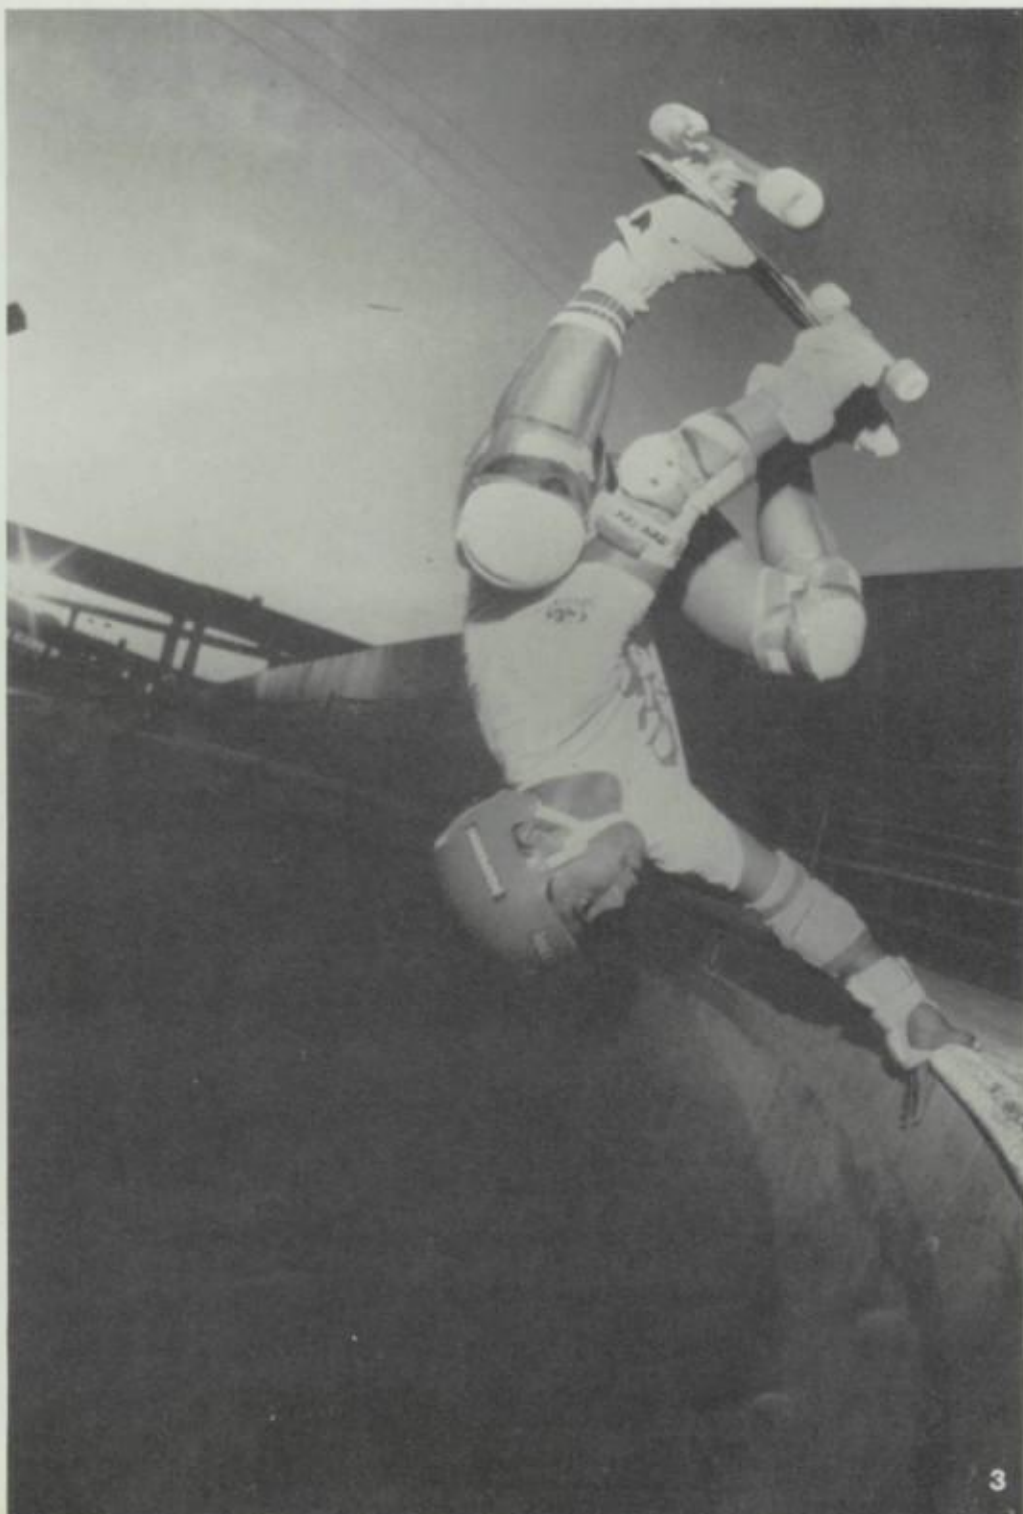

2. Senior, Nancy Harrison, stands behind just a few of the trophies her golfing ability has helped her win. After picking up her first club at the age of five, Nancy has competed in Women's, Juniors' and National events, and plans on turning pro after she turns eighteen.

3. Professional skateboarder, Doug Saladino, performs an aerial. He has been skating professionally for four years, for companies such as Gordon Smith and Ermico Enterprises.

4. Although he no longer belongs to a league, Paul Poblete still enjoys knocking the pins down. In the four years he has been bowling, Paul has won many awards, including a trophy for the highest league average, and has achieved a career high game of 234.

5. In addition to his outstanding achievements on the Kearny Boy's Tennis Team, sophomore, Rodney Evans is the number-two ranked player in the county.

A black and white photograph of various school supplies arranged on a dark, textured surface. In the background, a large book or folder features a circular logo with a stylized 'K' and the text 'KEARNY KOMETS'. To its left is a smaller booklet titled 'Welcome To KEARNY High School!' with a 'KEARNY HIGH KOMETS' logo and the text 'Your First Day...'. In the foreground, there is a stack of books: one titled 'ALGEBRA' with 'Introductory' on the spine, another with a large star on the cover, and a third titled 'HEALTH AND SAFETY FOR'. A 'California Driver's Handbook' is also visible. Other items include a scientific calculator, a wooden ruler, a pencil, and a single apple. The entire scene is framed by a white border with rounded corners.

Underclass Underclass Underclass Underclass

Sophomores and Juniors ... the two groups of people at Kearny who, together comprised over $\frac{2}{3}$ of the student body.

Fresh out of Junior High School, the Sophomores' first year at Kearny was one filled with new experiences. Unaccustomed to an open campus at lunch, pep rallies, carnation sales and the numerous other activities not found at Montgomery or Taft, the "littlest Komets" quickly learned how much fun school can be.

After already spending a year at Kearny, the Juniors felt at home. With its newness worn off, but its end still far away, the Juniors made school fun for themselves by getting involved in a variety of ways.

Although the Sophomores were quite different from the Juniors, together they formed the pieces of the "Underclass puzzle."

1. Spirited underclassmen, Kim Brown and Mona Anderson, participate in the grade competition.

2. Lunchtime provided a chance for friends to relax on the grass and get better acquainted.

3. Not quite bold enough to join in, sophomores seem content to sit back and observe one of the many lunchtime activities.

4. "Dress-Up-Days" gave everyone an opportunity to show their spirit and creativity.

Juniors Go For the Gusto

Q: What happened this year that has never happened at Kearny before?

A: The Juniors held a prom on May 8th, 1981.

The unusually active Junior class also led a successful Knotts Berry Farm trip and considered sponsoring moonlight movies on the football field at Mesa, for a cozy outside activity.

Flower sales were a good fund-raiser, as usual, but the clever Juniors brought another idea to everyone's attention. They sold turkey feathers for a favorite turkey on Thanksgiving. Car washes and selling Pepsi at sports events were also among the fund-raisers that the class used to support their many fun activities.

Minds Hard at Work

"Sex, Drugs, and Rock-n-Roll," were some of the topics on which information could be found in the library for reports, essays, assignments, or just plain knowledge.

Helpful librarians would always assist students and were willing to answer any questions about the library or something in it. The library was also a quiet, secluded spot to catch up on late work and get a little reading in.

During lunch some students chose not to hassle with the unbeatable crowds and decided to go to the library to relax, study, or keep up with current happenings by reading one of the numerous newspapers or magazines.

Meet Ya There at Lunch

Students lounge on the lawn during lunchtime.

When the 11:54 bell signaled lunchtime, students rushed to their favorite spots to eat, talk, or take advantage of other activities.

Although socializing at places like "Jock Wall" or the aquatic "animal bench" on the Senior Patio was popular, some students chose to lounge around on the grass. The parking lot was a popular place to run down your battery by blasting the stereo, or engaging in a game of frisbee.

Another spot was Mr. Owen's room, where bizarre games of Dungeons and Dragons were played. If that wasn't your thing, there was always the cafeteria, one of the nearby fast-food places, or the bright red locker halls.

Going Together: Is It Worth It??

You think you've met the perfect match, your fantasy come true, and you decide to date only that one person. Then your best friend tells you that you're crazy because it's something left over from your parents' days . . . and your parents want you to meet a variety of people, and not to limit your High School years to just that one person.

On the other hand you think of the fun you can have with that special person.

Knowing they are always there to help you with problems and knowing they really care about you and what happens to you gives you a sense of security and leads to many intimate memories.

Just as going to classes, learning, participating in activities, making friends, getting involved in sports and studying are all parts of school, finding someone and having a special relationship is an important part of school for some people.

We Quit! All Items 1/2 Price

Did the ban on campus candy sales affect people other than the clubs and organizations? It sure did! The Kampus Kounter was pushed right out of business after 15 years of successful selling.

The "junk food" law requiring that there be a certain percentage of nutrition in the food sold on the campus was passed before the beginning of school. With candy being its main sales item, the student store could no longer keep its doors open. Even with important items available, such as locks, coveralls, T-shirts, and mugs, they had to close down.

A going out of business sale was held a few weeks into the school year, during which most of the items left in stock were sold.

A bustling mob of students floods the Kampus Kounter, looking for a great buy, during the closing sale.

Getting Around: A Costly Decision

A conservative student rides a gas saving moped to and from school. This vehicle gets 70-100 m.p.g.

How did the gas crunch affect students? When asked how soaring gas prices have affected his amount of driving Jeff Leung replied, "They haven't, I just use more credit cards."

Although a great number of students drove their own or their parents car to school, some chose to avoid traffic and cut down the bucks spent on gas by finding other means of transportation. Skateboards, mopeds, bikes, and the San Diego Transit buses were among the economical alternatives. Besides these, there were always students who felt energetic and just used their good ol' feet.

Poll Turnout—7%

What has happened to the Komet political supporters?

The elections held on Thurs. Sept. 25th were a disgrace. One problem was not having all the possible office positions filled with candidates. Besides that, when voting time came around, only 7% of the student body even managed to make it to the polls to cast their vote.

It used to be that elections were very important. What is going on? This year there were no campaign posters, no speeches, etc. There really wasn't much of anything ... some students even ran unopposed!

Attempting to pick a winner, Carlene Johnson and Helen Pasnak share their opinions.

Although a poster publicizes elections, few students show up at the polls.

Do You Remember?

1. Howard Bass looks away in embarrassment while a belly dancer presents a singing telegram from his sister.

2. Using all of their strength, James Brown and Dennis Borlek "tug" for a victory.

3. Reading with deep concentration, Mike Schriber attempts to win a role in the fall drama production.

The Youngest Komets

Judy Mansfield, Sec.; Sharon Meyer, Pres.; Angela Dukes, V.P.; and Carlene Johnson, Tres.

This year's Sophomore Class got off to a slow start. First of all, there were not enough people to fill the ballot, so there was only a president and secretary. Later on, a vice president and treasurer were appointed by the president, Sharon Meyer and the A.S.B. advisor.

Although it took time to get their feet wet, they dove in and made up for it in the end. They sponsored a western day, on which students dressed up as cowboys and cowgirls. Then, there was "nerd" day when everyone came to school dressed as "Nerd-ishly" as possible. At the Open House Fair, the officers sold cookies and cupcakes.

For their first year at Kearny, the sophomore class had a lot of spirit and great potential.

Sneak Preview For Sophomores

It was a sunny Thursday morning when, along with about three hundred other nervous sophomores, I was herded into a huge auditorium. After we were all seated, we were bombarded with speeches by everyone from the Principal to the A.S.B. President. When Col. Hester, the R.O.T.C. Commander, stepped up to speak, we were quickly jolted from our seats, as his deep booming voice shook the room. The main point each of the speakers seemed to be trying to get across to us was to "get involved."

Finally the conclusion came. We were given our first inside tour of Kearny High School, which was a great way to start the year off right.

Interested parents listen intently as many new ideas are given to the incoming sophomores.

Stop! Beware! Take Cover!

The annoying and persistent rrrriinnnggg was a signal to move away from windows and overhanging lamps, and in some cases, disregard the dust that had accumulated and crawl under the desks. (For those girls who wore dresses it was an especially embarrassing exercise.)

While it provided a welcome break to students, it was a nuisance to most teachers. No matter what the reaction, an earthquake drill is required at least two times a year by law. The bell is sounded continuously for one minute, then five minutes later another alarm goes off indicating to the students that they must evacuate the rooms in an orderly manner. When everyone is out, another bell is rung and everyone goes back in. The entire process takes a little less than ten minutes. The bell can sound at any time, so remember to be prepared when you least expect it!

Creating a moment for socializing, the fire drill brought everyone outside onto the lawn in a chaotic manner.

Magnet Program Going Strong

Early in the morning, Monica Padilla, Tori Howard, and Toby Renteria get ready to board the magnet school bus.

Almost two hundred students and one hundred adults were involved in the city schools' magnet program. The magnet program started two years ago as a result of an integration law.

This program gives students interested in careers a chance to prepare by taking special classes at schools around the city. Several schools are participating, including San Diego High, which holds communications and media classes, and Kearny, with auto industry classes.

Hey Dad, Can I Borrow Your Keys?

The Chevrolet falls under the command of a new driving student.

One of the most anticipated privileges of high school is finally being able to get behind the wheel of the family car after, of course, completing all the necessary classes at Kearny. "Behind the Wheel" classes at Kearny, "Behind the Wheel Training" replaces P.E. classes for many students for four weeks.

Before taking Driver's Training, students must first complete the semester-long Health and Safety course.

After successfully completing both of these classes, students were free to drag their parents down to the Department of Motor Vehicles and take the official driving test, on which several Kearny students scored 100!

The daring task of instructing new drivers belonged to Mr. Bellis and Mr. Thomson.

Tired and relieved, Mr. Bellis returns from a safe trip around the city.

A group of students wait in line before school to buy a quick 'n' easy breakfast.

Early Morning Munchies

Taking advantage of the breakfast specials, one early riser waits patiently for his tasty food to arrive.

How many times I've rushed out of the house skipping breakfast I'll never remember. However, I won't ever forget all of the times the cafeteria came to the rescue.

Breakfast was served every morning from 7:00 to 8:00. The meal consisted of coffee cake, cheesebread, and a choice of orange juice or apple juice. What a tasty treat for the average "on the run" student.

I was always taught that breakfast is the most important meal of the day. Thanks to the sensational cafeteria service, I never had to skip one.

ns Organizations Organizations Organization

Organizations ... a gathering of students, all with a common interest. Because of its extremely diverse student population, Kearny offered a wide range of clubs, squads, staffs and musical groups. With over twenty different organizations to choose from, there was, indeed, something for everyone.

Although most of the groups met during lunch or after school, several organizations were offered as classes, with the student members actually receiving credit.

One of the requirements for each group was that it have a constitution which stated its purpose. These "reasons for being" ranged from producing a yearbook to promoting the sport of skiing.

When combined with the other "pieces" of high school life, the various organizations helped keep Kearny students "together."

1. The J.V. Cheerleaders, comprised of some of the most spirited Juniors on campus, keep the count.
2. Members of the Komet '81 staff work diligently to "put the pieces together."
3. The A Cappella Choir provides an enjoyable lunchtime concert.
4. Working together, members of the band strive for perfection.

Donna,
I'm glad we became friends this year. Take care of yourself and remember all the fun "stuff" we learned in Biology. Maybe next year we can talk you into a ski trip.

Denise

Utah, New York, Washington, or Bust!

Donna, I wrote this to me once in again, I write in everyone's annual in this same exact spot, so I thought I would in yours too. The only thing I have to say is, you might want to get in next year's annual, think about it, o.k.
Love,
Rory

From the shores of New York to the slopes of Utah, Komet students could be found. They traveled by bus and by plane to see the heritage of America or to get the thrill of conquering a snow covered hillside.

Twice, the Ski Club invaded Brianhead, Utah. The entire school was encouraged to participate and beginning ski lessons were free. Despite the less than perfect skiing conditions, most students fell in love with the sport. Although skiing was the main activity, when the lifts closed at 4:00, the parties usually started. Altogether, the transportation, lodging and lift tickets cost $215.00.

However, $875.00 was the total cost for the East Coast Educational Field Trip. Although it was a somewhat larger sum of money than the ski trip, those who attended felt it was well worth it. It included 10 days and 9 nights, in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Williamsburg, all admissions to Monticello, Mt. Vernon, the Statue of Liberty, the Salem Witch Museum, the House of Seven Gables, and all transportation and lodging. Due to the large sum of money, Mr. Janc felt that it should become a "Senior Trip" and that sophomores and juniors should learn more about it so they could plan for it during their senior year.

Both trips provided adventures in traveling. However, Mr. Janc was the common factor which made them successful. Ski Club member, Tosh Shiotani, summed it up best: "It's great!"

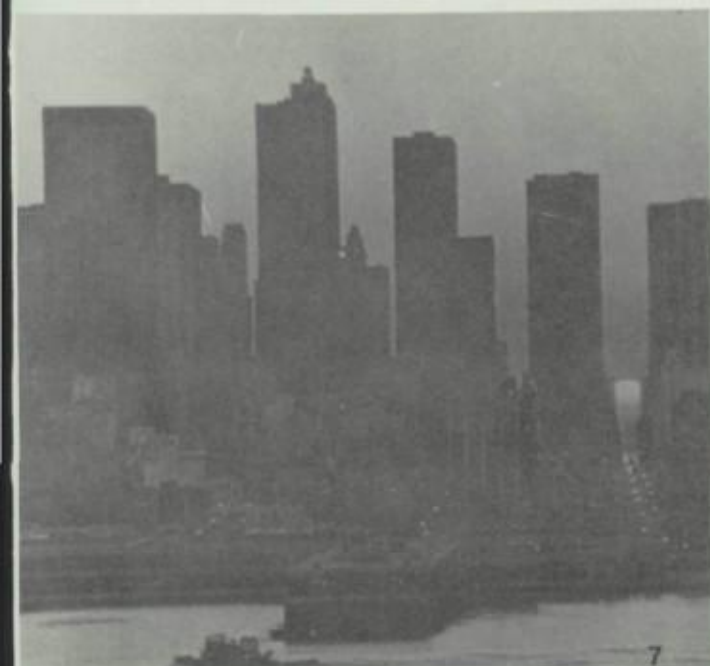

5. The Statue of Liberty was just one of the many sights that the East Coast Educational Field trip saw.

Schools of Thought

With a school as diverse in tastes as Kearny, clubs sprung up to satisfy the needs of many students' interests. C.S.F. and the Fishing Club were two vastly different organizations that met the desires of two groups of people.

The California Scholastic Federation was made up of students who were successful academically. To join, students needed 10 points a semester—A's earned 3 points and B's earned 1 point. Those who were in C.S.F. for 4 semesters received a Life Membership seal on their diplomas.

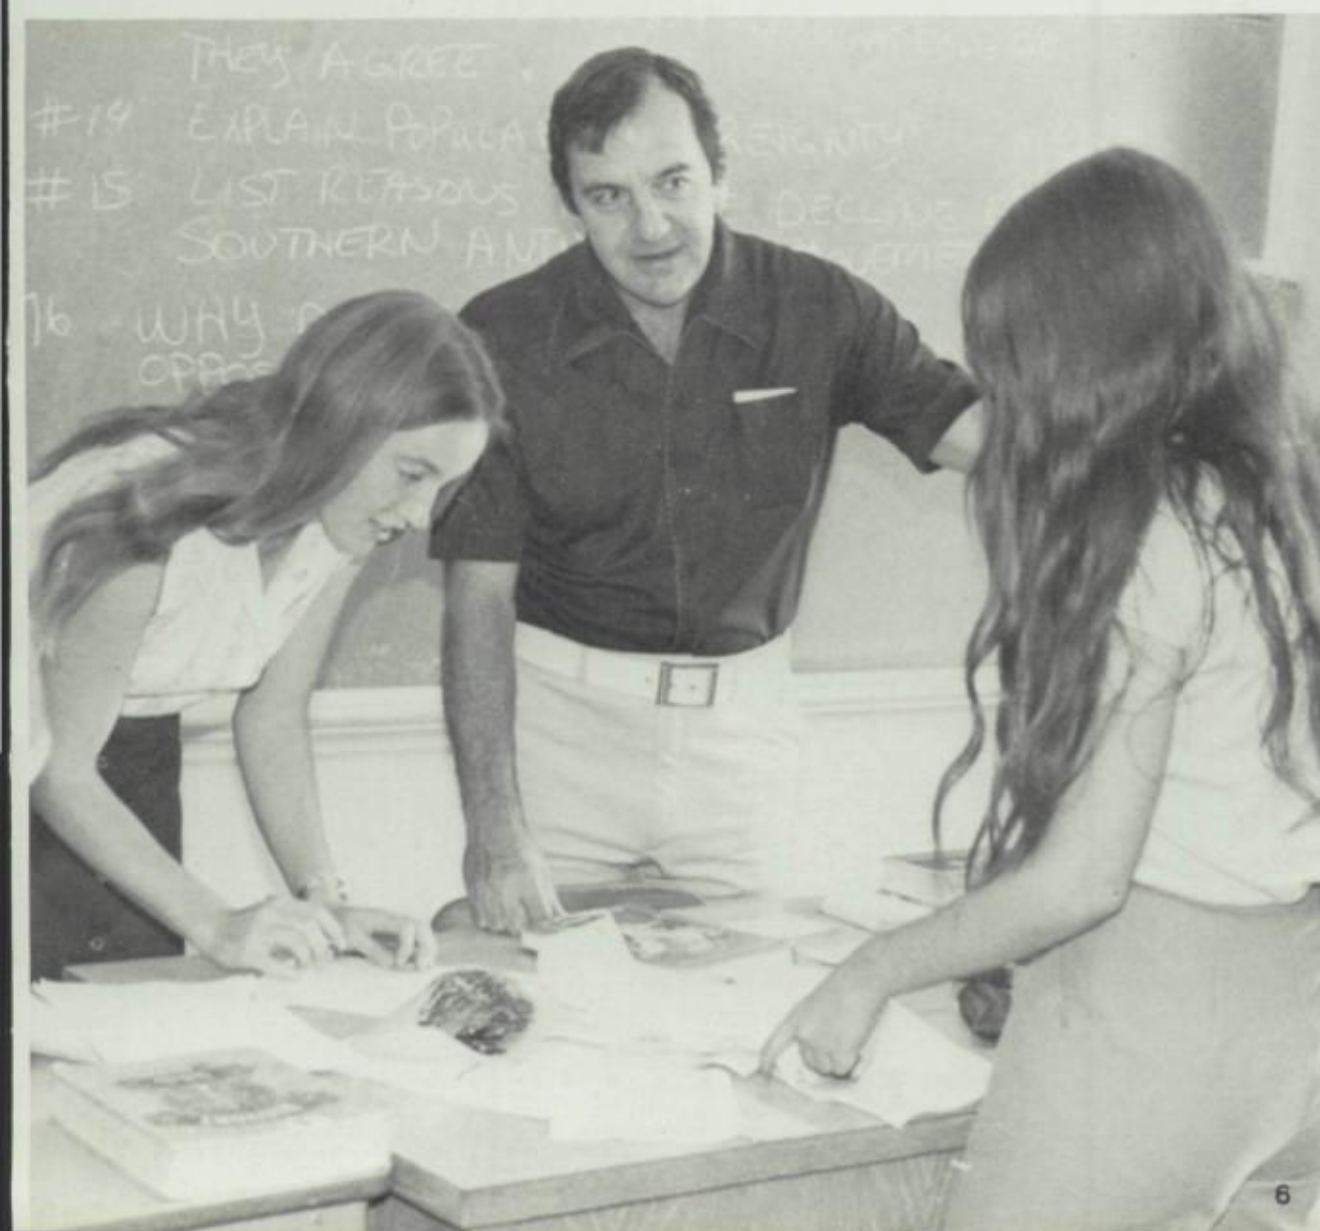

The Fishing Club gave those interested in fishing a chance to visit the excellent spots around southern California. Along with planning trips to the bay and certain fresh water areas, Mr. Reed taught members how to clean and cook various types of fish.

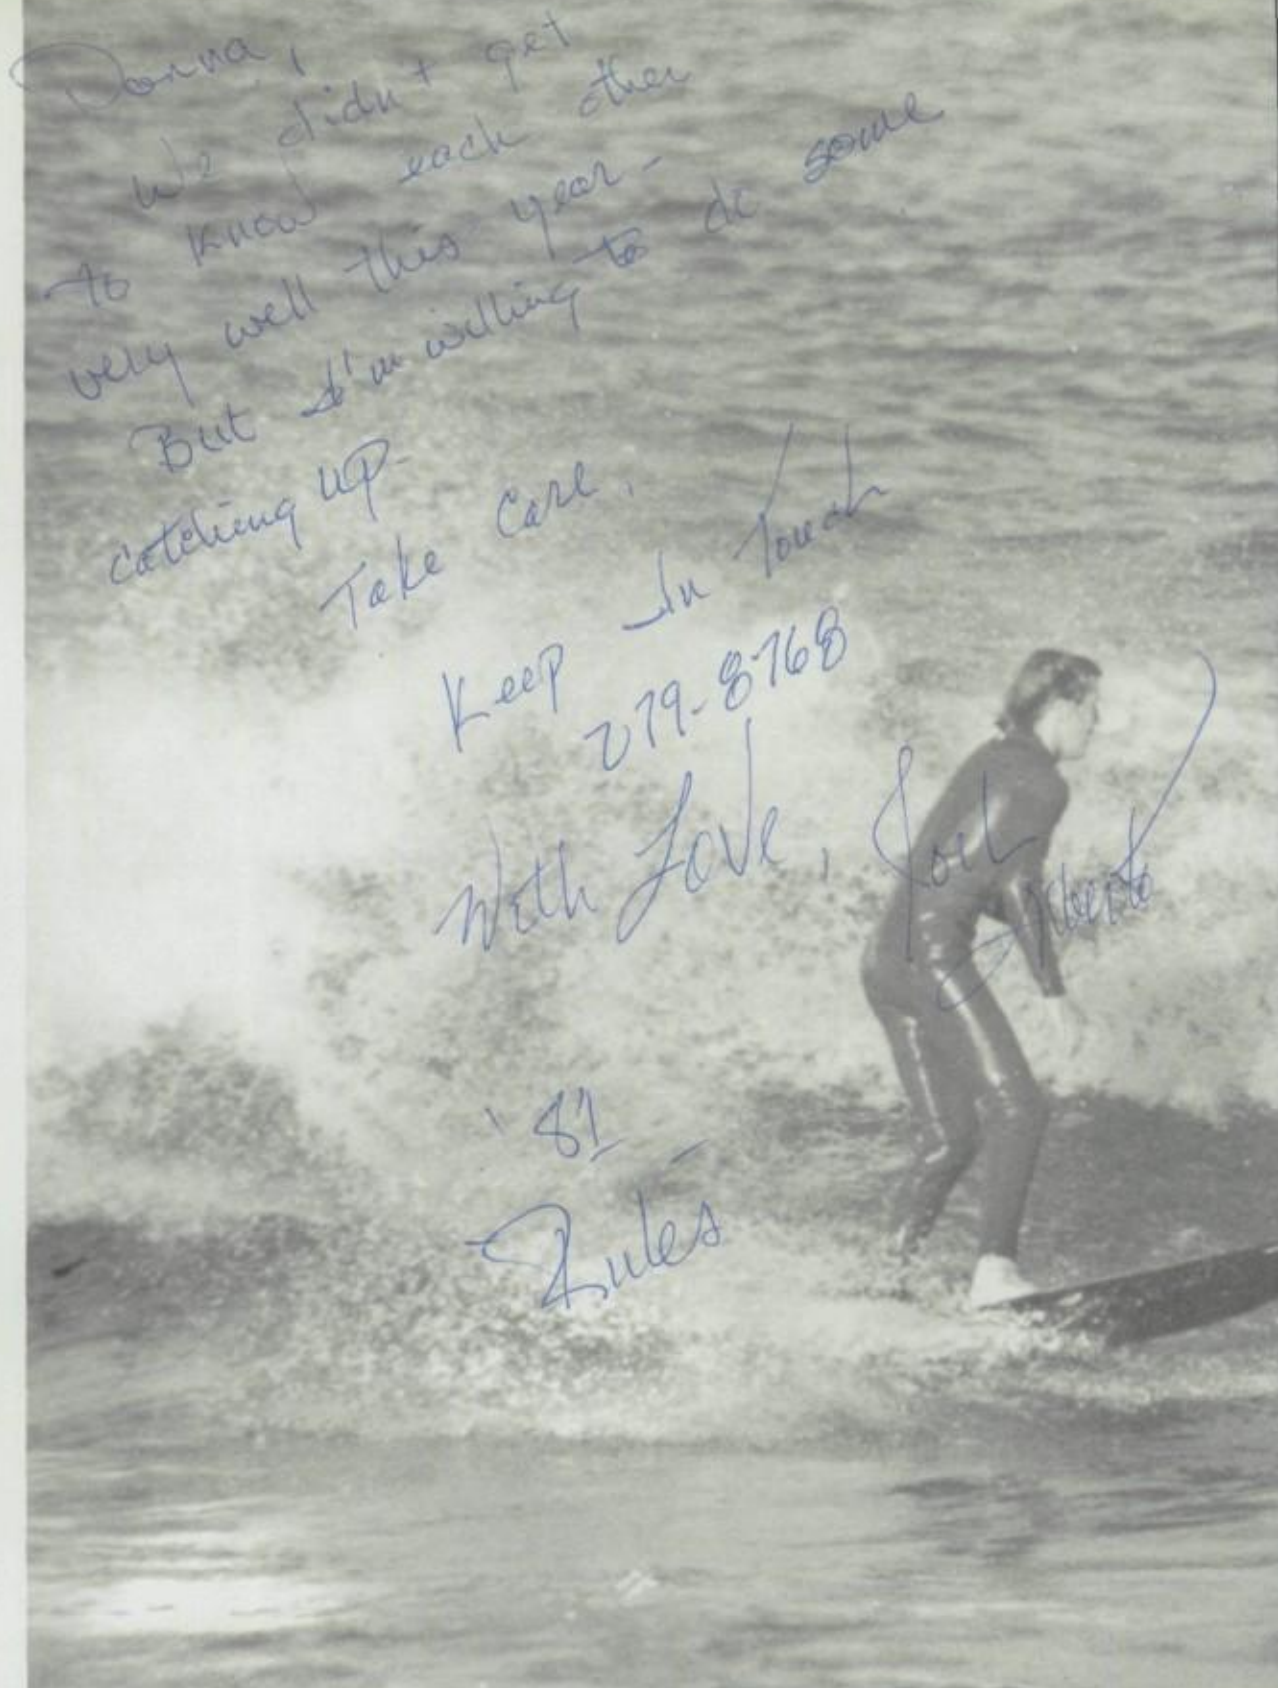

Despite their obscure differences, C.S.F. and the Fishing Club had a common goal . . . to help Kearny students pursue an interest.

Super Sports

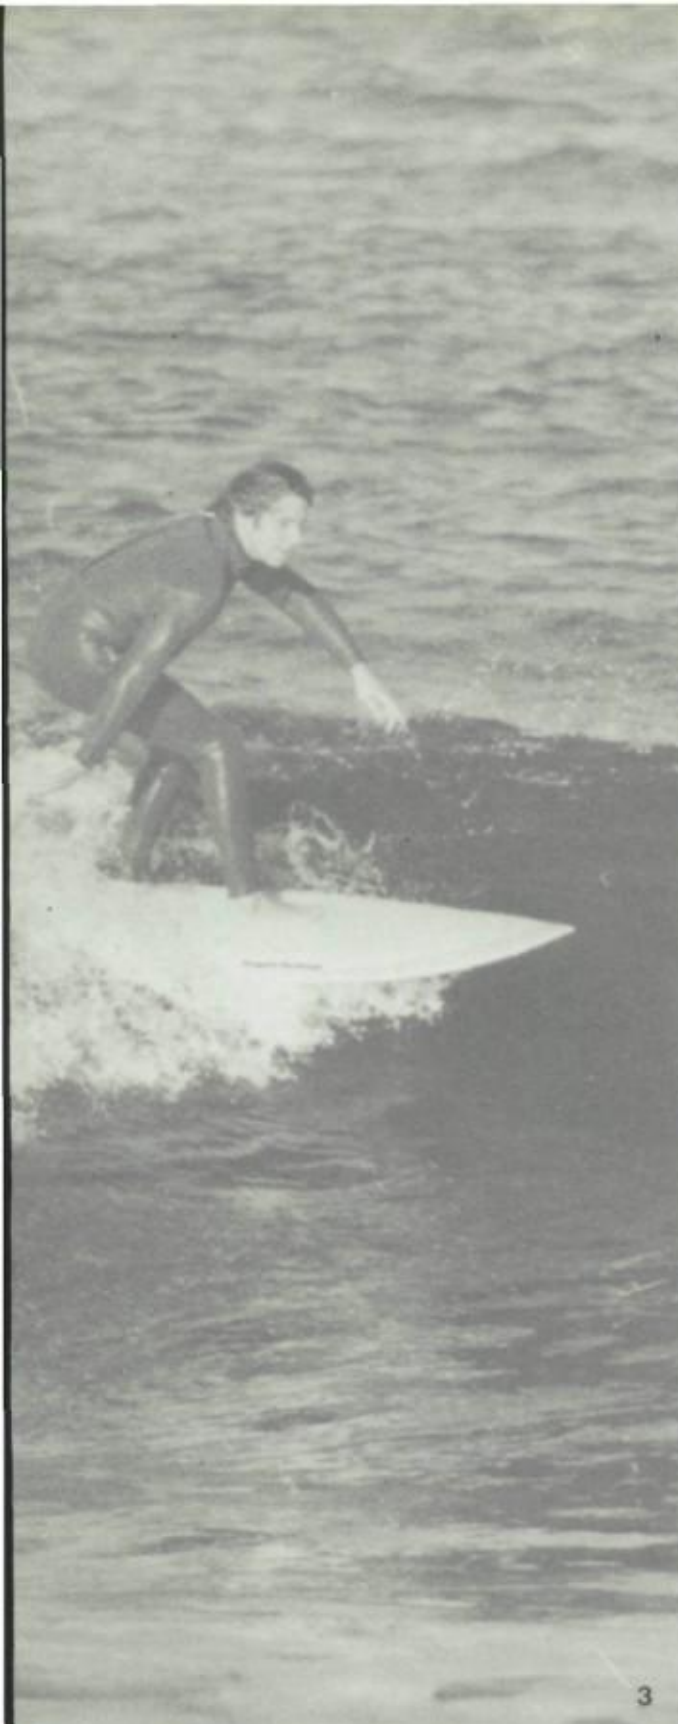

A sound body, a sound mind . . . might be the motto of the athletic students in either the Surfing Club or Lettergirls. Kearny has traditionally been an athletic school, and the success of these two groups proves it still is.

Lettergirls was organized to recognize those female athletes who went out for several sports and lettered in at least three of them. Unlike their male counterparts, the lettermen, the girls would have received very little recognition without this club. 250 points were required for qualification. Varsity sports earned 100 points, while Junior Varsity earned 50 points. Along with an initiation party after each season, there were frequent get-togethers. Luci Lagrimas, Commissioner of Girls

Athletics and President of Lettergirls said of the group: "It's getting bigger and better!"

Surfing Club was a loosely organized group made up of students who enjoyed the sport of surfing. The requirements of this club included: being an excellent swimmer and having some previous knowledge of surfing. Advisor and Sponsor, Coach Griswold, planned several early morning outings. Despite the sometimes harsh weather conditions, these students faithfully hit the beaches of Southern California all year long.

The athletes of the Surfing Club and Lettergirls were dedicated to their sports, putting in long hours of practice, but still managing to enjoy it all.

6. Letterjackets were worn for both recognition and warmth by lettergirls, Sandi Smith and Michelle Hoersch.

Secrets of Spirit

"Who are those energetic people sitting on the bleachers during the games?" They were all the students of Kearny who liked to show spirit for their school and its athletes.

The Pep Club played an important part in creating enthusiasm at rallies, games and matches. They were also in charge of keeping the crowd spirited when the Cheerleaders went to the opponent's side.

In conjunction with the Pep Club, the Secret Pals proved to be another source of inspiration for members of several teams. While remaining anonymous, the Secret Pals showed their support by providing pre-game goodies for their "Secret Pal."

At the end of each season, the Secret Pals gave a luncheon for the team, where the players finally met their pals.

Mrs. Stewart, the club sponsor, really helped the club during the year, by providing suggestions and help when needed. Both clubs were a great inspiration to Kearny athletes.

Dianas Take Hostages

It all started with a kidnapping. Awakened before the sun rose, ten new Dianas were kidnapped as the official Hostess Club for Kearny and its surrounding community. Surprisingly, this did not diminish their strong enthusiasm and dedication, that continued throughout the year.

As the official Hostess Club, their main objective was to serve the school. They did this by acting as hostesses at Open House and all the choir and choral events, along with many other activities. They also passed out planned parenthood pamphlets during the year as a service to the community.

To do all this the Dianas needed money. Not subsidised by the A.S.B., this group of spirited girls had several fund-raising events. They sold carnations during Homecoming and held several car washes at the 76 station in Serra Mesa.

When not raising money or serving the school, the Dianas were still an active group. They enjoyed a few memorable (I'm sooo embarrassed!) parties, but decorating houses with pink, blue, yellow, green and flowered toilet paper proved to be their favorite pastime.

Baseball, Hotdogs, Apple Pie and Girls League

Cramming into a telephone booth, having Chinese fire drills, and doing pyramids in front of the Fashion Valley 4 Theaters, were just a part of the initiation that took place for each Girls League member. This group of girls sought to promote spirit and "wholesome" activities throughout the year. Sponsored by Ms. Shari Sedlock, sixteen girls, consisting of four officers, and twelve representatives, Girls League proved to be an active group on campus.

They started out the year with the Dance Contest during Spirit Week. It was followed with the annual drive for UNICEF on Halloween. When the Holiday Season came, Girls League continued their spirit by caroling in a local neighborhood. Also, to bring out the Irish in all of us, Girls League sold green carnations on St. Patrick's Day. They topped off the year with the second annual "Ladies Night," in which outstanding ladies were honored for their services.

They did all this while continuing the tradition of selling "Beat Ribbons" during football season and monthly choosing the Gardenia Girl, Apple of Our Eye, and Teacher of the Month.

1. The helping hands of Girls League members busily work on the "Beat Ribbons" that were sold before every football game.

Talented Komets Perform

The thrill of receiving applause and the excitement of completing a performance were both common denominators for two of the most popular organizations—Symphonic Band and Marque Club.

Led by Mr. Winans, the Marque Club was made up of students who enjoyed the theatre. Throughout the year, they put on plays and musicals. No previous acting experience was required and tryouts were open to all students. Also involved, members of the drama class worked to support the annual Supper Theatre, which was held during April. Mr. Winans commented: "We have an excellent nucleus and we will build up in the future."

Composed of 50 students, the Symphonic Band taught members to appreciate and be able to play classical music. In order to qualify, they needed two to three years playing experience. The Band competed in several musical festivals, including the solo and somba festivals.

Both excellent opportunities for students interested in performing, the Marque Club and the Symphonic Band excelled in '81.

6. MARQUE CLUB—Front row: Mr. Winans (advisor), S. Sylwestrak (sec.), T. DiCarlo (pres.), M. Ashley (sgt. of arms), T. Cushman (historian), M. Atkinson (treas.). Not pictured: M. Toscano (vice pres.).

7. As Mr. Winans reviews the parts of the play, Chris Asaro listens to friends' tales of their stage experiences.

A Cappella Fever

As big as a football team and even a little bit stronger, A Cappella Choir was a vocal force. They combined talent, spirit and leadership to create a "winning season."

The Choir was successful both at home and away. The season began with the nostalgic 50's day, as the Choir dressed up in leather jackets, skirts, scarves and pony tails, to sing such songs as "Charlie Brown" and "Soldier Boy." The schedule continued with a lunchtime mini-concert and an autumn nighttime performance at Open House. During the month of December, the Choir went on the road to perform at Mission Valley Center, UTC and the Mercy Hospital Chapel. They returned home to sing for the Winter Holiday Concert and to bring Christmas cheer by caroling around campus the day before vacation. The Choir also performed on "TV 8 Looks at Learning." The season ended with several festivals, such as the San Diego City and County music Festival and the Southern California Vocal Association Festival. The Choir's last performance was the spring mini-concert.

Everyone in room 801 came down with "A Cappella Fever." The Choir participated in a wide range of activities, along with entering a float in the Homecoming Parade. Also, the Choir continued the traditions of the initiation picnic, singing "Happy Birthday" to everyone in the Choir and concluding every performance with "Pax Dei."

The best summation of A Cappella Choir came from one of its members. Nicki Closson said: "It's great!"

Donna,
I really felt stupid
my first day in journalism. But now I feel totally confident. You're a neat weirdo.
You know that.
Good luck next year.

Notes of Harmony

"The group has a lot of potential and they're gonna be good this year," predicted Jazz Band leader, Mr. Norman. The main goal of the band was to improve their musical ability, and to entertain the Student Body. The band played such music as: Jazz, Swing, and Contemporary.

In addition to the Jazz Band, the Vocal Jazz Ensemble was another active group. In this choir, the students learned to sing and appreciate Jazz music. The choir sang in such places as shopping malls, and hospitals during the holidays. When asked, choir member Michelle Qualin said of the group: "It's exciting and you learn a lot about music." The backbone of this choir was a capable instructor, Mr. Graeff.

Another group that sang for pleasure, as well as for experience, was the Gospel Choir. One of the newest choirs on campus, the Gospel Choir performed on several occasions, including the memorable Charles King Assembly. The main goal of the Gospel Choir was to educate the different races about gospel music. Choir member, Patrick Jarrett said, "I like Gospel Choir. It's fun, everyone gets along together, and the teacher's all right."

Together, all of these groups, Jazz Band, Vocal Jazz Ensemble, and Gospel Choir played a great role in teaching the students to sing, and to appreciate all types of music.

1. A few members of the all-girl Vocal Jazz ensemble warm up during class.

2. During an evening program, the Gospel Choir sings with spiritual enthusiasm.

Great Expectations

After the Marching Band left the rear of the Auditorium, they journeyed past aspiring tennis pros, guarded volleyball nets and a soccer player or two. After reaching the end of their trek, the Band disappeared behind a wall of white mist. Only the sounds could be heard as they rehearsed for a football halftime show or an upcoming parade. Secure in this white blanket, great expectations arose. The promise of new maroon and white uniforms and highly skilled musicians gave hope for a banner year, but after the fog had lifted, the Marching Band was still amidst a cloud of problems.

Consisting of a 50 piece band and 8 Flag girls, the group set out to do its best. However, a relaxed atmosphere resulted and some members of the band became more interested in socializing, than in becoming dedicated musicians.

Their morale also suffered due to conflicts with the Cheerleaders, who performed with them during pep rallies. The band felt it was useless to be pulled out of their fifth period class to perform only the Alma Mater.

One band member made it very clear, "Motivation, or rather the lack of motivation, was the main downfall." However, the Band finished on a high note: they placed fourth in competition at the Downey Christmas parade.

5. After every game, the Cheerleaders provided the vocals, while the Marching Band played the instrumental to the Alma Mater.

ROTC Keeps In Step

To the Kearny civilian, "R.O.T.C." was just a bunch of guys dressed up in uniforms. Actually, it was much more than that. The Junior Reserve Officers Training Corp was a school within a school.

Located in the 100 building, the J.R.O.T.C. consisted of an office, a classroom and an armory. They used these facilities along with the adjacent armored guard to teach skills, such as map reading, proper gun use and survival techniques. During the week, learning was conducted both in the classroom and on the field, with two days being set aside for physical fitness and recreation.

However, the R.O.T.C. was not all work. They enjoyed several picnics, along with softball competitions against different R.O.T.C.'s and the Annual Cadet Ball.

The J.R.O.T.C. was an important factor that added the finishing touches to making the Kearny students good citizens.

Speaking Up For Kearny

What's the talk around the campus? It was the Speech Team! These students spoke up for our school throughout the city and the county.

The Speech Team was comprised of students who wrote well and were able to express themselves effectively. The team belonged to two Speech Leagues, The San Diego City School District League and the San Diego County League. Within both leagues, the Speech Team competed with 14 schools in the City School District and several other schools in the county. Mrs. Singer commented, "The prizes in the contests are the students' opportunities to improve their speech, and compete for scholarships, financial awards, and bonds for college."

The Speech Club, which was the organizer of the Speech Team, was for the students who didn't have the ability or the time to be on the Speech Team, but wanted to be a member of the organization. Their main purpose was to raise funds for the Speech Team through car washes, bake sales and the members monthly dues. Mrs. Singer commented: "The purpose of Speech Club is to support the people in the Speech Team, and to promote integration through oral communication."

1. Reader's Theatre was another aspect of Speech Club. The Students performed mostly for younger children in different schools, with many workshops throughout the year. Haruo Willter, Linda Bronson, Pat Fortner, Kim Hatch, Erci Barney, Lisa Alexander, Karen Smith (not pictured).

2. Competing against students from 43 other California and Nevada schools, Stacey Sylwestrak calmly presents her speech.

4. "Little Red Riding Hood" was the topic of the Reader's Theatre performance at the Open House Fair in October.

5. With deep concentration, Brian Farrow rehearses the speech that he has prepared for the debate tournament in December.

6. Eager students listen carefully to Mrs. Singer during the Speech meeting, while she makes some points about the officers.

Let's Get a Little Bit Rowdy

Junior Varsity Cheerleaders! A young and energetic squad which consisted of seven members, tried to do their best in pepping up the crowd and making everyone want to stand up and cheer right along with them. Even with rough competition such as Lincoln Hornets, Madison War-Hawks, Point Loma Pointers and the Clairemont Chiefs, the J.V. Cheerleaders tried their best to make everyone holler and scream, especially with such cheers as "Fire Up," "Hey Mighty Komets," and "Let's Get A Little Bit Rowdy."

The games were always exciting when the cheerleaders were cheering. When asked what he thinks of the J.V. cheerleaders, Komet fan Russell Hutchinson said, "The cheerleaders are very active this year." Another Komet fan, David Davis replied, "They're alright." One of the highlights of the game for the cheerleaders' fans was their performance of their "Hello" cheer. Another popular cheer was "Who Shakes the Best?," which was performed by both squads. This really fired up the crowd. Each cheerleader made up her own little rhyme to go with the cheer, such as: "My name is Judy and I like to dance, just jam some Cameo and I'll shake your pants."

1. H-E-Double L-O, the Komets would like to say "Hello."

2. As the Komets take a lead over their Pt. Loma opponents, the cheerleaders raise the crowd to its feet.

3. From the tallest to the smallest, the J.V. cheerleaders are always full of smiles.

4. A lively and hard working group of girls, the cheerleaders provide entertainment during a dull moment of a J.V. game.

5. Junior Varsity Cheer: Front row: Sharon Baay, Judy Sanchez, Andee Dibsie, Terry Tengco, Tricia Mauger, Theresa Johnson, (Head Cheerleader), Cheri Webb.

1. While relaxing after practice Tanya, Myra, and Jeanne try to get ready for the upcoming game.

2. "M-I-C-K-E-Y M-O-U-S-E. If Mickey Mouse could see us now, he'd swear that we're the only team ..." cheers the 1980 squad at the Crawford game.

3. VARSITY CHEER—Front row: Tandy Dickerson, Tanya Wagner, Christina Asaro (Mascot), Terri Jackson, Jeanne Perez, Linda Petty, Myra Engledow, Sandy McLaughlin, Michele Ohlson (Mascot), Leanna Bradley, Lori Monroe, Chris Johnson, Misty Rydelski, Margo Collins (Head Cheerleader)

4. Exhibiting her gymnastic skills, Lorie Monroe perfects a "V" jump.

5. Almost every Friday it was a sure bet to see the cheerleaders at a pep rally.

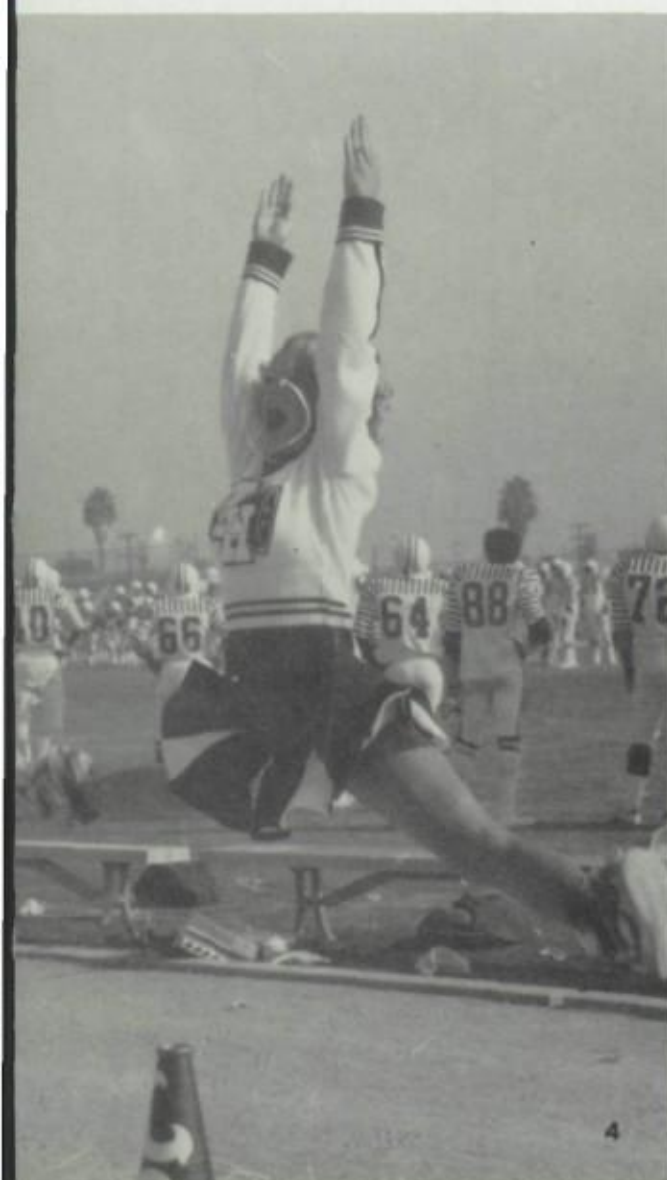

9 to 5 Spirit

Hard work is the best way to explain Varsity Cheerleading. Sometimes putting in more practice than the football or the basketball teams, the Varsity Cheerleaders tried their best to raise the spirit of the fans at the games and to maintain high spirit at school.

The work came before they could even call themselves cheerleaders. Every girl put in seemingly endless hours of practice preparing for the tryouts. After the initial excitement of making the squad, the reality of the hard work ahead hit them. Practice came every day during the summer and the final weeks brought double hard work, with practices in the morning and evening to ready them for the upcoming football season.

These practices throughout the summer accomplished two things. First, it gave them the skills needed for every game and pep rally. Secondly, it brought all twelve cheerleaders and two mascots closer together.

As with anything, the good comes with the bad. It might be popular to be a cheerleader, but the disadvantages often outweighed the advantages. Some of the bad points were: not being able to have a job, sacrificing school work, and having little time to themselves. Misty Rydelski summed it up by saying: "It's been a lot of fun, but we all gave up a lot of parties and social events, in addition to spending a lot of money on uniforms and summer camp."

6. Saving her energy for Friday's game, Mascot Michele Ohlson relaxes under the warm sun.

Getting Us All Together

A big mystery to some students around campus were the initials E.S.A.A. What was this unpublicized, unknown group? E.S.A.A. was part of the Student Advisory Committee. The main goal of E.S.A.A. was to have a balance of better education for everyone. Some of the groups' other goals were: the elimination of minority groups segregation, discrimination among the students and the faculty, and doing away with minority group isolation by assisting everyone who needed help in court-ordered desegregation and voluntary intergration.

There were many people who helped this group with their many activities, such as: Mrs. Tinsley, a Community Service Specialist who served as a co-advisor to the committee; Mrs. Boeckle, the school librarian, who contributed her thoughts and ideas; Dale Matsuda who served as the E.S.A.A. representative on the District Advisory Committee of City Schools; and Mrs. Leisure, the advisor, who in past years has helped E.S.A.A. tremendously.

Working along with the E.S.A.A. committee was Peer Counseling. This group helped with a lot of the activities and goals that the E.S.A.A. Committee worked for this year. Two important things which the Peer Counselors did were to welcome new students to the school, and to get them acquainted with the school surroundings. They also told the students about the different clubs and athletic teams. The group tried to get new students involved with other students and thus make friends. Another service which Peer Counseling provided was to match up tutors with students who needed help in various classes.

The group had a very capable advisor, Mr. Franklin. He did a great deal for all the students who had problems and needed help. The main purpose of the Peer Counseling group was to counsel and think up activities or programs that might help anyone who needed help or had problems.

"This is our world to live in, we make it what we will," was one of the club's much adhered-to themes.

5. Meetings were held every Tuesday and Thursday. Here, Jose Daleo and Bill Oates listen to on-going conversations.

Changes In Latitudes

"What's a Student Body Shop?" and "What happened to the Kampus Kounter?" were two frequently asked questions. Soon, the mystery was solved as the A.S.B. office moved into the student store to create "The Student Body Shop." This change was tremendous. However, the change in latitude was not as great as the changes which affected the officers of the A.S.B. Council, as well as the whole associated student body.

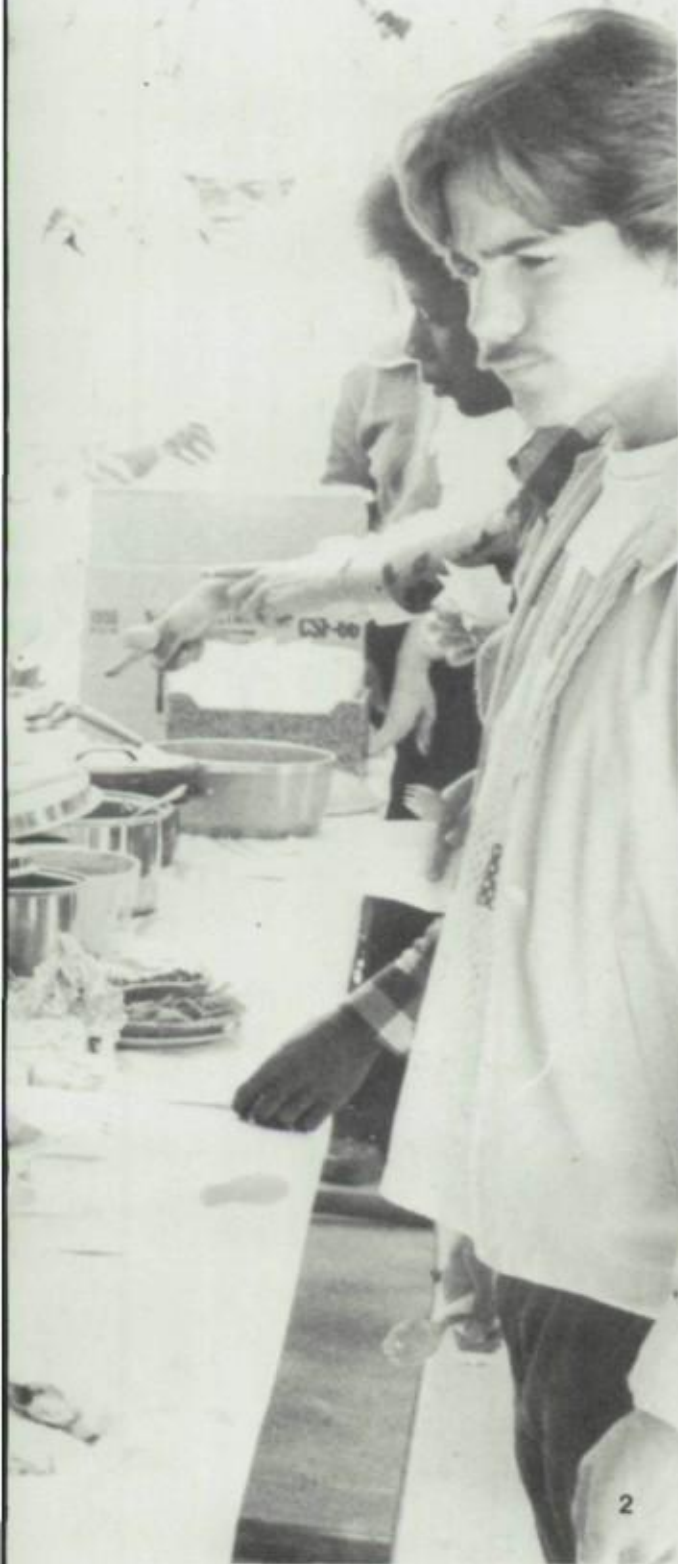

During the absence of Ms. Sedlock, temporary advisor, Mrs. Stewart was asked to take over the new council. Not having any experience, Mrs. Stewart worked closely with A.S.B. President, Dyana D'Amico, and Vice President, Terry Hicks, to begin the year. The new council got under way immediately, sponsoring the Sophomore Orientation and making initial preparations for the Homecoming Game and Dance in October. Although Homecoming almost fell short, the Council surged forward with new ideas, such as advertising personal messages on the marquee board and open forum meetings.

After the first quarter, Ms. Sedlock returned and began to instruct the council on proper governmental procedures while liberally giving advice. Each Council member was assigned his or her tasks as well as keeping a quarterly log.

The A.S.B. Ball started the second semester with the Student Body Shop in full operation. Also, there was the Ed Kramer Mobilathon, and the usual share of dress-up days, class competitions and assemblies.

The year ended with elections for the 1982 council and a chance to look back. The Associated Student Body Officers were a diverse group that learned to work well together and within a set framework. All this prepared them with responsibilities, leadership and knowledge for the "real world."

6. Lori Monroe, Misty Rydelski and a P.T.S.A. helper count the ballots of the Homecoming Election.

Scoop of the Year

What exciting and informative news magazine was seen on our campus throughout this school year? The answer is the school's own GALAXY news magazine. The GALAXY was put together by a group of journalism students who took pride in what the school had to say and do. They wrote many articles pertaining to student activities and other areas of school life. They also did a thorough job of covering sports throughout the different seasons.

Like any professional news staff, they were encouraged and guided by a capable editor-in-chief Cathy Caplener. However, the entire staff was under the leadership of Mr. Graeff. Together with the talent and motivation possessed by each person, the members of the GALAXY were able to achieve a high quality news magazine that any school would be proud of.

1. As the club sells its bi-weekly news magazine, interested buyers examine the merchandise.

2. Making sure procedures are understood, editor-in-chief Cathy Caplener explains an assignment to Galaxy staff members.

3. As Lance asks questions about measuring, Glen looks at him with despair.

One for the Books

"Frustrating," "exhausting," and "fun." These adjectives were all used to describe the tremendous task of putting The Komet '81 together. It all started in the summer with a yearbook seminar. This gave the new members a chance to familiarize themselves with the procedures and terminology, and the members from previous years were given a quick refresher course and a chance to share their knowledge.

There are many aspects to putting a yearbook together. Working with a professional photographic studio and a publisher, the staff was expected to produce a top rate book while staying within a budget. This included picking a theme and a cover and actually planning exactly what was to go on each page.

Mr. Jones, the advisor, worked along with the editor, Susie Secord, to insure that deadlines were met and quality pages were turned in. Susie was also in charge of proofing all pages, helping other staff members and turning in her own opening and division pages. Staff members were assigned a section and each section had its own editor. It was their responsibility to make sure their section ran smoothly. Other members included the copy editor, Debbie Hardin, the photoscheduler, Mary McCague, and the photographer Rick Chuman.

A lot of changes were incorporated in The Komet '81. Updated styles of layouts were used and uniformity was stressed in the various sections. Along with a stricter editing and proofing system, the new methods produced a higher quality yearbook.

1. Editor Susie Secord explains a layout drawing to a new staff member, Donald Sheffield.

2. Listening intently, Diane Ehmcke stands by as Mr. Jones, advisor, explains procedures to Luci Lagrimas.

3. Making a final inspection of a layout, sports section editor Tom Dreher diligently works to meet the first deadline.

4. Cropping her pictures properly, Anna Massie measures inch to inch.

7. Laughing, Luci Lagrimas finds a mistake on her layout, while Donna Salini searches for the perfect picture.

Well I'm not real sure ^{what} to say. I already read what some people had to say to you. Like → and my sister. My little sis had a lot say concerning me and 6/9/81 your Dr. day and things of that nature, Lyn sounded sincere in what she said. I wonder about you sometimes tho. We have known each other a long time. But not until recently have we had the chance to learn that much about one another. I'm not going to be around for a while so I hope we will still stay in touch.

Dearest Donna,

Well Graduate, Congratulations!! Can you believe that you've spent about 12 years in school, that's more than $\frac{1}{2}$ a lifetime so far. Well for you my dear, maybe not that much, you know what I mean? (DITCHING) Enways, now that you have accomplished this goal, you're about ready to begin the other goals and dreams.
 And with determination and discipline, you'll reach your special star one of these fine days. I hope your Senior Year was one that you'll treasure forever. By the way your friendship to me will be and is treasured by me. You've got looks, personality, and a brain, so as you stroll down the path of life, remember to use them, especially your brain. Well Take care, Best Wishes and May God guide you to your star.

P.S. I hope I see you around somewhere on this big blue marble.

Love,
 Madeline Bucsit

Thanks for teaching me what love is & letting me feel loved by you. Thanks for always being there when I needed you, most of all thanks for forgiving me when I let you down. I'll never forget you, how could I, if I can't even let you go.

To Rick:
Thanks for the difference you've made in my life and for all the happy memories we've shared.
To my life you've brought sunshine, warmth, and love,
which will last forever from me to you.
I'll love you forever! All my love,

After being involved in a Dianan pie eating contest, Terry Hicks initiates a messy food fight, (that left the Senior Patio a nightmare for the club to clean up!)

People to Meet and Things to See . . .

Meeting new people and seeing different things— isn't that what High School is all about? Our years at Kearny were filled with a number of new experiences. Things like learning to drive, making career plans, going to a formal dance for the first time and starting lifelong friendships were all a part of High School.

The people we met during our years at Kearny—teachers, counselors, teammates and friends, all added something to our lives, whether we realized it or not. They laughed with us, they got mad at us, and they cared about us, but most of all they helped us set our values and goals. Without these people, our memories of Kearny would soon be forgotten.

Each of us leaves Kearny with different memories, some of work and study, others of fun. But whatever the memories, we will always share a bond with the people we've met.

5. As Mrs. Slowiczek explains the procedure for a dissection during the Open House Fair, Dawn Bartlett listens with a look of disgust.

6. A study of contrasting moods is seen on the faces of these students, as they watch the choir perform.

High School's Been Fun But Now We're Free!

... free for the summer or free from Kearny forever—the end of the year means something different for everyone.

For some, the last day of school was a sad one. It was a day to say goodbye to friends that might never be seen again, and a time to reflect back on all the memories, both happy and sad, that have filled our years at Kearny. For others, the end of the year couldn't have gotten here fast enough. With three glorious months of summer ahead, the world seemed bright again. Books and homework were a thing of the past.

For most of us, the end of the year was a time to think about the future. Whether or not we decided to go back to school when the summer was over, the things we learned at Kearny helped us throughout our lives. Our futures were merely puzzles in which High School added pieces.

Donna,
I'm really glad we got to be good friends in 10th grade. I remember all the good + bad times we had together. Like getting caught at your house!! Well I wish you luck with David you never know maybe you'll marry him someday. I wish we could of had more classes together this year but we didn't at least we had gym. Well good luck in the future and in everything you do in life. I already know you'll get far in life with your brains. Well we finally made it out of this school even though we really didn't like it, it had a lot of good memories.

We'll keep in touch over the years to come and if I ever get married I'll plan to be in the wedding. Thanks for being around.

Friends Forever,
Roberto

Donna -

Well where do I begin? I've known you only for 5 months, and it seems like 5 years. We have become very close, in such a short time that it must mean something special, like our friendship was really meant to be. I consider you a sister now, and am going to be watching after you from now.

Take your out of school now and your an adult. Life is Hell out there so please be careful. You are a very talented, smart, and beautiful young lady. You can reach any goal you set. You deserve the best out of life, and I'm gonna make sure you get it. Good Luck with David.

It seems as though my "little sister" (even though your older you like my little sister.) has done alot of growing up lately, and I'm very proud of you. You know I'm always here if you need me for everything, or anything. Maybe David is the one for you maybe not - just enjoy it while it lasts! but be careful - please!

I hope that you enjoyed your senior year, and keep your memories very vivid in your mind.

David - Donna

MEMORIES - Remember all the good times we had. Like ditching all the time, partying, ~~going to the~~

~~going to the~~ in ~~the~~ house for the ~~day~~.
Remember little things to like eating lunch together, going to the park w/ Ben.
Going to the movies w/ Robyn, and ~~the~~.
Remember all of "our good times and bad ones".

I have alot to thank you for especially introducing me to Joey and his friends & family. You have all enriched and fulfilled my life w/ much happiness, and I owe it to you! Even if things didn't quite work out w/ me and Joey, and still treasure his and my times together.
He taught me alot, and his family and friends have also. Thank You Donna.

Well I haven't told you this, yet, but I am now. You know how close Maria and I am. She is my bestest friend in the universe, and I never thought anyone could replace her. But I was wrong. She hasn't been replaced totally, just joined by another Sweet person like her. That's you. You are everything Maria was and is to me.
You and Maria are my bestest friends, and I owe a great deal to the both of you. Thank for everything Donna, and I'm here if you ever need me.

Donna words can't say what I feel for you. Only in my heart.

You have become a very important person in my life, and I hope that just because school is over, our friendship won't dissolve.

You know I'm always here and you always welcome at my house.

Please
take care of yourself for me.
I Love
You very much.

Thank You for everything always and forever friends

THE FINAL PIECE

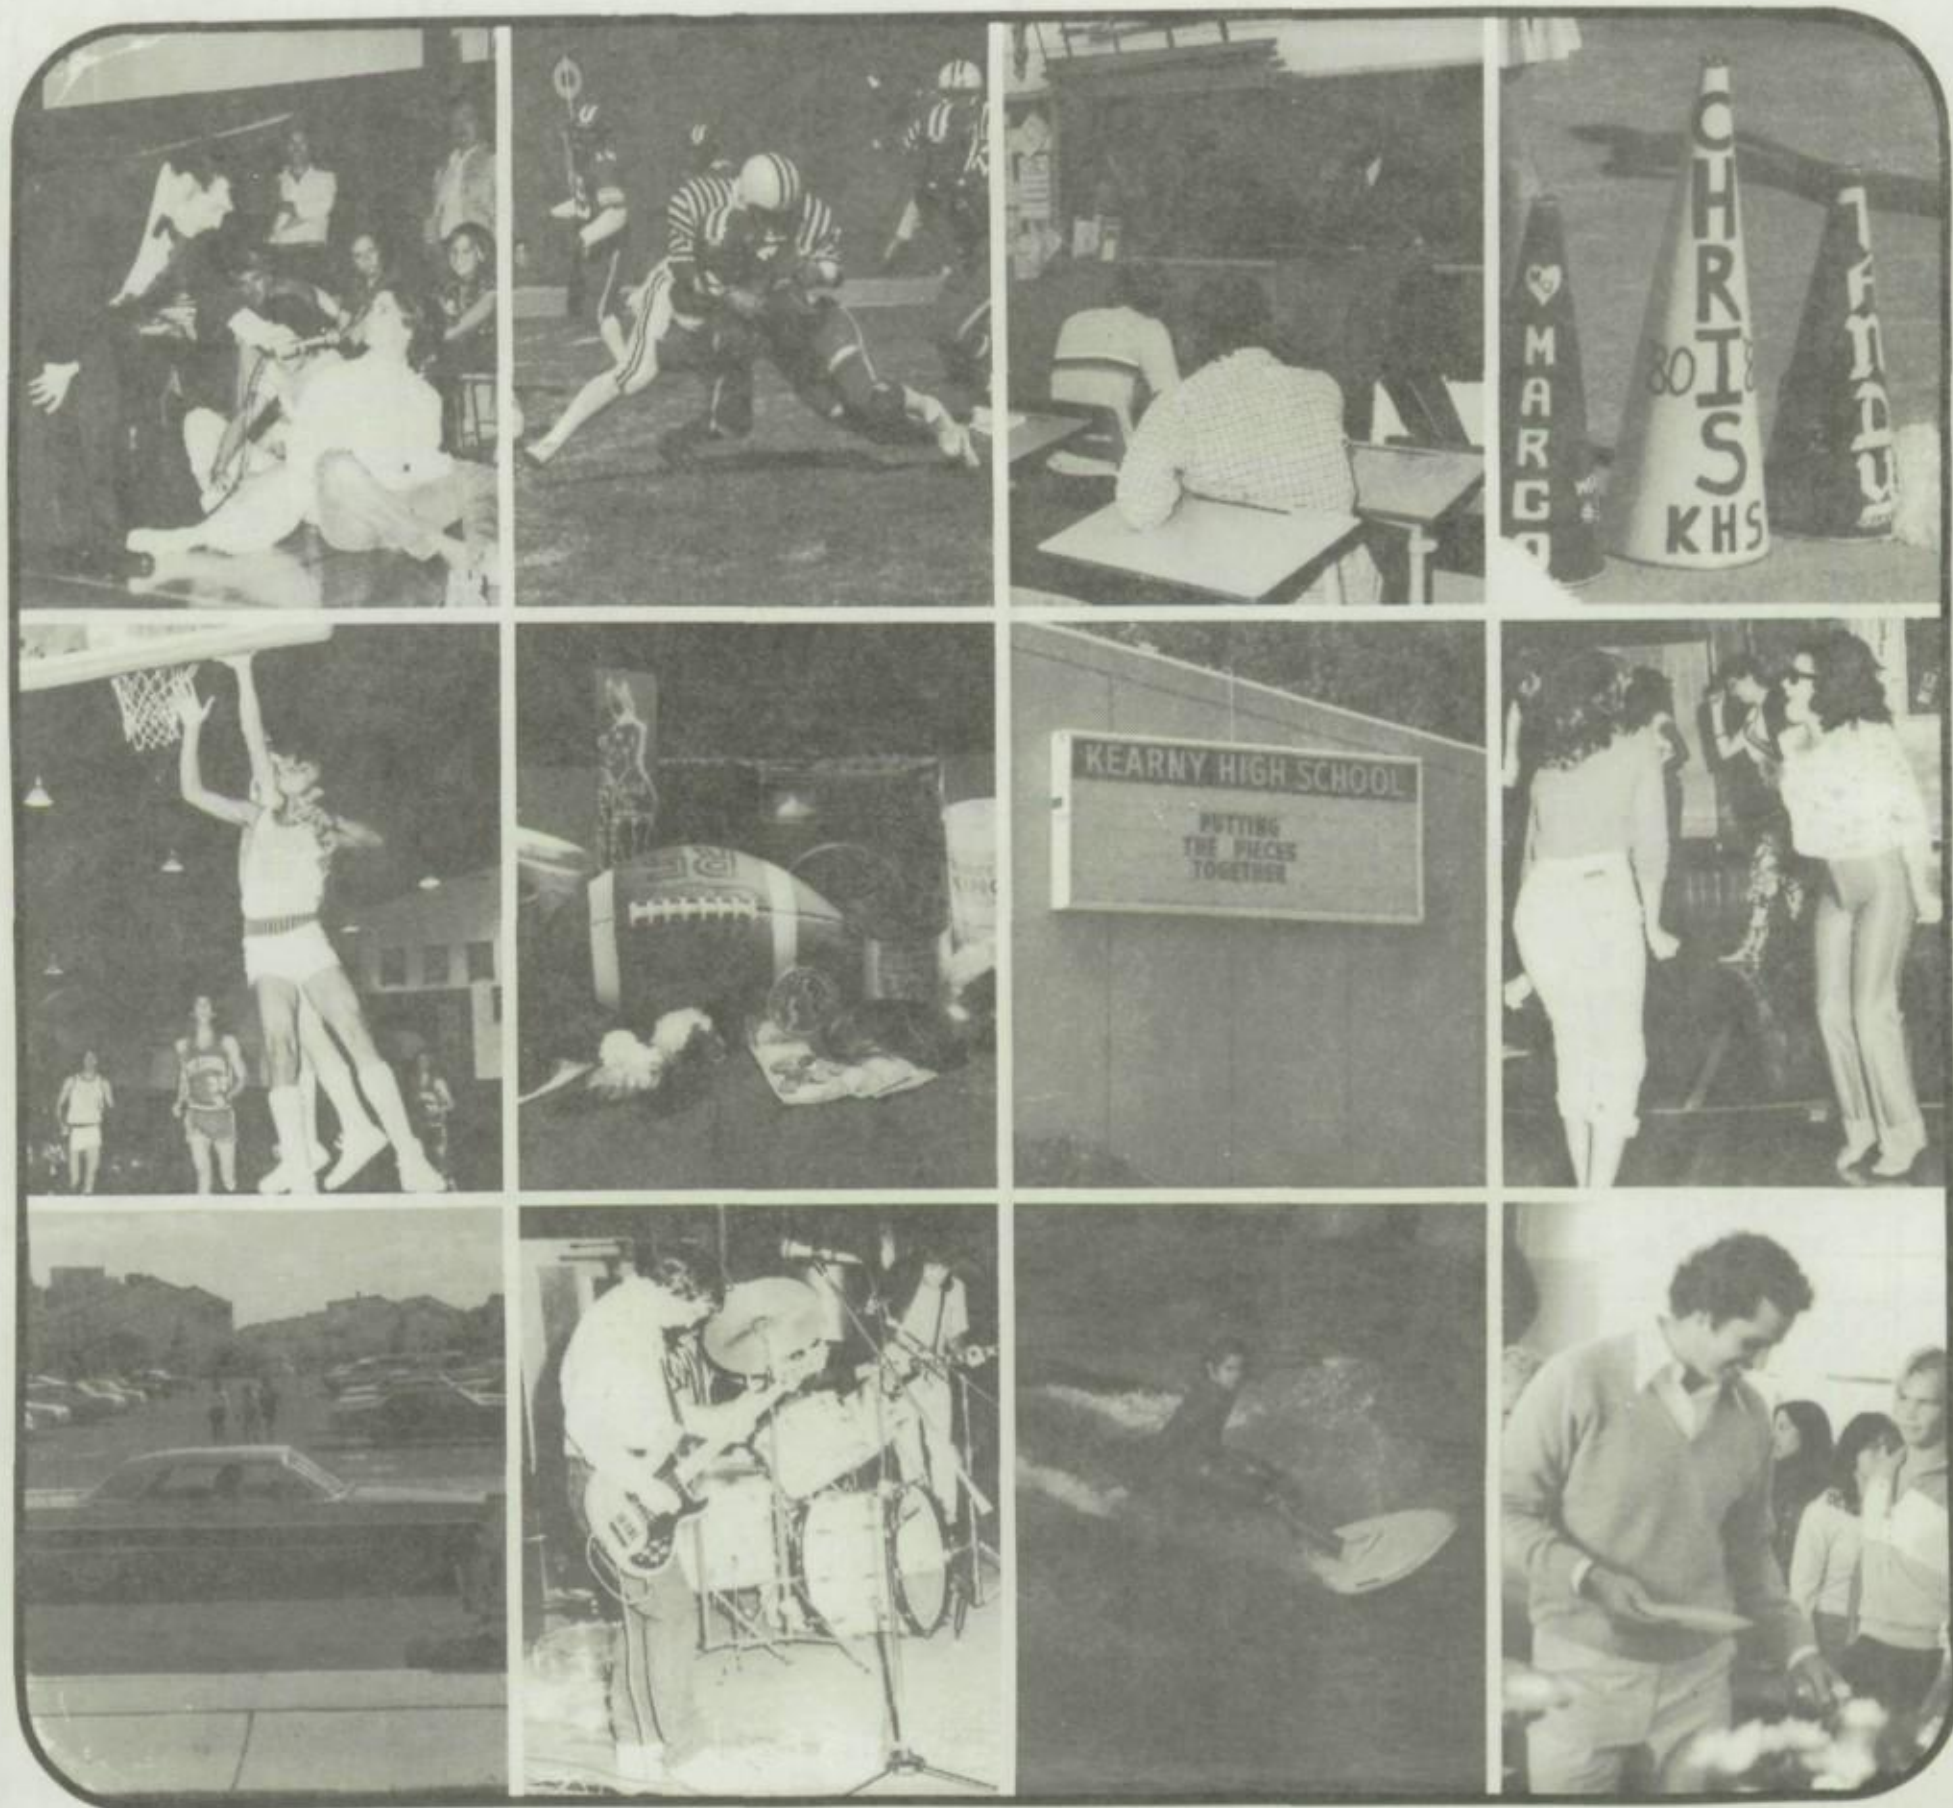

Handwritten text at the top of the page, mostly illegible due to fading. Some words like "The" and "and" are faintly visible.

Handwritten text in the middle section of the page, continuing the narrative or list. The ink is very light and difficult to decipher.

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, including what appears to be a signature or a date at the very end.

A SUPPLEMENT TO THE KOMET '81

STEPHAN WATTS KEARNY HIGH SCHOOL
7651 WELLINGTON STREET
SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA 92111

As the last day of school approached, Seniors looked forward to receiving the last piece of the puzzle. . . their diploma. They also anticipated a summer of rest and relaxation.

The real fun started with high school seniors night at Disneyland. Grad Night was held on May 22 from 11:00 p.m. to 5:00 a.m. Everyone who attended dressed up in semi-formal attire and rode up together on specially provided buses.

Soon it was June 7, and time for the Baccalaureate, a ceremony held to bid farewell to all Seniors. Following this was one of the most suspenseful events of all. . . finally receiving The Komet '81. Seniors were given an opportunity to gather in the school cafeteria, pick up their yearbooks before anyone else and sign over punch and cookies provided by parents.

Excitement swelled as the Prom neared. Seniors and their dates arrived at Rancho Bernardo Inn for "Horizons," the 1981 Senior Prom, held on June 13. An After-Prom followed at Kearny Mesa Bowl.

The last week was kicked off with an awards assembly held to honor the many outstanding seniors. On June 16 a special breakfast was held at the Bayview Room in Vacation Village for a last get together.

Finally, on June 18, the Seniors proudly graduated. Although it was a happy day, many Seniors felt a sense of loss. The end had come, but memories of Kearny High will always be with the Class of '81!

THE END IS NEAR

1. After the Seniors carefully picked their choices for their outstanding classmates, the final results were tabulated. For the first time, the Senior Standouts are included in the Komet.

2. Attempting to get an extra inch of height by standing on his toes, Alex Sammaneigo is measured for his cap and gown.

3. A typical pre-prom activity . . . getting fitted for a tux. Lorie Monroe helps her boyfriend, Steve Greul, make sure his is perfect.

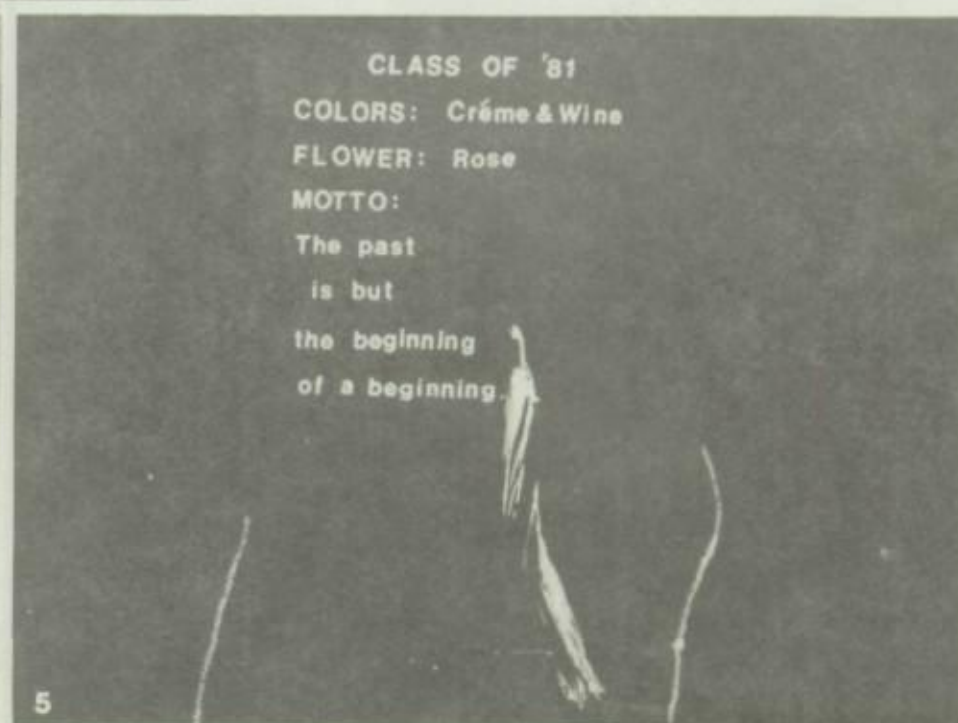

4. After an enjoyable night at Disneyland, Margo Collins greets the sunrise.

5. The cap and gown artfully display the class motto and colors.

A LOOK INTO THE FUTURE

1. Before casting their votes, Judy Morawski and Doreen Hughes take all the candidates into account.

2. With Mark Atkinson and Cheryl Buchanan looking over his shoulder, Joe Olivier grimaces before he signs a petition for Mark.

3. '81-'82 Varsity Cheerleaders: M. Adams, D. Bell, R. Ryland, S. Sibley, T.

Mauger, D. Chin, M. Toscano
T. Johnson, G. Delaney.

4. During one of their after school practice sessions, the cheer hopefuls learn how to do "kangaroos".

5. '81-'82 Junior Varsity Cheerleaders: D. Castillo S. Skinner, B. Espinoza, C. Muro, M. Deneen, E. Floriano.

As April ended, those wishing to run for an A.S.B. Office received their petitions and started obtaining their needed 100 signatures.

By the end of March, Varsity and J.V. Cheer petitions were passed out. After they were turned in, a grueling month long training session began for the 16 Varsity and 9 J.V. Cheer hopefuls. This was followed with screenings by present Cheerleaders from Kearny and other schools.

A.S.B. elections were held on May 14, and 11 official offices were filled. There were also five offices for which no candidates ran. A special election will be set up in September to fill these offices.

1982 A.S.B. Council

A.S.B. Vice President: Ann DeJesus; Senior Class President: Terry Tengco; Junior Class President: Darryn Zuehlke; Girl's League President: Betty Mesker; Commissioner of Elections and Records: Andee Dibsie; Commissioner of Fine Arts: Georgia Ruckdeschel; Varsity Head Cheerleader: Kaye Williams; J.V. Head Cheerleader: Mary Deneen.

1982 Cheerleaders

Varsity: Mary Adams, Darcie Bell, Debbie Chin, Georgia Delaney, Theresa Johnson, Tricia Mauger, Rachelle Ryland, Sheri Sibley, Michele Toscano, Kaye Williams.

J.V.: Dina Castillo, Mary Deneen, BeeBee Espinosa, Zenida Floriano, Cindy Muro, Sandie Skinner.

The urban cowboy craze inevitably hit Kearny in the form of Western Week.

One of the main attractions was the 5th period assembly featuring Cowboy Bob. The show consisted of whip and lasso tricks. At one point in the show, Bob encircled an unwary member of the audience with a whip. All who attended felt the western spirit, and prepared with new enthusiasm for Donkey Basketball.

On April 30, special donkeys were led onto the floor of the gym. A team of students cautiously eyed a team of faculty. It was a curious sight, but it became hysterical when the teams mounted the animals and began playing basketball. In the end, the faculty won 28-26, but the students gave them a real workout. Outstanding players included Zebbie Zamora, Clark Wisswell and Ron Stevenson. Faculty standouts were Mr. Jones, Mr. Blair, and Mr. Janc. Though no one was really hurt, a few players were thrown off their donkeys. Others found their animals didn't like to move around much.

Western Week ended as the donkeys were led off into the sunset.

RIDE'EM COWBOY

1. Cowboy Bob demonstrates a lasso trick with a string of coke cans, as a gym full of students watch in fascination.

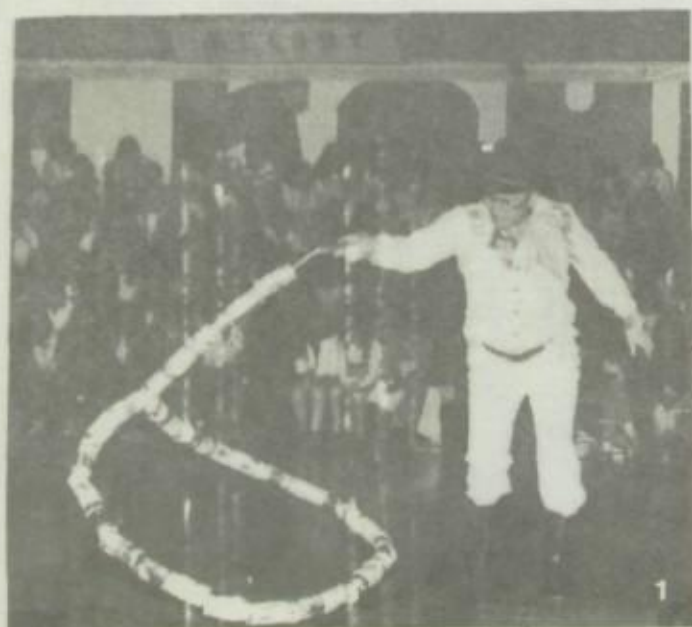

2. Coach McMillan begins to understand why donkeys are known as the stubborn animals, as his refuses to budge.

3. Falling head-first, Mr. Johnson finds Cruz Conrique a worthy opponent.

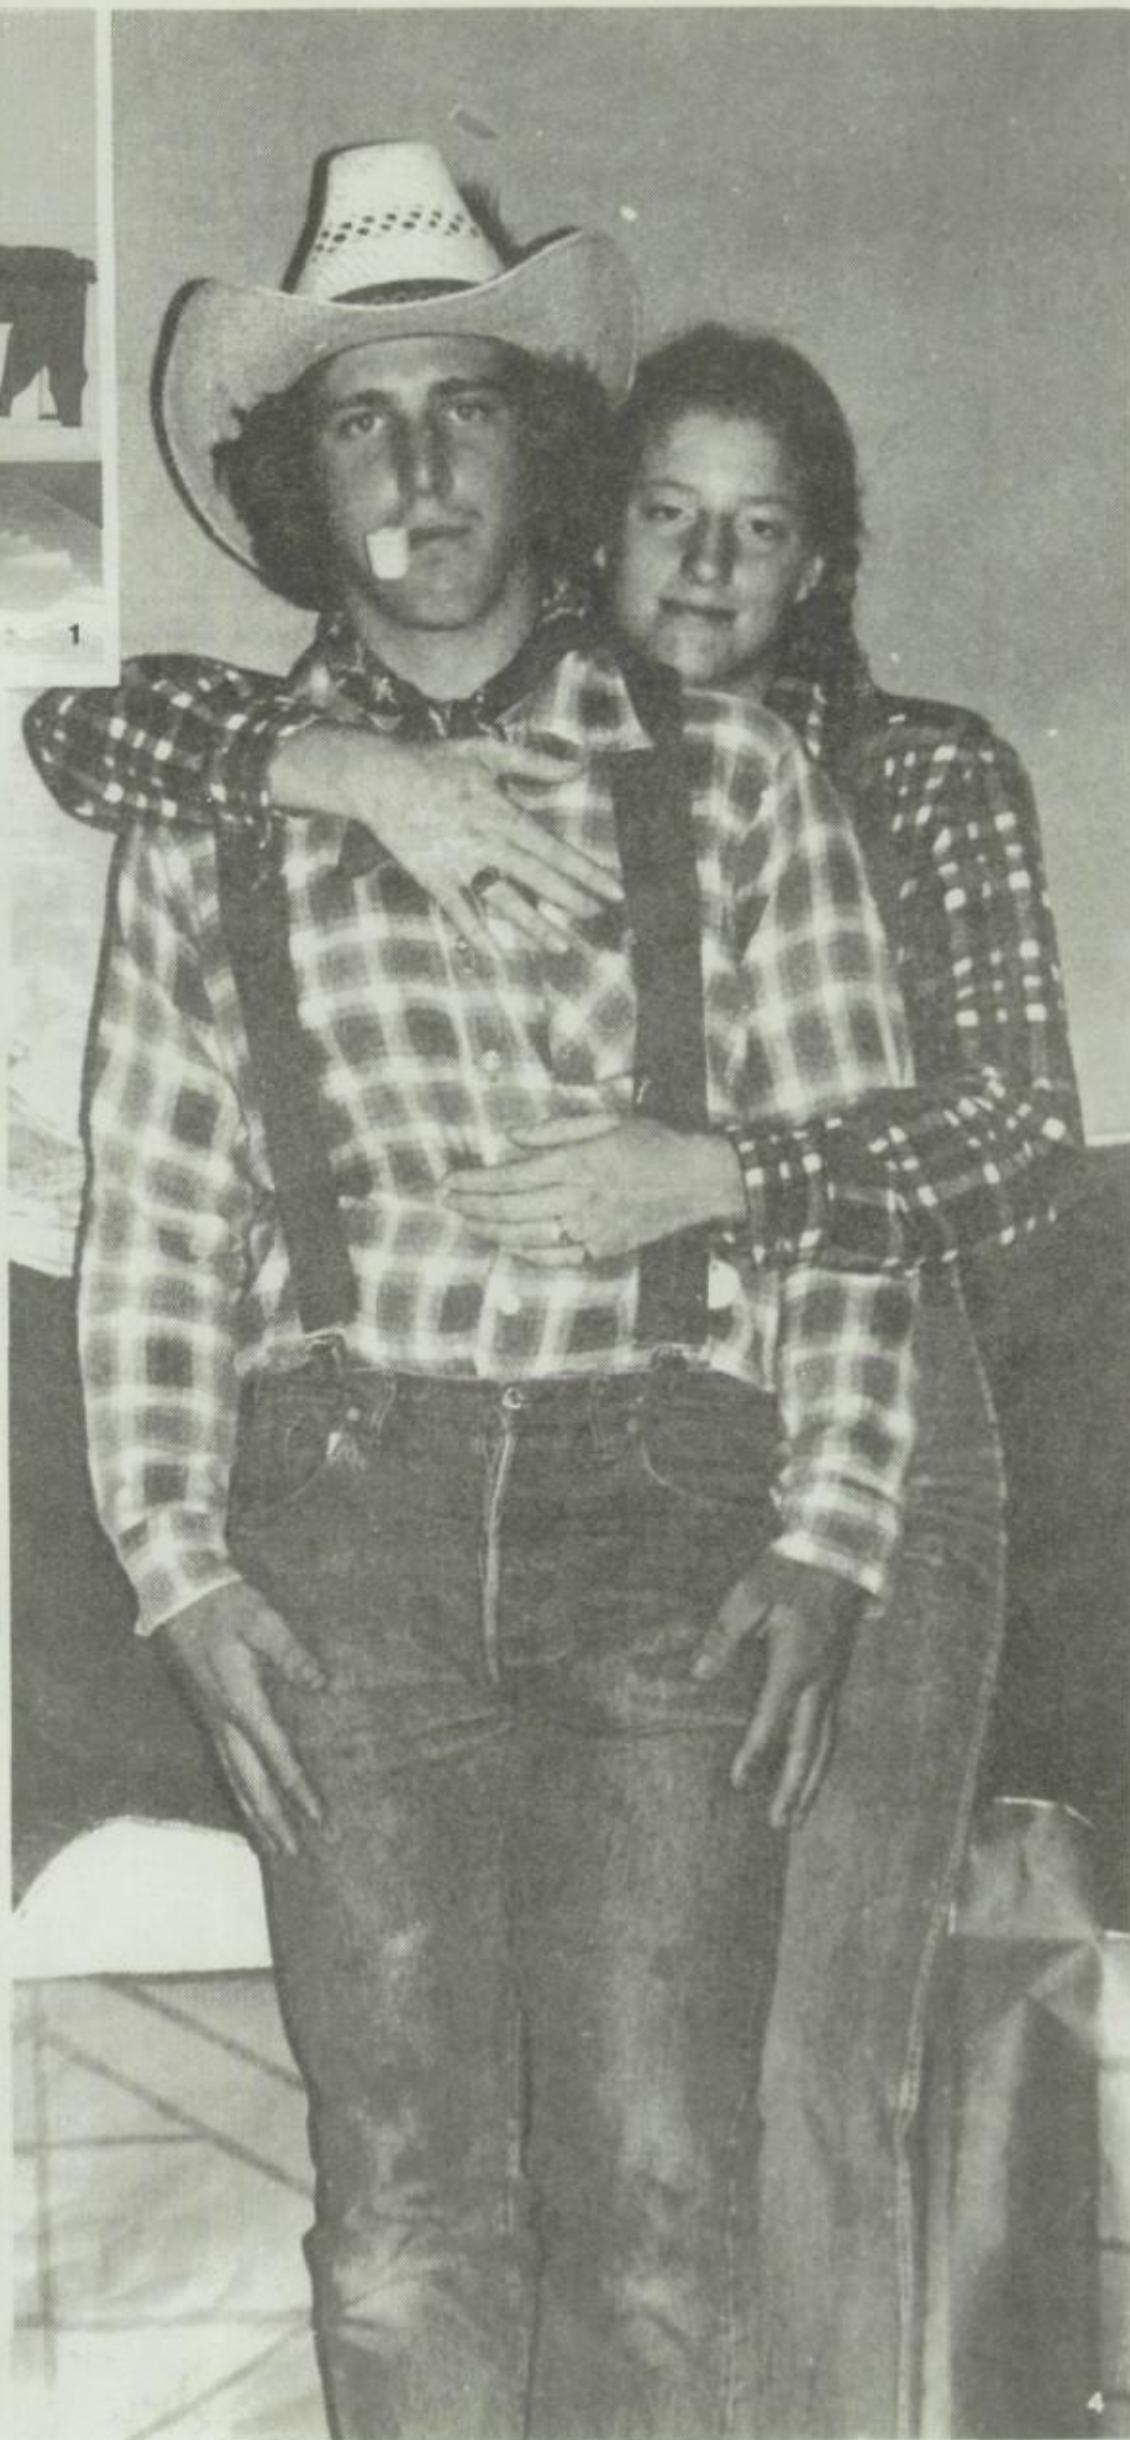

4. A group of students tempt a hungry donkey off the court with a carrot.

5. "Cactus" Clark Wisswell shows his own unique style of basketball atop his donkey.

6. After missing a free shot in the pep rally, Joe Olivier awaits his reward: a pie in the face from Mr. Jones.

CELEBRATING GOOD TIMES

1. Friends gather for a breather as the Sadie Hawkins dance gets under way.

2. Senior spokesperson, Terry Hicks awards Mr. Carter with a plaque for teaching at Kearny for 24 years.

3. Eating spoonfuls of pie while blindfolded is not as easy as it looks, as many found out during the Senior Class sponsored Contest.

4. A couple that got "hit-ched," Bill Hodgeson and Tanya Wagner, strike a tired pose.

5. This group of seafaring students had a whale of a time on the Komet Kruise.

6. Birthday week began as Mr. Carter symbolically cut the ribbons.

This year's A.S.B. Ball was a floating success.

Students sailed the night away February 13 on the Komet Kruise. The boat cruised in and around the harbors of San Diego. The turnout wasn't spectacular, but the spirit was in full speed ahead.

Another A.S.B. sponsored dance was the Sadie Hawkins dance. Most of the spirited folks brought out their straw hats and suspenders so they could have a real old fashion country dance. That night scores of people got married, (they had a mock justice of the peace,) and had their pictures taken together.

During April 20-24 we celebrated Birthday Week, to commemorate the birthday of Stephan Watts Kearny. Starting Monday, the student body honored Mr. Carter the teacher with the most seniority. (24 years!) He was awarded a plaque and Girl's League baked several cakes to pass out to the students.

On Wednesday, the Senior Class sponsored an Apple Pie Eating Contest. Partners who participated were blind folded and one had to shovel spoons full of pie into the others mouth.

Leaving a gap in the week, the Junior Class Musical Chair competition, and the Box Lunch Social scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday, were cancelled due to mix-ups.

To finally close off Birthday Week, there was a pep rally in the big gym on Friday during lunch. Many people came to see the candidates for J.V. and Varsity Cheer.

SKY/SLIDE SHOWS

END YEAR

ON HIGH NOTE

May 5 started out just like any other day, with Kearny students tending to their daily burden of classes. By 4th period, however, these same students were rocking to the sounds of Styx, Led Zeppelin and the Beatles. This abrupt change in the curriculum was the A.S.B. sponsored 91X Slide Show.

The show featured over 800 slides from weekend activities such as surfing and motorcycling, to today's top rock groups. Also included were slides of Kearny students. The music was top Rock. Despite the overwhelming reaction to the show, it was topped 4 days later by the KGB Sky-show.

The 6th annual fireworks show was preceded by a day of Balloon races and tailgating, not only in the stadium parking lot, but from all good vantage points overlooking Mission Valley. At 9:45 that Saturday night, a crowd of over 50,000, who had just watched the California Surf beat the San Diego Sockers 2-1, plus an estimated 100,000 who lined the hills of Mission Valley tuned their radios to 101.5 FM. The fireworks were more precise than ever, keeping near perfect timing with the audio simulcast. By 10:15 the stands had cleared... for more tailgating.

JOURNALISM

COMPETITIONS

For the first time in Kearny's history, members of both the Galaxy and Komet staffs joined forces in the local San Diego County Journalism Education Association Write-Offs. Galaxy winners were: Joyce Gaffney, 8th, news; Sue Infantino, 10th, news; Tony Qualin, 10th, editorials; Randy Montesanto, 15th, sports; Dyana D'Amico, 16th, editorial cartooning. The yearbook team of Luci Lagrimas, Debbie Hardin and Donna Salini won 2nd in photo selection and cropping, 1st in layout design, 1st in copy writing and 1st in Yearbook Sweepstakes. Together, the Komet and the Galaxy won the Grand Sweepstakes... a first for Kearny!

The 3 Komet staffers, plus editor Susie Secord, and Mr. Jones attended a 3 day National Write-Off Competition and Convention, held in the Disneyland Hotel. 1000 contestants from all over the United States competed. Susie captured a 4th in cover design and theme, and Luci placed 3rd in layout design.

The yearbook staff once again teamed up with the Galaxy winners and competed in the Southern California Write-Off Finals. The yearbook team of Luci Lagrimas, Debbie Hardin, Susie Secord, and Angela Dukes came home victoriously once again... this time placing 3rd in all 3 divisions.

FAREWELL TO ...

The Seniors of 1981 are not the only people who will not be at Kearny next year... it is very probable that 6 or 7 teachers will also be gone.

After 9 years at KHS, English teacher Judy Stell is transferring to the School of Creative and Performing Arts at O'Farrell. Although she is sad to leave, she is anticipating the independent studies and creative atmosphere. Stell commented: "The goals of the students and my goals will be closer."

The notorious "wild and crazy" physics teacher, Clint Owen, is moving on to University City High School. Owen will be developing the curriculum, selecting the policies and philosophies as head of the science department.

Another science teacher, William Reed, will also go to University City High. Because of the "dwindling" science community at KHS, Reed is looking forward to a new school.

After coaching baseball for 25 years, Jack Taylor is retiring. Taylor commented: "I want to go out quietly." Earl Thompson will also retire from Drivers' Training.

Other teachers such as John Hansen, Robert Graeff and Timothy Short were "declared in excess," and will probably be leaving also. Graeff will probably go to Hoover and Short plans to begin a new career.

To My sexy friend Donna
Well it looks like the year has come to a short end. I'll always remember the times we shared, and the ways we were, keep your sexy, flirtatious and flirty ways because to me your somewhere in the hell up there by Numero uno
Love and friendship
Always gr. Smooth RDR
Leonard Flake,

Donna
Well it's all over, (bitchen)
I'm glad we made it. I knew you better in tabt and I always thought you were really a bittchen woman. I guess we both slightly went our own ways if you know what I mean but I still wish we could have become better friends.
So you take care of yourself and have a good life. I love ya.
right on "811" Love Mike T.

Donna,
Well Congratulations you made it! You're so sweet + pretty wonder why I never really met you sooner? I wish you the best in everything in your future. I'll remember how nice you are to everyone. Guy you practically saved my grade in Doncheski's I'm grateful to you for all the homework you let me copy. I hope you have a beautiful summer + enjoy. This year went by so quickly. You just have to come visit us next year. I have 2 more yrs to go. See you at La Jolla probably, Take care.

Love & Friendship Always,

Sylvia Perez
